Dr. Sam Three Times Denies Wife's Murder

Cites Police Brutality In Quizzing Him

Defendant Says He Was Cursed, Offered A Lighter Sentence

CLEVELAND, Dec. 10 (AP)—Dr. Samuel Sheppard thrice denied his wife's July 4 murder today, and said the slain Marilyn Sheppard "is absolutely in my corner." He is on trial for his life in the slaying.

He also testified police cursed him after his arrest July 30 and practically guaranteed him a lighter manslaughter sentence, rather than a first-degree murder charge, if he would confess. He never has confessed.

"I told them I couldn't confess to something I didn't do," the 30-year-old osteopath replied.

He was still under defense questioning when the trial recessed for the weekend. The defense said it has about half a day of additional direct examination before it turns him over to the state for his ordeal of cross-examination. That will be the acid test of his story.

Bore Up Under Strain

Earlier Dr. Sheppard told how he bore up under the strain of accusation because "Marilyn was in my corner and right beside me."

"Do you feel she is in your corner now?" he was asked.

"She's absolutely in my corner," the defendant replied.

Sheppard said police interrogators during an 11-hour grilling after his arrest called him "a dirty low down S.O.B."

He said they told him people would point at his little son for years to come, and say "his father killed his mother."

Continuing his description of police interrogation methods, Dr. Sheppard testified that pictures of his wife's bloody body were thrust before his face, where he was forced to look at them momentarily.

"Then I closed my eyes," he added. He said the policemen demanded of him:

"Sam, why did you do it? Why did you kill your wife?"

"Then he put his hands over his head like this and went like this and said, 'Down, down, down, down.' "

Dr. Sheppard put his hands above and gestured as though bringing a club or some instrument down upon his wife's head.

Denies Killing Wife

"I told them I didn't do it," Dr. Sheppard continued. "I couldn't do it to any human or any animal. I couldn't possibly have done such a thing under any circumstances. I told the officers Marilyn was going to have a baby and both of us were very pleased about it. The officers questioned the fact of my being the father of the baby. They also examined my arms for hypodermic needle marks."

"To determine if you were a dope fiend," Corrigan asked.

"That was my assumption," Dr. Sheppard replied.

When the accusation was first made against him on the murder day by a Cleveland detective, Dr. Sheppard testified:

"I was shocked upon shock. I believe I said, 'Oh God, no.' Or I may have said, 'My God, don't be ridiculous.' "

Hemingway, Four Other Americans Get Nobel Prizes

STOCKHOLM, Dec. 10 (AP)—Author Ernest Hemingway received his Nobel prize today along with four other Americans and two Germans. The novelist also received a hint that "brutal, cynical and callous sides" to his earlier works delayed the coveted international recognition.

King Gustav Adolf VI presented the 1954 awards amid traditional royal pageantry. The seven winners share the equivalent of $140,000. Dr. Linus Pauling, California Institute of Technology, received the chemistry award. Drs. John F. Enders of Harvard, Thomas H. Weller of the Harvard School of Public Health and Frederick C. Robbins of Cleveland's Western Reserve Medical School, shared the medicine prize for their research in the fight against polio. Two German doctors, Max Born and Walter Bothe, shared the physics prize.

The hint of conflict among the members of the Royal Swedish Academy of Literature over awarding the prize to Hemingway came in the presentation speech of Prof. Anders Osterling, who was known to have supported the American's candidacy.

"Hemingway's earlier writings display brutal, cynical and callous sides which may be considered at variance with the Nobel prize's requirements for a work of an ideal tendency," he said.

Hemingway, 56, hailed by Prof. Osterling as "one of the greatest authors of our time," was the only American winner not present at the solemn ceremonies. He remained in Cuba nursing injuries suffered in African plane crashes. But Hemingway sent a statement read on his behalf by U. S. Ambassador J. Moors Cabot. It expressed humility in the acceptance of the prize.

"Writing, at its best, is a lonely life," Hemingway said. "Organizations for writers palliate the writer's loneliness, but I doubt if they improve his writing. He grows in public stature as he sheds his loneliness and often his work deteriorates. For he does his work alone and if he is a good enough writer he must face eternity, or the lack of it, each day."

Butler States Ike's Loyalty Unquestioned

But Demo Chairman Reserves Right To Point Out "Failures"

WASHINGTON, Dec. 10 (AP)—Chairman-elect Paul M. Butler of the Democratic National Committee said today he will never question the "loyalty or integrity" of President Eisenhower, but reserves the right to call attention to his "failures."

Butler told a crowd of about 50 reporters at his first Washington news conference that nothing "personal" was involved in his statement last Sunday at New Orleans that the President "lacked the capacity" to lead and unite the American people.

"As I have said," he declared, "I will never vilify the President, as Sen. McCarthy has this week, but all the roars of Chairman Hall and other Republicans will not deter me from calling attention to the failures of the President."

Treat Ike With Courtesy

Butler said Democratic spokesmen have consistently treated the President with courtesy and consideration, adding:

"Mr. Eisenhower would be a happier man if he were treated as well by his own party."

The 49-year-old, slightly built South Bend, Ind., attorney, elected at New Orleans last Saturday to succeed Stephen A. Mitchell, read a lengthy statement, then submitted to questioning.

One reporter, mindful that Mitchell was hand-picked as chairman by Adlai Stevenson, the party's 1952 presidential candidate, and that Butler was Mitchell's choice for chairman, asked jokingly whether the new chairman might establish two headquarters, one here and the other at Springfield, Ill., Stevenson's 1952 personal headquarters.

Surprised By Republican Howls

The newsman might as well have asked, "Are you going to work for Stevenson's renomination in 1956?"

Butler was ready for that. He said it would be presumptuous for him to assume there would be a need for a party headquarters in Illinois.

In his formal statement, Butler expressed surprise at "Republican howls of indignation" over his remark that Eisenhower lacked the capacity to lead. Republican Chairman Leonard W. Hall had said last Monday that Butler's criticism meant the Democrats had "thrown into the ashcan" their pledge to cooperate with the President.

Ike, Truman Praise Marshall

WASHINGTON, Dec. 10 (AP)—President Eisenhower and former President Truman paid tribute to Gen. George C. Marshall tonight in letters sent to a dinner honoring Marshall's services as World War II Army chief of staff.

Eisenhower said of his former commander:

"As soldier, statesman and citizen, General Marshall has rendered to our country service of unexcelled distinction and patriotism. His life is an example of integrity and devotion to country . . ."

This tribute again underscored the cleavage between the President and Sen. McCarthy (R-Wis) who denounced Marshall as a liar in a Senate speech in 1951 and accused him of siding with Russia in historic decisions which "lost the peace" for America.

Former President Truman wrote, "I think as highly of Gen. Marshall as one man can think of another. He was the great man of the second world war; he was a great secretary of state; he was a great secretary of defense, and was one of the greatest ambassadors that I had in my presidential family."

At tonight's dinner the American Veterans of World War II and Korea—Amvets—presented Marshall with a silver-steel helmet symbolic of his wartime leadership.

SANTA MONICA, Calif., Dec. 10 (AP)—Alan W. Livingston, a record company executive who plans to marry actress Betty Hutton, was sued for divorce today by his wife of 10 years.

Sailors Have Troubles

Three sailors and a Navy officer who started "Operation Toy," a big collection of gifts at Corpus Christi, Tex., Naval Air Station, run into trouble in New York with their presents after police towed away their car for illegal parking. They need the auto to return with the toys for orphans and crippled children. The gifts are from a confection concern for 54,000 wrappers. Left to right are Melvin D. Bech, Sunnyside, Wash.; Lt. (jg) Tom Francis, Erie, Pa.; Rupert M. Crabb Jr., New York; and Harry T. Mitchell, Nashville, Tenn.

CIO Supports Plan For Union Wage Guarantee

LOS ANGELES, Dec. 10 (AP)—The CIO ended a week-long convention today with a pledge to back up member unions in demanding that employers accept guaranteed annual wage plans in 1955.

Delegates unanimously passed a resolution saying that major industries should put aside funds to supplement present state unemployment compensations for at least a year when workers lost their jobs.

Walter Reuther, elected without opposition to a new term as CIO president, pledged that the 1½ million member CIO Auto Workers Union, which he also heads, will win a guaranteed wage plan in conflicts with the auto industry next year.

The convention's resolution said, "We recognize that large employers should accept responsibility for providing regular employment, or failing that, regular wages, while workers are out of jobs.

The emphasis on "large employers" appeared to indicate some doubt within the CIO of the wisdom, for the time being at least, of smaller firms committing themselves to guaranteed wage plans.

Employer groups have argued that just as individual workers have no control over economic ups and downs affecting employment, neither have individual firms. However, the CIO resolution said it was contemplated that an employer's liability under guaranteed wage plans would be limited "to a certain per cent of his payroll."

"Such a limited liability approach is the answer to the argument that guaranteed wage plans would result in an impossible burden," the resolution said.

Two major concerns seemed to dominate the week-long convention sessions. One was maintaining employment and wage levels. The other the prospective mergings of the CIO and the AFL.

Chambers Opposed To Labor Law Repeals

WASHINGTON, Dec. 10 (AP)—The Council of State Chambers of Commerce went on record today against repealing state laws which bar the union shop.

In a telegram to President Eisenhower, the council's Labor Relations Committee said it hoped the administration would not adopt the suggestion of Secretary of Labor Mitchell.

Mitchell told the CIO convention in Los Angeles Tuesday that he thought state laws barring the union ship "undermine the basic strength of labor organizations" and should be repealed.

Truman To Speak

KANSAS CITY, Dec. 10 (AP)—Former President Harry S. Truman plans to fly to Philadelphia Sunday and on Monday night will speak at a dinner to benefit the Truman Memorial Library.

Trio Of Armed Men Have 41 Guns On Persons

LOUISVILLE, Ky., Dec. 10 (AP)—Police arrested three men last night and found 41 guns on them.

The men were picked up shortly after prowlers had been reported around a gun repair shop.

Two of them were carrying shotguns and one had a .22 rifle.

Closer inspection revealed the trio's pockets were bulging with firearms and others were tucked under their belts — a total of 38 pistols and revolvers.

John T. Maddox Jr., 23, Marvin G. McIntyre, 29, and Alford Lee Cunningham, 24, were charged with storehouse breaking.

Coal Operators Ask Protection

WASHINGTON, Dec. 10 (AP)—The National Coal Assn. today called on Congress to protect the depressed bituminous industry from "unfair competition" by natural gas, foreign fuel oil, and federally subsidized atomic power plants.

The association's board of directors closed a two-day conference on industry problems here by adopting two resolutions seeking federal action to relieve present and prospective "economic distress" in the coal fields.

The coal men noted that the new atomic energy law authorized government funds to subsidize the building and operation of nuclear reactors "for the commercial production and sale of nuclear power."

The directors called on Congress and the executive branch to take steps necessary to bar the use of public funds for the creation of "a network of government-owned or government-subsidized plants" to produce and sell electric power from nuclear reactors. The coal men also asked for legislation to assure that, until atomic power plants can compete without subsidy, no plants producing and selling atomic power in commercial markets be located in any of the market areas normally served by coal.

The second resolution asked all producers, dealers and workers in the industry to support legislation curbing the rapid growth of the natural gas industry and the "depletion" of the nation's gas reserves.

Brownell Asks Aid To Fight Narcotics

WHITE SULPHUR SPRINGS, W. Va., Dec. 10 (AP)—U. S. Atty. Gen. Herbert Brownell asked attorneys general of the states and territories tonight to work with the federal government against illegal narcotics traffic and monopolies that restrain trade.

Brownell told the state officials, gathered in this mountain resort for their annual meeting:

"In these two fields, as in others where federal-state cooperation has been so fruitful, we can together make a significant contribution to our country's welfare."

Banking Group Differs On FHA Work Criticism

WASHINGTON, Dec. 10 (AP) — Major differences between Republican and Democratic members of the Senate Banking Committee were reported today on how far they should go in criticizing operations of the Federal Housing Administration and the building industry.

The committee is scheduled to make public Dec. 15 its report on an eight-month investigation of "housing scandals" around the country, but Sen. Sparkman (D-Ala) said he hoped for a delay.

Sparkman asserted he is "greatly disturbed" because the report as now written "blankets in entirely too much and does not give an accurate picture of what really happened."

"I don't want to see a condemnation of the whole building industry just because it contains a few bad actors," he said.

He added that he is "hopeful" Sen. Capehart (R-Ind), chairman of the committee, will "not insist on filing the report until the 20th so as to give an opportunity toward working out major differences we have on what the report should say."

Capehart, who returned recently from South America, was out of town and could not be reached for comment.

He has said that builders and sponsors pocketed a billion dollars in "windfall" profits under a post World War II apartment housing program. The profits were realized, Capehart said, from an excess of FHA-insured building loans over actual construction costs.

Boy Scout Gets Life For Slaying Woman

WINCHESTER, England, Dec. 10 (AP) — A Boy Scout was convicted today of murdering the 74-year-old spinster who issued his troop's scout badges.

A judge sentenced 17-year-old Barry Musson to be "detained during Her Majesty's pleasure" — equivalent of a life sentence.

The prosecution charged Musson stabbed Miss Amy Lloyd 29 times because she threatened to expose him for forging certificates that won him scout merit badges as a signaller, pathfinder and rescuer. Musson admitted the forgeries in court but denied he was the killer.

Carrier Forrestal Christening Today

WASHINGTON, Dec. 10 (AP)—The launching of the supercarrier Forrestal got under way today.

The Navy said the sea valves in the big graving dock at Newport News, Va., where the 60,000-ton ship has been under construction, were opened at 4 a.m., to have the ship afloat by the time of the ceremonial christening at noon tomorrow.

Molotov Warns Against Arming Of West Germany

MOSCOW, Dec. 10 (AP)—Foreign Minister V. M. Molotov, speaking tonight at an unusual rally honoring the French-Soviet alliance, once more warned France and the other Western Powers against creating a West Germany army.

He said rearming of West Germans and their integration with Western forces would force the Soviet Union and its allies to create forces "no less strong."

Molotov warned: "If need be the Soviet Union will demonstrate its might and the righteousness of our case."

In a hall decorated with French and Soviet flags and in an address observing the 10th anniversary of the signature of the French-Soviet alliance, Molotov said no force in the world is "strong enough to stop the march of communism."

Sen. Millikin Predicts Ike Will Win Again

WASHINGTON, Dec. 10 (AP)—Sen. Millikin (R-Colo) said today he expects no major Republican split and "there already is an irresistible demand that the President be a candidate for another term."

Milliken, chairman of the Conference of All Republican Senators, added in an interview:

"And I don't think he can be beaten if he runs."

There has been some talk of a party split arising from the almost even Republican vote on the question of whether to rebuke Sen. McCarthy (R-Wis) and McCarthy's subsequent angry charge that President Eisenhower is weak toward communism.

Millkin' voted for one count against McCarthy but voted against the final two-count resolution by which the Senate voted 67-22 to condemn McCarthy's conduct.

"I don't expect any split in the Republican party and neither do I expect any third party movement," Millikin said. He forecast "a tightening and consolidation of Republican lines both in Congress and throughout the country during the next two years."

Millkin will have been a senator for 20 years on Dec. 20. He will be up for re-election in 1956 unless he decides to withdraw.

Sen. Goldwater (R-Ariz), who voted against condemning McCarthy's conduct, also predicted that "as the President displays his leadership more and more, the Republican party will become more and more a cohesive unit."

Nobel Winner's Wife Gets Partial Payment

STOCKHOLM, Sweden, Dec. 10 (AP)—West Germany today made partial amends to Carl von Ossietsky, Nobel peace prize winner who died in 1938 without ever having received a cent from his $39,303 award made two years earlier. Hitler's hate, Gestapo thievery and a crooked lawyer all deprived him of the money.

At a ceremony in the German legation Mrs. Rosalinde Ossietsky-Palm, only child of Von Ossietsky, was handed a check by West German Minister Dr. Siegfriend for $1,192.50. The sum was taken from a special fund by West Germany's President Theodor Heuss.

Condemns Spy Sentences Of 11 U. S. Fliers

Soviet Bloc Beaten By 45-5 Majority; Release Demanded

UNITED NATIONS, N. Y., Dec. 10 (AP)—The U. N. Assembly by the smashing vote of 45-5 today condemned Red China for jailing 11 American airmen as spies.

It appealed to Secretary General Dag Hammarskjold to do his utmost to obtain their release and that of hundreds of other U. N. personnel captured in the Korean War and still detained by Peiping.

Hammarskjold immediately accepted the responsibility, saying, "I will do all in my power to serve the interests of the organization."

Set Machinery In Motion

He already had set in motion the machinery of his office but he declined to indicate what steps were being taken. It is known that he regards this case as perhaps the greatest challenge ever to face the secretary general since the U. N. began work in 1946.

Stubborn Soviet bloc resistance to the resolution and its repeated claims the airmen were "spies" who got what they deserved indicated the Red Chinese, as of the present, will ignore the U. N. action. An Indian attempt on a tentative basis to see what could be done has been firmly rebuffed by Peiping.

Only the Soviet bloc members voted against the condemnation, which was contained in a resolution put up last Monday by the United States and its 15 U. N. partners in the Korean War.

Six countries, Afghanistan, Burma, India, Indonesia, Yemen and Yugoslavia, abstained. Four other members, Costa Rica, El Salvador, Saudi Arabia and Syria were absent but Syria had served notice it was opposed to the condemnation. The others said nothing.

The vote came at 3:50 p.m., after hours of day and night wrangling between the East and West. It was the second time the U. N. Assembly has condemned Red China, which has sought a seat in the U. N. as a "peace-loving" country.

On Feb. 1, 1951, more than two months after Red Chinese hordes poured into the Korean War against the U. N., the Assembly voted 44-7 to find Communist China guilty of aggression. On that vote, the Soviet bloc of five plus India and Burma voted against the resolution of aggression. Nine countries abstained at that time—Afghanistan, Egypt, Indonesia, Pakistan, Saudi Arabia, Sweden, Syria, Yemen and Yugoslavia. In today's vote, Egypt, Pakistan and Sweden switched to the column condemning the Red Chinese.

Furore Is Started

The furore in the Assembly on the airmen arose several days after Peiping announced in a Thanksgiving Day broadcast that 13 Americans had been convicted as spies. The group included 11 airmen and two civilians. Henry Cabot Lodge Jr., chief American delegate, on the orders of President Eisenhower and Secretary of State Dulles, brought the case here last week and was stoutly joined by Britain and the other Korean Allies.

Their resolution declared the detention and imprisonment of the 11 airmen and the detention of all other captured personnel of the U. N. Command desiring repatriation is a violation of the Korean armistice agreement.

Ike Stops Motor Caravan To Give Two Marines Ride

THURMONT, Md., Dec. 10 (AP)—President Eisenhower gave a couple of hitch-hiking Marines a surprise today by halting his motorcade and arranging a lift for them in another car in the caravan.

It happened on the outskirts of Washington near the start of the trip of the President and Mrs. Eisenhower to their weekend retreat in the Catoctin Mountains here.

The President's car stopped for a red traffic light just before turning on to the main highway and he spotted the two Marines around the corner trying to hitch a ride.

Eisenhower sent James J. Rowley, chief of the White House Secret Service detail, to invite the two youths into the caravan and they climbed into a car behind the chief executive's and rode about 40 miles, to Frederick, Md. The car in which they rode was carrying a Navy physician and the President's valet.

One of the Marines was Pfc. Harold D. Payne, 20, en route from Camp Lejeune, N. C., to his home in Akron, Ohio. Payne is married and his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Frank R. Duve, also live in Akron.

The other Marine was Pfc. William L. Weaver, 19, traveling from Camp Lejeune to St. Johns, Mich., and the nearby home of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Glen Weaver, in Dewitt, Mich.

The President and Mrs. Eisenhower arrived at Camp David here in midafternoon after the 65-mile drive from Washington. The President plans to return to the capital tomorrow afternoon to attend a dinner being given by the Gridiron Club, an organization of newspaper men, in the evening.

Son Is Taken From School So Father Can Teach Him

ST. PAUL, Minn., Dec. 10 (AP)—A St. Paul curio dealer insisted today on his right to educate his own son, even in the face of a threat of court action.

M. H. Alexander, about 60, a former teacher and newspaper reporter, took his son, Joris, 10, out of his fifth grade classes last Oct. 10.

He said he had discovered the boy had been permitted to "coast along from grade to grade, assimilating but little."

Dr. Forrest Conner, St. Paul superintendent of schools, wrote Alexander yesterday that he would file a criminal complaint against him unless the boy is back in school when classes resume Jan. 3 after Christmas vacation.

"I don't intend to return my boy to school Jan.3 or any other time," Alexander said today. "He is a boy who needs stimulation rarely encountered in the public school classroom. Tests show he is above average intelligence. I have sufficient assurance he needs private tutelage. I feel I am qualified to provide the instruction.

"We don't want our boy to become a living monument to official stupidity."

Dr. Conner said he could excuse the youngster if a "qualified" tutor were engaged, but added that until that is done, "I have no alternative but to enforce the attendance laws."

Alexander said he closes his shop five hours each day to instruct his son. The program includes all third to fifth grade subjects.

Alexander, who attended the University of Chicago, said he had taught in private schools in Davenport, Iowa, St. Louis and Chicago and had been a reporter years ago for the St. Louis Post-Dispatch, Chicago Evening Post, the St. Paul Daily News and the Davenport, Iowa Times.

The boy's mother is Shiela Alexander, author of the novel, "Walk With a Separate Pride."

The newsman might as well have asked, "Are you going to work for Stevenson's renomination in 1956?"

Butler was ready for that. He said it would be presumptuous for him to assume there would be a need for a party headquarters in Illinois.

In his formal statement, Butler expressed surprise at "Republican howls of indignation" over his remark that Eisenhower lacked the capacity to lead. Republican Chairman Leonard W. Hall had said last Monday that Butler's criticism meant the Democrats had "thrown into the ashcan" their pledge to cooperate with the President.

Ike, Truman Praise Marshall

WASHINGTON, Dec. 10 (AP)—President Eisenhower and former President Truman paid tribute to Gen. George C. Marshall tonight in letters sent to a dinner honoring Marshall's services as World War II Army chief of staff.

Eisenhower said of his former commander:

"As soldier, statesman and citizen, General Marshall has rendered to our country service of unexcelled distinction and patriotism. His life is an example of integrity and devotion to country . . ."

This tribute again underscored the cleavage between the President and Sen. McCarthy (R-Wis) who denounced Marshall as a liar in a Senate speech in 1951 and accused him of siding with Russia in historic decisions which "lost the peace" for America.

Former President Truman wrote, "I think as highly of Gen. Marshall as one man can think of another. He was the great man of the second world war; he was a great secretary of state; he was a great secretary of defense, and was one of the greatest ambassadors that I had in my presidential family."

At tonight's dinner the American Veterans of World War II and Korea—Amvets—presented Marshall with a silver-steel helmet symbolic of his wartime leadership.

Wife Seeks Divorce

SANTA MONICA, Calif., Dec. 10 (AP)—Alan W. Livingston, a record company executive who plans to marry actress Betty Hutton, was sued for divorce today by his wife of 10 years.

Sailors Have Troubles

Three sailors and a Navy officer who started "Operation Toy," a big collection of gifts at Corpus Christi, Tex., Naval Air Station, run into trouble in New York with their presents after police towed away their car for illegal parking. They need the auto to return with the toys for orphans and crippled children. The gifts are from a confection concern for 54,000 wrappers. Left to right are Melvin D. Bech, Sunnyside, Wash.; Lt. (jg) Tom Francis, Erie, Pa.; Rupert M. Crabb Jr., New York; and Harry T. Mitchell, Nashville, Tenn.

CIO Supports Plan For Union Wage Guarantee

LOS ANGELES, Dec. 10 (AP)—The CIO ended a week-long convention today with a pledge to back up member unions in demanding that employers accept guaranteed annual wage plans in 1955.

Delegates unanimously passed a resolution saying that major industries should put aside funds to supplement present state unemployment compensations for at least a year when workers lost their jobs.

Walter Reuther, elected without opposition to a new term as CIO president, pledged that the 1½ million member CIO Auto Workers Union, which he also heads, will win a guaranteed wage plan in conflicts with the auto industry next year.

The convention's resolution said, "We recognize that large employers should accept responsibility for providing regular employment, or failing that, regular wages, while workers are out of jobs.

The emphasis on "large employers" appeared to indicate some doubt within the CIO of the wisdom, for the time being at least, of smaller firms committing themselves to guaranteed wage plans.

Employer groups have argued that just as individual workers have no control over economic ups and downs affecting employment, neither have individual firms. However, the CIO resolution said it was contemplated that an employer's liability under guaranteed wage plans would be limited "to a certain per cent of his payroll."

"Such a limited liability approach is the answer to the argument that guaranteed wage plans would result in an impossible burden," the resolution said.

Two major concerns seemed to dominate the week-long convention sessions. One was maintaining employment and wage levels. The other the prospective mergings of the CIO and the AFL.

Chambers Opposed To Labor Law Repeals

WASHINGTON, Dec. 10 (AP)—The Council of State Chambers of Commerce went on record today against repealing state laws which bar the union shop.

In a telegram to President Eisenhower, the council's Labor Relations Committee said it hoped the administration would not adopt the suggestion of Secretary of Labor Mitchell.

Mitchell told the CIO convention in Los Angeles Tuesday that he thought state laws barring the union ship "undermine the basic strength of labor organizations" and should be repealed.

Truman To Speak

KANSAS CITY, Dec. 10 (AP)—Former President Harry S. Truman plans to fly to Philadelphia Sunday and on Monday night will speak at a dinner to benefit the Truman Memorial Library.

Trio Of Armed Men Have 41 Guns On Persons

LOUISVILLE, Ky., Dec. 10 (AP)—Police arrested three men last night and found 41 guns on them.

The men were picked up shortly after prowlers had been reported around a gun repair shop.

Two of them were carrying shotguns and one had a .22 rifle.

Closer inspection revealed the trio's pockets were bulging with firearms and others were tucked under their belts — a total of 38 pistols and revolvers.

John T. Maddox Jr., 23, Marvin G. McIntyre, 29, and Alford Lee Cunningham, 24, were charged with storehouse breaking.

Coal Operators Ask Protection

WASHINGTON, Dec. 10 (AP)—The National Coal Assn. today called on Congress to protect the depressed bituminous industry from "unfair competition" by natural gas, foreign fuel oil, and federally subsidized atomic power plants.

The association's board of directors closed a two-day conference on industry problems here by adopting two resolutions seeking federal action to relieve present and prospective "economic distress" in the coal fields.

The coal men noted that the new atomic energy law authorized government funds to subsidize the building and operation of nuclear reactors "for the commercial production and sale of nuclear power."

The directors called on Congress and the executive branch to take steps necessary to bar the use of public funds for the creation of "a network of government-owned or government-subsidized plants" to produce and sell electric power from nuclear reactors. The coal men also asked for legislation to assure that, until atomic power plants can compete without subsidy, no plants producing and selling atomic power in commercial markets be located in any of the market areas normally served by coal.

The second resolution asked all producers, dealers and workers in the industry to support legislation curbing the rapid growth of the natural gas industry and the "depletion" of the nation's gas reserves.

Brownell Asks Aid To Fight Narcotics

WHITE SULPHUR SPRINGS, W. Va., Dec. 10 (AP)—U. S. Atty. Gen. Herbert Brownell asked attorneys general of the states and territories tonight to work with the federal government against illegal narcotics traffic and monopolies that restrain trade.

Brownell told the state officials, gathered in this mountain resort for their annual meeting:

"In these two fields, as in others where federal-state cooperation has been so fruitful, we can together make a significant contribution to our country's welfare."

Banking Group Differs On FHA Work Criticism

WASHINGTON, Dec. 10 (AP)—Major differences between Republican and Democratic members of the Senate Banking Committee were reported today on how far they should go in criticizing operations of the Federal Housing Administration and the building industry.

The committee is scheduled to make public Dec. 15 its report on an eight-month investigation of "housing scandals" around the country, but Sen. Sparkman (D-Ala) said he hoped for a delay.

Sparkman asserted he is "greatly disturbed" because the report as now written "blankets in entirely too much and does not give an accurate picture of what really happened."

"I don't want to see a condemnation of the whole building industry just because it contains a few bad actors," he said.

He added that he is "hopeful" Sen. Capehart (R-Ind), chairman of the committee, will "not insist on filing the report until the 20th so as to give an opportunity toward working out major differences we have on what the report should say."

Capehart, who returned recently from South America, was out of town and could not be reached for comment.

He has said that builders and sponsors pocketed a billion dollars in "windfall" profits under a post World War II apartment housing program. The profits were realized, Capehart said, from an excess of FHA-insured building loans over actual construction costs.

Boy Scout Gets Life For Slaying Woman

WINCHESTER, England, Dec. 10 (AP) — A Boy Scout was convicted today of murdering the 74-year-old spinster who issued his troop's scout badges.

A judge sentenced 17-year-old Barry Musson to be "detained during Her Majesty's pleasure" — equivalent of a life sentence.

The prosecution charged Musson stabbed Miss Amy Lloyd 29 times because she threatened to expose him for forging certificates that won him scout merit badges as a signaller, pathfinder and rescuer. Musson admitted the forgeries in court but denied he was the killer.

Carrier Forrestal Christening Today

WASHINGTON, Dec. 10 (AP)—The launching of the supercarrier Forrestal got under way today.

The Navy said the sea valves in the big graving dock at Newport News, Va., where the 60,000-ton ship has been under construction, were opened at 4 a.m., to have the ship afloat by the time of the ceremonial christening at noon tomorrow.

Molotov Warns Against Arming Of West Germany

MOSCOW, Dec. 10 (AP)—Foreign Minister V. M. Molotov, speaking tonight at an unusual rally honoring the French-Soviet alliance, once more warned France and the other Western Powers against creating a West Germany army.

He said rearming of West Germans and their integration with Western forces would force the Soviet Union and its allies to create forces "no less strong."

Molotov warned: "If need be the Soviet Union will demonstrate its might and the righteousness of our case."

In a hall decorated with French and Soviet flags and in an address observing the 10th anniversary of the signature of the French-Soviet alliance, Molotov said no force in the world is "strong enough to stop the march of communism."

Sen. Millikin Predicts Ike Will Win Again

WASHINGTON, Dec. 10 (AP)—Sen. Millikin (R-Colo) said today he expects no major Republican split and "there already is an irresistible demand that the President be a candidate for another term."

Milliken, chairman of the Conference of All Republican Senators, added in an interview:

"And I don't think he can be beaten if he runs."

There has been some talk of a party split arising from the almost even Republican vote on the question of whether to rebuke Sen. McCarthy (R-Wis) and McCarthy's subsequent angry charge that President Eisenhower is weak toward communism.

Millkin' voted for one count against McCarthy but voted against the final two-count resolution by which the Senate voted 67-22 to condemn McCarthy's conduct.

"I don't expect any split in the Republican party and neither do I expect any third party movement," Millikin said. He forecast "a tightening and consolidation of Republican lines both in Congress and throughout the country during the next two years."

Millkin will have been a senator for 20 years on Dec. 20. He will be up for re-election in 1956 unless he decides to withdraw.

Sen. Goldwater (R-Ariz), who voted against condemning McCarthy's conduct, also predicted that "as the President displays his leadership more and more, the Republican party will become more and more a cohesive unit."

Nobel Winner's Wife Gets Partial Payment

STOCKHOLM, Sweden, Dec. 10 (AP)—West Germany today made partial amends to Carl von Ossietsky, Nobel peace prize winner who died in 1938 without ever having received a cent from his $39,303 award made two years earlier. Hitler's hate, Gestapo thievery and a crooked lawyer all deprived him of the money.

At a ceremony in the German legation Mrs. Rosalinde Ossietsky-Palm, only child of Von Ossietsky, was handed a check by West German Minister Dr. Siegfriend for $1,192.50. The sum was taken from a special fund by West Germany's President Theodor Heuss.

Condemns Spy Sentences Of 11 U. S. Fliers

Soviet Bloc Beaten By 45-5 Majority; Release Demanded

UNITED NATIONS, N. Y., Dec. 10 (AP)—The U. N. Assembly by the smashing vote of 45-5 today condemned Red China for jailing 11 American airmen as spies.

It appealed to Secretary General Dag Hammarskjold to do his utmost to obtain their release and that of hundreds of other U. N. personnel captured in the Korean War and still detained by Peiping.

Hammarskjold immediately accepted the responsibility, saying, "I will do all in my power to serve the interests of the organization."

Set Machinery In Motion

He already had set in motion the machinery of his office but he declined to indicate what steps were being taken. It is known that he regards this case as perhaps the greatest challenge ever to face the secretary general since the U. N. began work in 1946.

Stubborn Soviet bloc resistance to the resolution and its repeated claims the airmen were "spies" who got what they deserved indicated the Red Chinese, as of the present, will ignore the U. N. action. An Indian attempt on a tentative basis to see what could be done has been firmly rebuffed by Peiping.

Only the Soviet bloc members voted against the condemnation, which was contained in a resolution put up last Monday by the United States and its 15 U. N. partners in the Korean War.

Six countries, Afghanistan, Burma, India, Indonesia, Yemen and Yugoslavia, abstained. Four other members, Costa Rica, El Salvador, Saudi Arabia and Syria were absent but Syria had served notice it was opposed to the condemnation. The others said nothing.

The vote came at 3:50 p.m., after hours of day and night wrangling between the East and West. It was the second time the U. N. Assembly has condemned Red China, which has sought a seat in the U. N. as a "peace-loving" country.

On Feb. 1, 1951, more than two months after Red Chinese hordes poured into the Korean War against the U. N., the Assembly voted 44-7 to find Communist China guilty of aggression. On that vote, the Soviet bloc of five plus India and Burma voted against the resolution of aggression. Nine countries abstained at that time—Afghanistan, Egypt, Indonesia, Pakistan, Saudi Arabia, Sweden, Syria, Yemen and Yugoslavia. In today's vote, Egypt, Pakistan and Sweden switched to the column condemning the Red Chinese.

Furore Is Started

The furore in the Assembly on the airmen arose several days after Peiping announced in a Thanksgiving Day broadcast that 13 Americans had been convicted as spies. The group included 11 airmen and two civilians. Henry Cabot Lodge Jr., chief American delegate, on the orders of President Eisenhower and Secretary of State Dulles, brought the case here last week and was stoutly joined by Britain and the other Korean Allies.

Their resolution declared the detention and imprisonment of the 11 airmen and the detention of all other captured personnel of the U. N. Command desiring repatriation is a violation of the Korean armistice agreement.

Son Is Taken From School So Father Can Teach Him

ST. PAUL, Minn., Dec. 10 (AP)—A St. Paul curio dealer insisted today on his right to educate his own son, even in the face of a threat of court action.

M. H. Alexander, about 60, a former teacher and newspaper reporter, took his son, Joris, 10, out of his fifth grade classes last Oct. 10.

He said he had discovered the boy had been permitted to "coast along from grade to grade, assimilating but little."

Dr. Forrest Conner, St. Paul superintendent of schools, wrote Alexander yesterday that he would file a criminal complaint against him unless the boy is back in school when classes resume Jan. 3 after Christmas vacation.

"I don't intend to return my boy to school Jan.3 or any other time," Alexander said today. "He is a boy who needs stimulation rarely encountered in the public school classroom. Tests show he is above average intelligence. I have sufficient assurance he needs private tutelage. I feel I am qualified to provide the instruction.

"We don't want our boy to become a living monument to official stupidity."

Dr. Conner said he could excuse the youngster if a "qualified" tutor were engaged, but added that until that is done, "I have no alternative but to enforce the attendance laws."

Alexander said he closes his shop five hours each day to instruct his son. The program includes all third to fifth grade subjects.

Alexander, who attended the University of Chicago, said he had taught in private schools in Davenport, Iowa, St. Louis and Chicago and had been a reporter years ago for the St. Louis Post-Dispatch, Chicago Evening Post, the St. Paul Daily News and the Davenport, Iowa Times.

Former Prosecutor Denies Phenix City Vice Slaying

PHENIX CITY, Ala., Dec. 10 (AP)—Pale and nervous and after a night in jail, Prosecuting Atty. Arch Ferrell insisted defiantly today that "I am not a murderer" and "I did not kill Albert Patterson."

But another former ringleader of Phenix City's fallen vice empire, ex-Chief Deputy Sheriff Albert Fuller who was indicted for murder along with Ferrell yesterday, remained silent "on the advice of my attorney."

State authorities were ready to ask for speedy trials of the two former Phenix City big shots who faced possible death sentences for the June 18 killing of the crusading former state senator nominated for attorney general on a vice cleanup platform.

Acting Atty. Gen. Bernard Sykes who directed the Patterson murder investigation, said he hopes to start the trials early in January, probably Jan. 3.

The identity of a third defendant indicted along with Ferrell and Fuller, reportedly as an accessory after the slaying, was still kept secret because he has not been arrested.

Meanwhile, the grand jury which triggered the Phenix City vice housecleaning and climaxed the four months of hearings with the murder indictments, made its final report to Special Judge Walter B. Jones and was formally discharged.

The jurors asked the nation to take a new look at Phenix City and to cast aside the traditional labels, such as "vice-laden place," and to recognize the Chattahoochee River community now as a city "that has experienced moral recovery."

Guardsmen quoted the Negro, Jerry Washington, as saying he stabbed Johnnie Frank Griffin in the throat with a pocket knife after the man struck him. Officers said there was no apparent connection between that killing and the Patterson murder.

Ferrell, 37-year-old circuit solicitor who was one of the first authorities to investigate the vice crusader's death last June, gave a brief statement to newsmen from his jail cell today.

"I did not kill Albert Patterson," he declared in a voice shaken with emotion. "I had nothing to do with the killing of him. I am not a murderer, and I shall be ready to stand trial before a jury of my fellow men."

He said he doesn't know who killed Patterson, and "I don't know who does know."

Fuller, under armed guard at his home, where he has been bedridden since July 4 with a severe back injury, said his attorney had advised him to refrain from making any statement.

Patrolman Found Out Mishap's Cause

WAYNE, N. J., Dec. 10 (AP)—It didn't take Patrolman Thomas Mulvany long to find out what caused an auto crash he was sent to investigate.

Mulvany received a report that an auto had skidded last night on icy pavement and struck a utility pole.

As he got to within 300 feet of the accident scene, Mulvany's patrol car skidded on the same icy pavement and crashed into another utility pole.

Mulvany was treated for concussion.

Mrs. Estelle Girard, 32, who was driving home when the first accident occurred, suffered a broken right leg.

Butler Says Row Has Hurt Republicans

WASHINGTON, Dec. 10 (AP)—Paul M. Butler, new chairman of the Democratic National Committee, said today he believes the break between Sen. McCarthy (R-Wis) and President Eisenhower would be a "definite hindrance to the Republican party."

Butler made the statement to newsmen.

NEW YORK, Dec. 10 (AP)—American seismographs today recorded an earthquake in the Caribbean Sea.

PLEADS GUILTY—Jack Goldberg, 49, owner of a suburban Chicago auto agency told a district judge yesterday he failed to file income tax returns for 17 years while banking $2,230,000. He pleaded guilty to two charges of evasion.

Union Officials To Take Tests

HAGERSTOWN, Dec. 10 (AP)—Two top officials of a labor union local whose safe was robbed of $5,472 last weekend volunteered today to take lie-detector tests.

E. T. Michaels, president of the CIO-United Auto Workers Union Local 842, and Ken McCullough, vice president, offered to undergo the examination.

"I hope that others will take this test to absolve themselves of any blame or knowledge in connection with the robbery," said Michaels.

The head of the 8,000-member local said he and McCullough had offered to take the tests at Hagerstown police headquarters.

Investigators said the safe at the local's combination headquarters-social building was burglarized between Sunday afternoon and Monday morning.

It was the biggest Hagerstown safe burglary in the memory of veteran police officials.

They said there were no signs of forced entry into the union building and the safe itself was undamaged.

you?" asked defense attorney William J. Corrigan.

"No sir," replied the handsome, osteopath, his chin thrust forward, his head tilted up.

"After the accusation was made against you that you killed Marilyn, did you do anything about hiring a lawyer?"

"No sir, I didn't," Dr. Sheppard replied. "I felt the truth would display itself."

Q. You knew the truth would come out? A. Yes.

Q. And the accusation was false? A. Yes sir.

Q. And it is false? A. That's right.

Dr. Sheppard says a bushy-haired prowler beat his 31-year-old wife to death in her bed, then twice knocked him unconscious and left him on the Lake Erie beach of his suburban waterfront home.

The state says he killed Marilyn in a frenzy of murderous rage during a quarrel over his love affairs with other women.

In a tensely dramatic recital, Dr. Sheppard retold once more his version of Marilyn's slaying on a night of wild wind and horror.

He kept his eyes tightly closed during much of this testimony. His mouth worked convulsively between sentences. He seemed often on the verge of tears. But each time he pulled himself together and continued in precise, spaced phrases. He clenched his hands before his chest as though at prayer.

U. S. To Observe Geneva Pact In Vietnamese Aid

SAIGON, Viet Nam, Dec. 10 (AP)—The United States does not plan to bring in additional military personnel or equipment to aid in training the Vietnamese national army, well-informed sources say.

It will stay within the letter and the spirit of the Geneva agreement which ended the Indochina war.

There is more than enough American materiel available to supply 90 per cent of the reorganized Vietnamese army. This is the figure President Eisenhower's special ambassador Gen. J. Lawton Collins mentioned when he said the United States will participate in training the young national army.

There are enough men in the military aid advisory group to carry out the training program as now envisioned. If it is necessary to have more, they will be drawn from civilian technicians.

This is in general likely to be the reply the United States and France will make to Vietminh Foreign Minister Pham Van Dong's note to Russia and Britain charging American violation of the Geneva agreement.

In fact, under the plans now being studied by Collins, French Commander Gen. Paul Ely and Premier Ngo Dinh Diem, the Vietnamese army will be drastically shaken up and its size cut from approximately 200,000 to 90,000. At the same time, during the course of 1955 the French expeditionary corps will be sliced from 150,000 to 100,000.

Crosby Damage Suit Settled For $100,000

LOS ANGELES, Dec. 10 (AP)—A $1,051,400 auto accident damage suit against Bing Crosby was settled today for $100,000.

The settlement was announced in Superior Court today by the singer's lawyers as the case was coming to trial. A series of conferences between attorneys for both sides resulted in this announced split: $67,500 to Frank H. Verdugo, 33, Los Angeles fireman, driver of the second car in a collision with Crosby's sports car; $27,500 to his wife, Lucy, 29; and $5,000 to her brother, Eulalio Perea, 26.

Verdugo's injuries included spinal injuries and fractures and partial paralysis of his right arm and neck. His wife suffered a broken jaw and loss of 10 teeth. Perea's nose and left arm were broken.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 10 (AP)—The Justice Department said today an Immigration Service inquiry officer has ordered Cedric H. Belfrage, a New York writer, deported "on grounds of Communist party membership."

Gov. McKeldin Gets Buck First Time He Hunts

HANCOCK, Md., Dec. 10 (AP)—Gov. McKeldin went deer hunting today for the first time in his life.

He shot a good-sized, eight-point buck.

He also shot his limit of turkey, grouse and quail—two each.

The governor was a guest of the Woodmont Rod and Gun Club near this Washington County town, and of the club's secretary, Henry P. Bridges. Also in the hunting party were D. Eldred Rinehart, chairman of the Republican State Committee and of the Maryland Racing Commission; Allan F. Heller, Frank C. Wachter and Harry McKinley, all of Hancock; Bridge's son, S. Powell Bridges and State Police Cpl. Edward R. Mettee.

State To Parole Leak By Christmas

BALTIMORE, Dec. 10 (AP)—A Maryland man who walked away from prison and remained free 17 years until picked up last October is to be paroled by Christmas, officials said today.

Ulysses Leak, 43-year-old Negro, stayed out of trouble and raised a family during his years of freedom.

He was picked up in a routine investigation in October, and fingerprints showed him to be the man who fled a work gang at the reformatory in 1937. He had served just two months of 15-month assault term.

Director Resigns

RICHMOND, Va., Dec. 10 (AP)—City Personnel Director J. Fred Ogburn Jr. resigned today to become personnel manager for McCormick and Co., Inc., food manufacturers at Baltimore.

Ogburn, 40, has headed Richmond's personnel department since Oct. 15, 1952.

Legion To Check Illegal Displays

BALTIMORE, Dec. 10 (AP)—Daniel H. Burkhardt, State adjutant of the American Legion, said today Legion members will visit stores in their neighborhoods to make sure merchants selling Christmas tree ornaments and other foods made in Communist countries are properly displayed.

There is a penalty of a $5,000 fine or a one-year jail term for intentionally obscuring, covering or removing from an item the name of the country in which it was made.

"We want the buying public to have a chance to decide whether it will purchase merchandise from countries which have joined in the Communist conspiracy to destroy the United States," said Burkhardt.

Burkhardt said Christmas tree ornaments from Poland are being sold in some stores. He mentioned one such report from Parkville, Md., Legionnaires.

Last year, the Catholic War Veterans, Jewish War Veterans and the Veterans of Foreign Wars joined the Legion in a campaign against illegal display of Christmas ornaments from Communist countries.

Budget Includes Ship's Mounting

BALTIMORE, Dec. 10 (AP)—Gov. McKeldin says $50,000 of 1955-1956 budget money is slated for mounting the Constellation, the Navy's oldest fighting ship, in concrete at Ft. McHenry.

The General Assembly may review the proposal. Once the old ship has been removed from Boston harbor, restored and mounted, it might become self sustaining as a tourist attraction, the governor said.

West German Treaties Get Approval By Narrow Margin

BONN, Germany, Dec. 10 (AP)—The treaties to rearm West Germany cleared their first hurdles on the road to ratification in Bonn and Paris today.

But the attitudes of legislators in both countries showed many more obstacles remain before West Germans get the right to raise a 500,000-man force for NATO.

In Paris, the Foreign Affairs Committee of the French National Assembly recommended ratification of the treaties to restore German sovereignty, giving her the right to rearm and settle the troublesome Saar dispute.

But the Paris vote on the key treaty providing for rearmament was by the narrowest of margins, 16 to 15, with 11 abstentions. Later an independent deputy tried to change his positive vote to abstention, which would have made it 15-15 if he had been allowed to do so.

In Bonn, the Bundesrat (upper House) gave preliminary approval to all the treaties except the controversial Saar settlement. The Bundesrat said its position on this pact, which is most unpopular in West Germany, would be made known after the Bundestag (lower House) acts.

This was a storm signal of trouble to come for the Saar agreement, which the French insist must be accepted as their price for allowing German rearmament.

Chancellor Konrad Adenauer also faces the prospect of a critical loss of strength in the Bundesrat, which is due to be reshuffled following elections in the states of Bavaria and Hesse. It consists of ministers from the nine states.

Although Adenauer's party came out on top in Catholic Bavaria, it was shut out of the government by a surprising coalition of the Socialists and three right-wing parties in retaliation against the government's church-school policy.

The Bavarian branch of the Christian Democrat party said tonight the new coalition "in a frightening way endangers federal politics, especially the foreign policy of the Chancellor."

Acting Atty. Gen. Bernard Sykes who directed the Patterson murder investigation, said he hopes to start the trials early in January, probably Jan. 3.

The identity of a third defendant indicted along with Ferrell and Fuller, reportedly as an accessory after the slaying, was still kept secret because he has not been arrested.

Meanwhile, the grand jury which triggered the Phenix City vice housecleaning and climaxed the four months of hearings with the murder indictments, made its final report to Special Judge Walter B. Jones and was formally discharged.

The jurors asked the nation to take a new look at Phenix City and to cast aside the traditional labels, such as "vice-laden place," and to recognize the Chattahoochee River community now as a city "that has experienced moral recovery."

Guardsmen quoted the Negro, Jerry Washington, as saying he stabbed Johnnie Frank Griffin in the throat with a pocket knife after the man struck him. Officers said there was no apparent connection between that killing and the Patterson murder.

Ferrell, 37-year-old circuit solicitor who was one of the first authorities to investigate the vice crusader's death last June, gave a brief statement to newsmen from his jail cell today.

"I did not kill Albert Patterson," he declared in a voice shaken with emotion. "I had nothing to do with the killing of him. I am not a murderer, and I shall be ready to stand trial before a jury of my fellow men."

He said he doesn't know who killed Patterson, and "I don't know who does know."

Fuller, under armed guard at his home, where he has been bedridden since July 4 with a severe back injury, said his attorney had advised him to refrain from making any statement.

PLEADS GUILTY—Jack Goldberg, 49, owner of a suburban Chicago auto agency told a district judge yesterday he failed to file income tax returns for 17 years while banking $2,230,000. He pleaded guilty to two charges of evasion.

Patrolman Found Out Mishap's Cause

WAYNE, N. J., Dec. 10 (AP)—It didn't take Patrolman Thomas Mulvany long to find out what caused an auto crash he was sent to investigate.

Mulvany received a report that an auto had skidded last night on icy pavement and struck a utility pole.

As he got to within 300 feet of the accident scene, Mulvany's patrol car skidded on the same icy pavement and crashed into another utility pole.

Mulvany was treated for concussion.

Mrs. Estelle Girard, 32, who was driving home when the first accident occurred, suffered a broken right leg.

Butler Says Row Has Hurt Republicans

WASHINGTON, Dec. 10 (AP)—Paul M. Butler, new chairman of the Democratic National Committee, said today he believes the break between Sen. McCarthy (R-Wis) and President Eisenhower would be a "definite hindrance to the Republican party."

Butler made the statement to newsmen.

Quake Recorded

NEW YORK, Dec. 10 (AP)—American seismographs today recorded an earthquake in the Caribbean Sea.

Union Officials To Take Tests

HAGERSTOWN, Dec. 10 (AP)—Two top officials of a labor union local whose safe was robbed of $5,472 last weekend volunteered today to take lie-detector tests.

E. T. Michaels, president of the CIO-United Auto Workers Union Local 842, and Ken McCullough, vice president, offered to undergo the examination.

"I hope that others will take this test to absolve themselves of any blame or knowledge in connection with the robbery," said Michaels.

The head of the 8,000-member local said he and McCullough had offered to take the tests at Hagerstown police headquarters.

Investigators said the safe at the local's combination headquarters-social building was burglarized between Sunday afternoon and Monday morning.

It was the biggest Hagerstown safe burglary in the memory of veteran police officials.

They said there were no signs of forced entry into the union building and the safe itself was undamaged.

you?" asked defense attorney William J. Corrigan.

"No sir," replied the handsome, osteopath, his chin thrust forward, his head tilted up.

"After the accusation was made against you that you killed Marilyn, did you do anything about hiring a lawyer?"

"No sir, I didn't," Dr. Sheppard replied. "I felt the truth would display itself."

Q. You knew the truth would come out? A. Yes.

Q. And the accusation was false? A. Yes sir.

Q. And it is false? A. That's right.

Dr. Sheppard says a bushy-haired prowler beat his 31-year-old wife to death in her bed, then twice knocked him unconscious and left him on the Lake Erie beach of his suburban waterfront home.

The state says he killed Marilyn in a frenzy of murderous rage during a quarrel over his love affairs with other women.

In a tensely dramatic recital, Dr. Sheppard retold once more his version of Marilyn's slaying on a night of wild wind and horror.

He kept his eyes tightly closed during much of this testimony. His mouth worked convulsively between sentences. He seemed often on the verge of tears. But each time he pulled himself together and continued in precise, spaced phrases. He clenched his hands before his chest as though at prayer.

U. S. To Observe Geneva Pact In Vietnamese Aid

SAIGON, Viet Nam, Dec. 10 (AP)—The United States does not plan to bring in additional military personnel or equipment to aid in training the Vietnamese national army, well-informed sources say.

It will stay within the letter and the spirit of the Geneva agreement which ended the Indochina war.

There is more than enough American materiel available to supply 90 per cent of the reorganized Vietnamese army. This is the figure President Eisenhower's special ambassador Gen. J. Lawton Collins mentioned when he said the United States will participate in training the young national army.

There are enough men in the military aid advisory group to carry out the training program as now envisioned. If it is necessary to have more, they will be drawn from civilian technicians.

This is in general likely to be the reply the United States and France will make to Vietminh Foreign Minister Pham Van Dong's note to Russia and Britain charging American violation of the Geneva agreement.

In fact, under the plans now being studied by Collins, French Commander Gen. Paul Ely and Premier Ngo Dinh Diem, the Vietnamese army will be drastically shaken up and its size cut from approximately 200,000 to 90,000. At the same time, during the course of 1955 the French expeditionary corps will be sliced from 150,000 to 100,000.

Crosby Damage Suit Settled For $100,000

LOS ANGELES, Dec. 10 (AP)—A $1,051,400 auto accident damage suit against Bing Crosby was settled today for $100,000.

The settlement was announced in Superior Court today by the singer's lawyers as the case was coming to trial. A series of conferences between attorneys for both sides resulted in this announced split: $67,500 to Frank H. Verdugo, 33, Los Angeles fireman, driver of the second car in a collision with Crosby's sports car; $27,500 to his wife, Lucy, 29; and $5,000 to her brother, Eulalio Perea, 26.

Verdugo's injuries included spinal injuries and fractures and partial paralysis of his right arm and neck. His wife suffered a broken jaw and loss of 10 teeth. Perea's nose and left arm were broken.

Writer Is Ousted

WASHINGTON, Dec. 10 (AP)—The Justice Department said today an Immigration Service inquiry officer has ordered Cedric H. Belfrage, a New York writer, deported "on grounds of Communist party membership."

Gov. McKeldin Gets Buck First Time He Hunts

HANCOCK, Md., Dec. 10 (AP)—Gov. McKeldin went deer hunting today for the first time in his life.

He shot a good-sized, eight-point buck.

He also shot his limit of turkey, grouse and quail—two each.

The governor was a guest of the Woodmont Rod and Gun Club near this Washington County town, and of the club's secretary, Henry P. Bridges. Also in the hunting party were D. Eldred Rinehart, chairman of the Republican State Committee and of the Maryland Racing Commission; Allan F. Heller, Frank C. Wachter and Harry McKinley, all of Hancock; Bridge's son, S. Powell Bridges and State Police Cpl. Edward R. Mettee.

State To Parole Leak By Christmas

BALTIMORE, Dec. 10 (AP)—A Maryland man who walked away from prison and remained free 17 years until picked up last October is to be paroled by Christmas, officials said today.

Ulysses Leak, 43-year-old Negro, stayed out of trouble and raised a family during his years of freedom.

He was picked up in a routine investigation in October, and fingerprints showed him to be the man who fled a work gang at the reformatory in 1937. He had served just two months of 15-month assault term.

Director Resigns

RICHMOND, Va., Dec. 10 (AP)—City Personnel Director J. Fred Ogburn Jr. resigned today to become personnel manager for McCormick and Co., Inc., food manufacturers at Baltimore.

Ogburn, 40, has headed Richmond's personnel department since Oct. 15, 1952.

Legion To Check Illegal Displays

BALTIMORE, Dec. 10 (AP)—Daniel H. Burkhardt, State adjutant of the American Legion, said today Legion members will visit stores in their neighborhoods to make sure merchants selling Christmas tree ornaments and other foods made in Communist countries are properly displayed.

There is a penalty of a $5,000 fine or a one-year jail term for intentionally obscuring, covering or removing from an item the name of the country in which it was made.

"We want the buying public to have a chance to decide whether it will purchase merchandise from countries which have joined in the Communist conspiracy to destroy the United States," said Burkhardt.

Burkhardt said Christmas tree ornaments from Poland are being sold in some stores. He mentioned one such report from Parkville, Md., Legionnaires.

Last year, the Catholic War Veterans, Jewish War Veterans and the Veterans of Foreign Wars joined the Legion in a campaign against illegal display of Christmas ornaments from Communist countries.

Budget Includes Ship's Mounting

BALTIMORE, Dec. 10 (AP)—Gov. McKeldin says $50,000 of 1955-1956 budget money is slated for mounting the Constellation, the Navy's oldest fighting ship, in concrete at Ft. McHenry.

The General Assembly may review the proposal. Once the old ship has been removed from Boston harbor, restored and mounted, it might become self sustaining as a tourist attraction, the governor said.

West German Treaties Get Approval By Narrow Margin

BONN, Germany, Dec. 10 (AP)—The treaties to rearm West Germany cleared their first hurdles on the road to ratification in Bonn and Paris today.

But the attitudes of legislators in both countries showed many more obstacles remain before West Germans get the right to raise a 500,000-man force for NATO.

In Paris, the Foreign Affairs Committee of the French National Assembly recommended ratification of the treaties to restore German sovereignty, giving her the right to rearm and settle the troublesome Saar dispute.

But the Paris vote on the key treaty providing for rearmament was by the narrowest of margins, 16 to 15, with 11 abstentions. Later an independent deputy tried to change his positive vote to abstention, which would have made it 15-15 if he had been allowed to do so.

In Bonn, the Bundesrat (upper House) gave preliminary approval to all the treaties except the controversial Saar settlement. The Bundesrat said its position on this pact, which is most unpopular in West Germany, would be made known after the Bundestag (lower House) acts.

This was a storm signal of trouble to come for the Saar agreement, which the French insist must be accepted as their price for allowing German rearmament.

Chancellor Konrad Adenauer also faces the prospect of a critical loss of strength in the Bundesrat, which is due to be reshuffled following elections in the states of Bavaria and Hesse. It consists of ministers from the nine states.

Although Adenauer's party came out on top in Catholic Bavaria, it was shut out of the government by a surprising coalition of the Socialists and three right-wing parties in retaliation against the government's church-school policy.

The Bavarian branch of the Christian Democrat party said tonight the new coalition "in a frightening way endangers federal politics, especially the foreign policy of the Chancellor."

Expenses For Magistrates Studied By County Board

The question of the county paying expenses of magistrates who attend meetings of the Maryland Trial Magistrates Association in Baltimore came up at yesterday's session of the Allegany County Board of Commissioners.

Three magistrates, Alban C. Thompson, of Juvenile Court; Carl Shaffer, magistrate at Westernport and William G. Meagher, magistrate at Cresaptown, submitted expense accounts which listed mileage at five cents per mile, hotel and dinner expenses.

Gorman E. Getty, attorney to the board, said that the matter has come up previously and the board does not have the authority to pay any expenses of the magistrates except the five cents per mile as required by law.

Nelson Swink and Louis Reynolds, fish technicians for the State Game and Inland Fish Commission, asked if a drain pipe which is dumping water on the parking area adjacent to a public fish pond on the Malamphy farm on Christie Road could not be changed.

The matter was referred to J. Walker Chapman, county roads supervisor, who met with the two game officials at the site yesterday afternoon.

James Alfred Avirett, this city, requested the county do something about water draining on a lot his family owns in the Woodlawn section of LaVale.

Avirett said he does not want something done immediately but hopes by summer that a drainage pipe will be installed to alleviate the damage from water to the lot.

Two New Judges Are Sworn In

ROCKVILLE, Dec. 10 (AP) — Judges Thomas M. Anderson and Stedman Prescott of the 6th Maryland Circuit were sworn in yesterday at the county court house.

Anderson was appointed Tuesday by Gov. McKeldin to fill a new post approved by voters at the November election. He will be subject to re-election in 1956.

Prescott was re-elected to a 15-year term last month.

The 6th circuit includes Montgomery and Frederick counties.

Lack Of Orders Halts B & O Rolling Mill

The rolling mill at the Baltimore and Ohio Bolt and Forge Shops shut down yesterday for an indefinite period of time, B&O officials announced.

Sixty employes of the rolling mill were placed on the furlough list as the operation was terminated.

Roy W. Eves, superintendent of the shops, said there is a total of 333 men still at their jobs in the bolt and forge section, car fabrication shop, blacksmith shop and machine shop.

This 333 total represents from 60 to 70 per cent of the full working force, Eves said.

The rolling mill, which makes bar stock, was closed because of the lack of orders.

This section of the installation was shut down for a lengthy period last year, Eves recalled.

County Commissioners Set Job, Rate Classifications

A resolution was presented to the Allegany County Board of Commissioners yesterday by Commissioner James Orr under which all county road workers will be required to sign a form letter in which they accept their classification of work and rate of pay under a four-year appointment.

The resolution was approved unanimously.

The form letter contains the names of nine supervisory employes who are paid on salary and about 50 men who receive hourly rates of pay. The pay rates for the hourly-paid workers range from $1.25 an hour to $1.45 per hour. The supervisory workers' salaries were not listed on the letter.

Commissioner William H. Lemmert said jobs with the County Roads Department are by appointment. Later on there may be additions to the department, he added. There were no deletions from the list of county roads workers who were on the payroll prior to the board officially taking office last Friday, Lemmert stated.

The board received a letter of thanks from Walter Fuller for reappointing him a clerk in the Roads Department at the Union Street County Building office.

The county received a letter from H. C. Buckingham, state forester, informing the commissioners that Allegany County will receive $529.71 as its share of receipts from the Green Ridge State Forest. The county's share of these proceeds represents a 15 per cent share for the fiscal year ended last June 30, according to Buckingham.

Lonaconing Woman Named Member Of Welfare Board

Mrs. Mary Keyes, of Lonaconing, has been appointed by the Allegany County Board of Commissioners to fill out the unexpired term of Rev. Joseph Young of Lonaconing on the County Welfare Board.

Rev. Mr. Young had served several years on the Welfare Board until his recent resignation. His term would not have expired until May 31, 1956.

Mrs. Keyes is a Republican and a member of the Young Women's Club of Lonaconing and of the Parent-Teacher Association of Central School. Notice of her appointment will be sent to Thomas J. S. Waxter, director of the State Department of Public Welfare.

Commissioners Get Notice Of State Meeting

The Allegany County Board of Commissioners has been notified that a meeting of the State Association of County Commissioners will be held Wednesday at Carvel Hall in Annapolis starting at 9:30 a. m.

One of the most important talks before the commissioners will be that of Harry J. Green, chairman of Maryland Commission to Study Public Education and Finances. He will dwell on state aid to counties on school construction.

Officers will be elected by the commissioners' association for the coming year.

The Allegany County Commissioners yesterday accepted the low bid of the St. George Motor Company to furnish a sedan for use by the sheriff's office.

The low bid was a net of $579.33 for an eight-cylinder Ford sedan. The St. George firm allowed $1,400 on a sedan in use by the sheriff's office as a trade in.

Other bidders were Collins Garage, a net bid of $755.60 for an eight-cylinder Studebaker and $632.70 for a six-cylinder car. Eiler Chevrolet made a net bid of $600 to furnish the car. Heiskell Motors of Frostburg bid $700 net for a Ford six-cylinder car.

Give a "company look" to yourself, as you do to your house, before any party.

Secrets Of Charm

by John Robert Powers

When you give a party, bring out your most attractive table appointments — and your most attractive self. Make a schedule that allows time for personal grooming as well as home grooming.

It may take 15 minutes to set an inviting table for your company. In only five minutes, you can set your hair...give new life to a hairdo that's been temporarily neglected while you attended to the many chores of the tea, coffee, or dinner.

You spend, perhaps, 15 minutes ironing the wrinkles out of the tablecloth you plan to use. Allow yourself at least one minute for a facial that will smooth the lines of tiredness from your face. The time for this treatment is minimum; it's importance can't be over-estimated!

Attention For Nails

The silver that graces your table must be bright and shining. In just ten minutes you can make it so. In less than two minutes you can retouch nail polish, so your manicure looks perfect. Your hands are much in evidence as you greet arriving guests, sit at the head of the dinner table, or preside over coffee service. Reason enough for the two-minute retouch!

Other chores — such as arranging flowers and straightening the living and dining rooms, are your assurance of perfection around you. They will consume probably, 20 to 30 minutes of your time. Perfection for yourself requires only five minutes. After you've dressed, check your appearance in a mirror. Apply a last touch of lipstick and rouge. Spray on perfume, and smooth back your hair.

Grooming Results

These matters of grooming will give you the same party polish as you've given your house. They involve less time than it takes to ready your surroundings for company, but they count for more. Guests will remember afterwards that the party was lovely, but that the hostess outsparkled every other thing about the evening.

County Policy On Institutions Is Unchanged

William H. Lemmert, president of the Allegany County Board of Commissioners, at yesterday's session reiterated the policy the board will follow in administering the three county institutions, Sylvan Retreat, County Infirmary and County Home.

He made his remarks to Earl Grim, superintendent of the Infirmary and Home, and Raymond Messmer, superintendent of Sylvan Retreat, during their usual conference at the board meeting.

Lemmert said "no individual commissioner" can act in any manner affecting the institutions and all matters pertaining to them will be done by majority vote of the commissioners. The same policy as has been followed during the past four years will be retained, he stated.

Operation of the institutions "will not be made a political football," he said, and they will be operated on a sound business basis as in the past.

"We have set up a program of operating the institutions with Dr. James McLean handling the medical end and the two superintendents administering the program," he added.

During the outline of the board's policy Lemmert praised the two men, and their wives (who are matrons) for their work in the past four years.

Local Jurist's Career Included Combat Duty

Thursday's article on Judge George Henderson becoming the new chief judge of the Fourth Judicial Circuit inadvertently omitted the fact that during World War I he served in combat in France with the 29th Division.

Prior to going overseas he had served on the Mexican border.

Keeping Up With Hollywood

by Louella Parsons

HOLLYWOOD, Dec. 10 (INS) — "Dynamite!" now being written for Robert Taylor, sounds suspiciously like "Boomtown," one of Clark Gable's and Spencer Tracy's best pictures.

The idea is much the same, but Producer Charles Schnee is disguising the story for MGM with some different angles.

In "Dynamite!" Bob's whole life is building great bridges, dams and other constructions in faraway places — until a girl enters his life. The girl is Grace Kelly. She'll also be Bob's co-star in "Quentin Durward," which precedes "Dynamite!"

The injury to his foot sustained by Johnnie Ray in Las Vegas is very much more serious than anyone realized at first. A doctor told him if he had not been operated on Wednesday he might have lost his leg.

I happened to be in Las Vegas when Johnnie hurt his foot. He stepped on a toothpick in his barefeet, and an infection resulted. He could hardly walk — luckily he went to a doctor immediately and was given penicillin. Then the old infection flared up again and an abcess formed and had to be opened.

Whenever Johnnie is in trouble he wants his ex-wife, Marilyn Morrison, and she hasn't left Cedars of Lebanon.

Chatter in Hollywood: I didn't believe at first that Rock Hudson was serious about Phyllis Gates, assistant to agent Henry Willson. Now I'm beginning to think I was wrong.

On Phyllis' birthday, Rock sent her flowers every few hours all day, and he brought her a birthday cake himself and called in the gang for champagne and cake.

In addition to the romantic angle, they are exceptionally compatible and both like to paint. This romance, according to Rock's friends, is very serious.

Bad break for young actor John Smith (he clicked in "The High And The Mighty") in more ways than one.

On the eve of his departure for Dallas, Texas, where he was scheduled to M.C. the annual holiday crystal ball, he was in an automobile accident.

Poor boy, he's all bashed up around the head and his doctor says he must stay here under medical attention.

The only ray of brightness about the accident which demolished his car, is that the other driver assumes full responsibility.

Snapshots of Hollywood collected at random: difficult to find two happier people than Carole and Tommy Noonan. Carole tells me they are expecting their first baby in July.

Peter Lawford's mother, Lady May Lawford, undergoes surgery next week.

What a wedding present Jimmy Stewart is giving his dad today. A signed blank check to be filled out by Pop for any amount!

The friends of Ruth Warrick have received the news that she's just had a baby boy. She's now Mrs. Bob McNamara, and is the mother of two children by a previous marriage.

Jack Palance may be having battles at the studio, but apparently his family life is again serene. He moves into a new house in swank Beverly Hills before Christmas.

Ted Tetzlaff, well known director, had an emergency operation in Rome last week. He had to be replaced on his picture and he'll fly home as soon as he's well.

There's a scene with Joan Crawford and Jeff Chandler in "Female On The Beach" which runs three and a half minutes. They have a violent fight during which Jeff tears off practically all of Joan's clothes and then they kiss and make up. Deborah Kerr and Burt Lancaster certainly started something in "From Here To Eternity." There's much the same scene in "Seven Year Itch."

Both 20th and MGM are bidding for "October 43," a novel by Professor Daniel Aage Bertelsen. It deals with the Danish underground movement when the Nazis were taking over.

That's all today. See you Monday.

Radio And Television

Normally, I'm a sucker for choirs, the bigger the better, but this one intoning some dreadfully German number, as heavy as the food of that country, left me unmoved. On came the incomparable Miss Lillie who was not, I'm afraid, being as incomparable as usual. There's something about being on the Hope show that takes the fire out of people.

Presently along came Liane Dayde, of the Paris Opera ballet, and she, too, was pretty much a disappointment, doing a dance that looked like the sort of thing little girls do in ballet school.

Miss Lillie returned as sort of street waif who is picked up by Hope at the stage door and becomes, after a bit of shenanigans, a star of his show. As a cockney waif, she was very appealing but not terribly funny, and the sketch came to an abrupt end at what seemed like the middle.

So far, so bad, I thought, but wait till Chevalier comes on. You can't kill Chevalier. Well, I underestimated Mr. Hope's writers. They can kill anything. Chevalier made his appearance in a sketch in which Hope is supposedly on a honeymoon with Moira Lister in Cannes. Chevalier shows up as a supposed cousin of the bride and instantly starts making passes at the girl which culminate in a lesson in love-making, involving some kissing that they could never get away with in the movies and shouldn't be allowed here either. There hasn't been anything in such poor taste on television since—well, since Hope had that show in Cleveland with Phil Harris procuring girls for him in a hotel room. Somebody out to talk to thi boy.

Chevalier did redeem himself by his "accents melodiques" number, which is a very clever spoof of different accents as heard by someone who doesn't speak the language, and by singing one of his alltime favorites, "Louise," and "Seems Like Old Times." But by then it was awfully late and the show had gone down the drain.

In contrast, the latest Max Liebman spectacular, while not an unqualified delight, had two perfectly wonderful numbers with Jack Buchanan, the very talented Englishman, one a lampoon of modern stage choreography, the other a little fun poked at English choir groups. It also had Jimmy Durante playing Jimmy Durante which is to say that he was just great.

Yesterday's Answer

DAILY CRYPTOQUOTE—Here's how to work it:

A X Y D L B A A X R
is L O N G F E L L O W

One letter simply stands for another. In this example A is used for the three L's, X for the two O's, etc. Single letters, apostrophies, the length and formation of the words are all hints. Each day the code letters are different.

A Cryptogram Quotation

I B W K F O T R R T T Q W E F : R F D X Z R R G Q B O I B W K F Y I D B Y R — F D N . H D N R .

Yesterday's Cryptoquote: THE FAIREST DAY MUST SET IN NIGHT; SUMMER IN WINTER ENDS—LILLO.

Eddie King Honored

CHARLESTON, W. Va., Dec. 10 (AP)—West Virginia's coach-of-the-year is Morris Harvey's Eddie King, a man with a basketball team leading the State Conference and a football squad on its way to a post-season bowl game.

King's selection for the 1954 honor was announced today by the West Virginia Sports Writers Assn.

Keeping Up With Hollywood

by Louella Parsons

HOLLYWOOD, Dec. 10 (INS) — "Dynamite!" now being written for Robert Taylor, sounds suspiciously like "Boomtown," one of Clark Gable's and Spencer Tracy's best pictures.

The idea is much the same, but Producer Charles Schnee is disguising the story for MGM with some different angles.

In "Dynamite!" Bob's whole life is building great bridges, dams and other constructions in faraway places — until a girl enters his life. The girl is Grace Kelly. She'll also be Bob's co-star in "Quentin Durward," which precedes "Dynamite!"

The injury to his foot sustained by Johnnie Ray in Las Vegas is very much more serious than anyone realized at first. A doctor told him if he had not been operated on Wednesday he might have lost his leg.

I happened to be in Las Vegas when Johnnie hurt his foot. He stepped on a toothpick in his barefeet, and an infection resulted. He could hardly walk — luckily he went to a doctor immediately and was given penicillin. Then the old infection flared up again and an abcess formed and had to be opened.

Whenever Johnnie is in trouble he wants his ex-wife, Marilyn Morrison, and she hasn't left Cedars of Lebanon.

Chatter in Hollywood: I didn't believe at first that Rock Hudson was serious about Phyllis Gates, assistant to agent Henry Willson. Now I'm beginning to think I was wrong.

On Phyllis' birthday, Rock sent her flowers every few hours all day, and he brought her a birthday cake himself and called in the gang for champagne and cake.

In addition to the romantic angle, they are exceptionally compatible and both like to paint. This romance, according to Rock's friends, is very serious.

Bad break for young actor John Smith (he clicked in "The High And The Mighty") in more ways than one.

On the eve of his departure for Dallas, Texas, where he was scheduled to M.C. the annual holiday crystal ball, he was in an automobile accident.

Poor boy, he's all bashed up around the head and his doctor says he must stay here under medical attention.

The only ray of brightness about the accident which demolished his car, is that the other driver assumes full responsibility.

Snapshots of Hollywood collected at random: difficult to find two happier people than Carole and Tommy Noonan. Carole tells me they are expecting their first baby in July.

Peter Lawford's mother, Lady May Lawford, undergoes surgery next week.

What a wedding present Jimmy Stewart is giving his dad today. A signed blank check to be filled out by Pop for any amount!

The friends of Ruth Warrick have received the news that she's just had a baby boy. She's now Mrs. Bob McNamara, and is the mother of two children by a previous marriage.

Jack Palance may be having battles at the studio, but apparently his family life is again serene. He moves into a new house in swank Beverly Hills before Christmas.

Ted Tetzlaff, well known director, had an emergency operation in Rome last week. He had to be replaced on his picture and he'll fly home as soon as he's well.

There's a scene with Joan Crawford and Jeff Chandler in "Female On The Beach" which runs three and a half minutes. They have a violent fight during which Jeff tears off practically all of Joan's clothes and then they kiss and make up. Deborah Kerr and Burt Lancaster certainly started something in "From Here To Eternity." There's much the same scene in "Seven Year Itch."

Both 20th and MGM are bidding for "October 43," a novel by Professor Daniel Aage Bertelsen. It deals with the Danish underground movement when the Nazis were taking over.

That's all today. See you Monday.

Normally, I'm a sucker for choirs, the bigger the better, but this one intoning some dreadfully German number, as heavy as the food of that country, left me unmoved. On came the incomparable Miss Lillie who was not, I'm afraid, being as incomparable as usual. There's something about being on the Hope show that takes the fire out of people.

Presently along came Liane Dayde, of the Paris Opera ballet, and she, too, was pretty much a disappointment, doing a dance that looked like the sort of thing little girls do in ballet school.

Miss Lillie returned as sort of street waif who is picked up by Hope at the stage door and becomes, after a bit of shenanigans, a star of his show. As a cockney waif, she was very appealing but not terribly funny, and the sketch came to an abrupt end at what seemed like the middle.

So far, so bad, I thought, but wait till Chevalier comes on. You can't kill Chevalier. Well, I underestimated Mr. Hope's writers. They can kill anything. Chevalier made his appearance in a sketch in which Hope is supposedly on a honeymoon with Moira Lister in Cannes. Chevalier shows up as a supposed cousin of the bride and instantly starts making passes at the girl which culminate in a lesson in love-making, involving some kissing that they could never get away with in the movies and shouldn't be allowed here either. There hasn't been anything in such poor taste on television since—well, since Hope had that show in Cleveland with Phil Harris procuring girls for him in a hotel room. Somebody out to talk to this boy.

Chevalier did redeem himself by his "accents melodiques" number, which is a very clever spoof of different accents as heard by someone who doesn't speak the language, and by singing one of his alltime favorites, "Louise," and "Seems Like Old Times." But by then it was awfully late and the show had gone down the drain.

In contrast, the latest Max Liebman spectacular, while not an unqualified delight, had two perfectly wonderful numbers with Jack Buchanan, the very talented Englishman, one a lampoon of modern stage choreography, the other a little fun poked at English choir groups. It also had Jimmy Durante playing Jimmy Durante which is to say that he was just great.

Yesterday's Answer

DAILY CRYPTOQUOTE—Here's how to work it:

A X Y D L B A A X R
is L O N G F E L L O W

One letter simply stands for another. In this example A is used for the three L's, X for the two O's, etc. Single letters, apostrophies, the length and formation of the words are all hints. Each day the code letters are different.

A Cryptogram Quotation

Yesterday's Cryptoquote: THE FAIREST DAY MUST SET IN NIGHT; SUMMER IN WINTER ENDS—LILLO.

Moorefield Again Fails To Support Its Blood Bank

Only 84 Pints Given Toward Quota Of 125

MOOREFIELD—Moorefield again failed to make its quota when the bloodmobile came to town Tuesday, Pearl Harbor Day. This is the sixth time the Red Cross Bloodmobile has been in Moorefield and only the first time was the quota made. April 1, 1952 Moorefield citizens donated 126 pints of blood with a quota of 125. This time, with a quota of 104 bottles, only 84 were donated.

Ten volunteer workers gave 60½ hours of work. They are Mrs. W. J. Teets receptionists, Mrs. R. E. Fisher and Mrs. H. G. Muntzing; registrars, Mrs. Irvin Bowman and Mrs. A. C. McNeill; juice, Mrs. Ted Sager; bottlers, Mrs. John Harman and Mrs. Ashby Scea; canteen, Miss Dorothy Hartle, Mrs. Ellis Hyre and Mrs. Jim Tenney. Mrs. Harold Smith, Mrs. Thurman Reynolds and Mrs. Joe Welton, registered nurses, gave their services all day.

Mrs. Viola Wolfe has donated 10 pints of blood to the Red Cross and C. C. Hessen became a gallon contributor with this visit of the Bloodmobile. Many other repeaters have given several times with quite a few making this their seventh contribution.

A total of 122 persons were scheduled to give blood but of these, only 53 presented themselves as donors. Thirty eight persons came without scheduling, making 91 people offering blood.

WEAR WHITE AT NIGHT

If you must walk on poorly lit streets at night, always wear something white or light colored. Even with good headlights it is difficult, if not sometimes impossible, for a driver to see a dark-clothed pedestrian on the edge of the road. Do your part, walking or driving, to make S-D Day the safest day of the year.

Federal Reserve Bank Reappoints Piper

The board of directors of the Federal Reserve Bank of Richmond has reappointed Charles A. Piper, 104 Washington Street, to the Board of the Reserve bank's Baltimore branch, Chairman John B. Woodward Jr. announced yesterday. His new three-year term will begin on January 1.

Piper, president of the Liberty Trust Company, has been a member of the Baltimore Branch board since 1950.

Baldwin Is Injured In Tractor Accident

A Route 1, Ridgeley, man was admitted to Sacred Heart Hospital yesterday afternoon for treatment of a left forearm injury suffered as he was operating a tractor near his home.

The injured man, Herbert Baldwin, 26, told the hospital his arm was injured when it was caught between the tractor and a tree.

He was admitted for treatment and X-rays.

County Board

In addition he would place the tax collector on a salary basis thereby eliminating revenue loss by commissions paid the collector. That would save enough to make up another three cents in the tax rate, he believes.

The resolution was not considered because yesterday afternoon's session was not in the form of a meeting of the county board.

Gilchrist and J. Kenneth Morgan, another committee member, spent considerable time checking the county auditor's figures and discussing them with Mrs. Johanna Sills, the auditor.

The committee chairman also raised a question as to whether the county might be able to realize some additional revenue from paying patients at the County Infirmary. He also suggested that greater revenue would be received if personal property returns filed by taxpayers were more accurate.

Tax Evasion Cited

Nicholson estimated that no taxes are paid on about one-third of the personal property in the county. The percentage paid is gradually increasing, he added. He said the assessors benefit from having some access to state income tax returns. Another assessor would be needed to check accurately on all personal property returns.

The Chamber of Commerce committee, which includes Gilchrist, Morgan, Edgar D. Vandegrift and Joseph M. Naughton as well as Charles A. Piper, will meet early next week in an attempt to reach some definite recommendations.

The County Delegation and State Senator Robert B. Kimble would like to have the recommendations at a meeting scheduled next Friday afternoon in the City Hall council chamber.

LaSalle 1942 Class To Hold Reunion

A stag dinner and old-time get-together will be held by the LaSalle Class of 1942 tonight at Cas Taylor's rathskeller. The dinner will be at 6:30. Donald Palmer will preside at a brief business session and will appoint next year's reunion committee.

The committee of arrangements consists of Mr. Palmer and Francis Mullen.

Double Jeopardy Principle Brings Dismissal Of Charge

Ruling that a driver cannot be charged twice for the same offense, Trial Magistrate Donald W. Mason dismissed a reckless driving charge against a man who shortly before had paid a fine in Police Court on a city traffic charge.

The man, Donald R. Mossey, 28, of Elkhart, Ind., pleaded guilty Wednesday in Police Court of failing to stop at a stop sign, and was fined $5.

The charge was filed after the car Mossey was driving collided with a police cruiser operated by Officer Kenneth W. Morrissey at South George and Union streets Tuesday.

Later, the driver was taken to Trial Magistrates Court and charged with reckless driving. The charge was dismissed.

Pollak Is Named To Tide Water Post

Charles N. Pollak has been appointed manager of the public relations department of Tide Water Associated Oil Co., in San Francisco, it was announced by D. T. Staples, president.

Pollak served as a United Press correspondent in Buenos Aires, Argentina, and at United Nations, N. Y. More recently, he was managing editor of Petroleum World and Oil, Los Angeles, and subsequently Pacific Coast editor of National Petroleum News and Oilgram News Service.

Allen Says Change In Utility Rate Formula Won't Help

BALTIMORE, Dec. 10 (AP)—Joseph Allen, people's counsel to the Public Service Commission told a Legislative Council committee yesterday recommended changes in the formula the Public Service Commission uses to set public utility rates will not improve the situation.

And in some cases, they might make it worse, he said.

Allen, who also is a member of the Commission to Recodify the Public Service Commission Laws, dissented when the commission voted last week to recommend a compromise between the PSC's present "fair value" formula and one considering original cost.

The proposal would strike out the word "fair," would require consideration of the value of services rendered by a utility, and would give the PSC discretionary power to weigh evidence of appreciation or depreciation due to economic trends.

Allen contended the PSC now has very wide discretion and no more is necessary. Long an advocate of the original-cost theory for determining the rate of return, Allen said he was very much opposed to any change in the law unless it were to substitute original cost for fair value.

Albert L. Sklar, chairman of the recodifying commission, outlined to the committee the revision made in PSC laws which have remained virtually unchanged since 1910. He stressed the need for streamlining in order to take out obsolete sections and ambiguities.

He said the recodification is "a most crying need" which should not be hindered by the injection of controverial matter.

However, the bill ran into a snag when Sen. Goldstein (D-Calvert) brought up his oft-repeated proposal for a five-man Public Service Commission representing every section of the state. He said he would never vote for the revision unless such a provision was added.

Goldstein was supported by outgoing Del. J. Paul Marshall (R-Montgomery) who said delegates from his county and neighboring Prince Georges will be far more interested in creation of a five-man commission than in anything else.

America's Nobel Prize Record Is Going Up

It recently was announced that the 1954 Nobel Prize for chemistry will go to Dr. Linus Pauling of California for his work on protein molecules. Thus of the four Nobel Prizes awarded this year, three have been won by Americans.

Ernest Hemingway has been listed to receive the literature prize. The prize in medicine and physiology went to three Americans, Drs. John F. Enders, Thomas Weller and Frederick Robbins.

Awarded for 53 years, the Nobel Prizes combine high prestige with monetary value. The exact dollar value of each prize depends on the state of international exchange, mainly, and runs well into five figures. Nobel Prizes are given in five fields—the three already listed above, physics, and peace. But prizes in all fields are not given every year.

The United States has cause to be proud of its recent record on Nobel prizes. Not an American was represented among the first 10 prizes in chemistry, literature, medicine, and physiology. One American qualified for a physics prize during that period, and two for the peace prize. In recent years, however, the names of Americans are rather prominent in the annual Nobel awards list.

During the 10 years since the war, Americans have been Nobel Prize winners in the field of physics in 1946 and 1952. In the field of literature, Americans won in 1949 and 1954; and T. S. Eliot, an American-born English citizen, in 1948. In chemistry, Americans won in 1946, 1949, 1951 and 1954. Americans also shared in four Nobel Peace Prizes—1946, 1947, 1950, 1953. In the field of medicine and physiology, Americans have won or shared in all 10 Nobel Prizes from 1946 through 1954!

Many Latin Americans and Europeans, even before the Communists had made much headway with their propaganda about Americans as "barbarians" and "gangsters," used to speak with some condescension of America as a cultural desert. But no other country has come close to winning so many Nobel Prizes since World War II.

In the fields of physics and literature, England had three awards to America's two. But in chemistry, peace, medicine, and physiology, and the over-all total, no other nation during this period has even approached the American score.

These Days

By George E. Sokolsky

Who Is To Conform?

Senator Mike Mansfield is generally regarded as a Liberal with a big L. A liberal used to be defined as a person who believed in an increase in the liberties of the individual man. David Hume, the philosopher who so affected the thought which brought our country into existence, defined liberty as follows:

". . . By liberty, then, we can only mean a power of acting or not acting, according to the determinations of the will; this is, if we choose to remain at rest, we may; if we choose to move, we also may. Now this hypothetical liberty is universally allowed to belong to every one who is not a prisoner and in chains . . ."

When therefore Senator Mansfield would deprive a retired Army or Navy officer of the right to speak his mind or join a cause, of his own free will and at his own risk, he would deprive him of his liberty. Edmund Burke made the point that "among a people generally corrupt, liberty cannot long exist," which is why the Marxists find themselves in difficulties because they have permitted themselves to be corrupted by enslavement to a discipline and a conspiracy and reject the doctrine of free will by the acceptance of mental and moral regimentation. It is precisely this regimentation that must be fought off in the United States.

Senator Mansfield takes the position that military officers have been "taken care of" from the time they enter West Point or Annapolis until they are buried in Arlington National Cemetery. He said: "They should not lend their good names and prestige to movements which are contrary to the best interests of the United States."

He would deprive such men of their liberty and force them to conform to some dictated but temporary view because they once were employed by the Government of the United States. Such a position makes employment a liability because it reduces such a person to secondary citizenship. Can anyone imagine General Douglas MacArthur being silenced because he was for half a century employed in the United States Army?

In the matter of John Paton Davies Jr., it does not seem to be reasonable that the State Department should withhold the money due him—or for that matter of anyone else—unless he signs a contract gagging him. Is money worth that much? He has the right, as a person and a citizen, to devote his life to the defense of his integrity. We grant that right to a murderer, a rapist, a thief, a spy. Shall we refuse that right to a man because he was in the employ of the State Department?

Let us consider two hypothetical cases:

1. Suppose John Paton Davies Jr. wishes to fight his case on the thesis that he was asked to do certain things by the CIA or by the State Department and that whatever he did was only in fulfillment of his duty. Shall he be deprived of the right to try to prove such a defense? Is he not entitled to document such a case if he can? Is he forever to bear the stigma of rejection without the opportunity to clear himself?

I do not know whether Davies can clear himself, but he is entitled to the possibility.

2. Suppose Alger Hiss wishes to prove that he was not a Communist, not a spy for Soviet Russia, but that he served his government in a special manner at the request, let us say, of the President of the United States. I do not know that there is the slightest truth in such an hypothesis or that Alger Hiss wants to do anything of the sort. But suppose he does, has anyone the moral right to deprive him of the freedom to fight for his name, his place in the world, even to his dying day, only because he was employed by the Government of the United States?

If imposed conformity is wrong for a university professor, it is wrong for a general, an admiral or anybody. If imposed conformity is wrong for those who call themselves liberals or progressives, it is wrong for those who call themselves conservatives or moderates or nothing at all. If it is wrong for anybody, it is wrong for everybody.

It is more important that we have overt differences of opinion with ample opportunity for their expression than that we suffer from the suppressive effects of conformity and unity. When we have an intellectual goose-step in this country, it may eliminate all the yak-yak of contentiousness, but we shall no longer be a thinking or a free people. We shall worship those in office as the German people cringed before any man in a uniform.

Secretary Humphrey's Serious Predicament

Problems Ahead Give Ike Chance To Unite His Party

By David Lawrence

WASHINGTON — How can harmony be achieved in the Republican party by President Eisenhower's leadership?

This is the $64 question in American politics today. It is not less important because the Democratic party faces an equally serious cleavage over the civil rights issue.

The Republican party is torn with a factionalism based on issues which are really not at all insurmountable. This factionalism is intensified by a fundamental mistaken point of view among some of the President's closest advisers who seem to think the way to political progress is to keep the Republican factions fighting each other.

In many respects President Eisenhower is a political paradox. He has proved himself to be an aggressive partisan inside the Republican party but no partisan at all in fighting the Democratic party.

Many of the supporters of the President use rather loose terms in describing the factions of the Republican party. They refer nowadays to the "right wing" and the "hard core of the right wing." Does this mean that the opposite faction hereafter can be properly described as the "left wing" or the "hard core of the left wing?" Such terms will not enhance the prestige of the Republican party or bring unity to its ranks.

Another example of the careless use of terms occurred in the last two weeks when Senator Knowland of California, majority leader, made a statement urging that a naval blockade might be used to compel the release of the 11 airmen held captive by the Red Chinese. The idea was worth exploring—or at least discussing in a land of free speech. It was advantageous to let the Red Chinese know that members of Congress here were at least thinking of these things.

Without looking up Mr. Knowland's voting record, which has been 87 per cent in favor of the Eisenhower legislative proposals—one of the best in Congress—there was published in a large eastern newspaper an editorial coining the word "Knowlandism." In a few days there were editorials in other newspapers which removed the quotation marks and characterized the Knowland point of view as an "ism," or as a "right wing" pronouncement. Yet, if anybody deserves the title of "progressive moderate," as Mr Eisenhower phrases it, Senator Knowland does. When a few days afterward the California senator lined up against the "censure" resolution, it was promptly asserted by some Eisenhower supporters in the press that "Knowlandism" and "McCarthyism" were the same things. Conversely, one look at the roll-call for censure will reveal, however, the name of Senator Watkins, whose "isolationist" point of view would hardly entitle him to be classified as a "left winger" or "internationalist" just because he fought the Wisconsin senator.

Such tactics are not going to help Mr. Easenhower restore harmony in his party and he, of course, isn't responsible for the mistakes being made by his overzealous supporters. For, if Senator Knowland, who represents the second most populous state in the union, is to be deprived of the right to express the viewpoint of his constituents on public questions unless he conforms to a pattern, then indeed an era of intolerance has arrived on the American scene—far more serious than the Wisconsin senator's tactics in handling witnesses in congressional committees.

The late Senator Taft publicly differed on foreign policy with the Eisenhower administration in May 1953, but nobody called it "Taftism" and there was no demand from the White House coterie that he resign as majority leader. If the White House is to insist on a rubber-stamp Congress and is to choose the majority leader of the Senate, then the system here will tend to acquire the "yes-man" conformity which Hitler introduced and Stalin perfected in handling a national legislature.

It is easy enough to proclaim that Senator McCarthy is down and out politically, but history shows that the same thing happened to Senator LaFollette, who was deserted by almost everybody in 1917—particularly by the Republican party in his own state, and by the legislature of Wisconsin which passed resolutions demanding his expulsion from the Senate. But he was re-elected two years later, and five years afterwards he was rolling up 5,000,000 votes on a third party ticket. John W. Davis, Democrat, otherwise would have won. As it was the winner—Calvin Coolidge—obtained the electoral votes but failed to get a majority in each of 11 states west of the Mississippi.

What is important today politically is not the language or manner or tactless behavior of Senator McCarthy, but the two issues he has raised. These are trade with Red China and with Soviet Russia and failure of the administration thus far to secure the release of Americans held prisoner by the Communist Chinese in violation of the Korean armistice. Not much unity or bi-partisan cooperation will be accomplished on the political front if the President or his advisers assume that only McCarthy has been interested in such issues. President Eisenhower, on the other hand, by taking a really effective position on these grave problems, has a chance not only to unite the Republican party but the country as well. The real key to harmony doesn't lie in accepting peace at any price or pacifism as a national policy.

Baering Down On The News

By Arthur "Bugs" Baer

We've got to figure with the national politician who's isolationist in Europe and interventionist in Asia. Also the statesman who reverses the process and plays both ends against the middle like a man tying up a long bundle with a short string.

It abrogates Newton's law of grabbity. When you're carrying water on both shoulders don't stand on your head.

When foreign policies come home to roost you've got to put the facts in the face. The first is that colonialism is deader than a taxidermist's guest list.

We started it on the one-way chute giving self-government to the Philippines. They would have inherited total freedom in 1945 if the schedule hadn't jumped the track before the train arrived.

When Japan knocked off Manila in 1941 it was notice that Asiatic co-prosperity was paying dividends out of sinking funds. If Tokyo had waited four years it would have been fighting the Philippines.

We could have said it was none of our business and washed our celluloid cuffs of it. The premature incubating of Nipponese ambition was a kick in our star-spangled teeth.

There are no frozen time limits set on Formosa. The Seventh Fleet is over there primed to the nines. Excluding the Civil War every one of our major hassels has started either at sea or over a one-boat regatta.

Too-Common Use Of Antibiotics Reduces Value

By Dr. Theodore R. Van Dellen

Sir William Osler is credited with saying, "The desire to take medicine is perhaps the greatest feature which distinguishes man from animals." No one appreciates this more fully than the family doctor, who is consulted for every major and minor ailment.

The wonder drugs have proved so tempting it is difficult to avoid getting them in one form or another. A California survey revealed that 20 per cent of all adults and one out of six children has received penicillin for a cold.

But that is not all. Of the physicians included in the survey, 25 per cent followed suit. No wonder 300 tons of penicillin must be manufactured to meet the annual demand.

Is this good or bad? It is not good and, in some instances, is dangerous. We are paying the penalty because more and more persons are becoming sensitized to the antibotics. Several deaths have been recorded.

While marked reactions are not common, considering the widespread use of these products, there is no way to predict who will be next. Let us use and not abuse our valuable and potent medications.

How can these problems be solved? Everyone can help by not insisting upon a wonder drug for trivial respiratory infections. Statistics show that most adverse after effects develop in individuals who received penicillin for a cold or other minor disorder.

Anyone with an ellergic tendency should inform his physician of this fact beforehand, particularly those who have suffered a previous attack of bronchial asthma, hay fever, hives, or eczema. Here the medico will weigh the seriousness of the illness against the potential risk of taking medicine.

This precaution is necessary because the usual allergy tests are of little value in uncovering drug sensitivites. As a result, many physicians try a small amount initially; if all goes well, larger quantities are given. In case of doubt, penicillin tablets are prescribed because there is less likelihood of reactions when the drug is administered in this way.

In a recent study in which 45,000 tablets of 500,000 units each were employed, there were only three mild reactions. A combination of one of the antihistaminics and penicillin also is said to minimize reactions.

On the other hand, when dermatitis, hives, or other difficulties follow the taking of an antibiotic, various antidotes are available. ACTH and cortisone are most valuable, offering prompt relief of all symptoms and reducing the duration of the reaction.

LOST FINGERS

R. B. writes: My husband is troubled by having his arms and hands fall asleep during the night. As a young boy, he lost two fingers in an explosion. Do you think this could be the cause?

REPLY

I doubt if the explosion had anything to do with it unless his spine or brachial plexus was injured. The cause of numbness and tingling often is difficult to determine, but pressure on a nerve accounts for the sensation in many instances. I presume you are not referring to phantom pain that occurs in missing parts.

SHORT NEWBORN

Mrs. H. writes: My daughter had a baby last week and she was only 17½ inches long. Both sides of the family are tall, going back three generations. Can anything be done for this child so that she will reach normal height?

REPLY

Allow nature to take its course and 17 years from now, when the girl attains full maturity, you may have no cause for concern.

To the limit of space, questions pertaining to the prevention of disease will be answered. Personal replies will be made when return stamped envelope is inclosed. Telephone inquiries not accepted. Dr. Van Dellen will not make diagnoses or prescribe for individual diseases.

Try And Stop Me!

By Bennett Cerf

Admiral "Bull" Halsey likes the story about the Navy wife who, seeing her husband off on a long tour of duty, was incensed to notice a sleek cocker spaniel aboard. "Hmph," she snorted, "Wives are forbidden on these Navy jaunts, but I see dogs are allowed." "It figures, Madam," an officer informed her gravely. "You see everybody aboard can pet a dog, and not a soul gets mad."

Two typical Bucks County farmers met at a tavern around haying time, and the first one asked the usual question, "How's crops?" "Waal," allowed the second, "the gas station and the cheeseburger concession is just about holdin' their own, but durned if they ain't holdin' over 'Springtime for Henry' for a second week in my barn."

The crime of bigamy, points out Cass Findlay, carries a penalty more severe, probably, than anything else in the law books: two mothers-in-law!

Eisenhower Could Recall McCarthy's Record If He Cared To Make Reply

By Drew Pearson

WASHINGTON—If I Were Ike—If I were President Eisenhower, and had Senator McCarthy accused me of being nice to "those who are torturing American uniformed men," I should have come back with McCarthy's own vigorous defense of Nazi storm troopers who shot down helpless, undefended American prisoners at Malmedys. I would have quoted McCarthy's brazen charge that American officers stuck the ends of lighted matches under the fingernails of Nazi storm troopers to make them confess the Malmedy murders . . . I would have shown how he ranted and raved and finally stomped out of the hearings when fellow senators defended American uniformed men . . . "Whitewash" was McCarthy's hurled accusation . . . The Nazis, he claimed, "were subject to beatings and physical violence such as only could be devised by warped minds. They were subjected to sham trials and mock hangings . . . to create the right psychological atmosphere in which to obtain confessions." . . . That was the way McCarthy in 1949 attacked the American Army which he now accuses Eisenhower of neglecting. I would have reminded him of that—had I been Ike.

If I Were Ike—I should also have published the war record of the man who now claims to be the great defender of the armed forces. . . . I should have published the letter he wrote the Marines in the middle of the Pacific war—October 1944—asking to be mustered out. I should have published his earlier request for leave to go back to Wisconsin right in the middle of the war to run against Senator Wiley—a request which was granted—though it was against regulations for an officers on active duty to run for political office . . . And I should have published McCarthy's first letter applying for a Flying Cross at the time the Marines finally discharged him—at his request—right in the middle of the war . . . I might also have published a photo of the banner McCarthy flaunted across his Marine Corps tent in the South Pacific: "McCarthy for the Senate"—if I were Ike.

If I Were Ike—I should also have published McCarthy's request for a Purple Heart for alleged wounds in action, plus the medical report on how he got the "ten pounds of shrapnel" which he claimed were in his leg . . . I should have let the public read the report showing that he had incurred a slight injury to his foot in some horseplay while being initiated by "King Neptune" as a shellback when his Navy transport crossed the Equator. I would have shown how McCarthy was climbing down a ladder with a bucket tied to his ankle, when he slipped and broke a bone in his foot . . . For this he wanted the Purple Heart. I would have let the public read this record—had I been Ike.

If I Were Ike—I should have made public the Marine Corps correspondence with McCarthy, showing the letter which he sent the Navy asking for a Flying Cross... His statement that he had participated in 32 air missions, the Navy's record that he had flown in only nine missions—only as an observer. . . . McCarthy's continuing pressure on the Navy for the Flying Cross . . . How a former Chicago Tribune lawyer, then assistant secretary of the Navy, finally okayed it . . . How it was held up by superiors, after great pressure, and finally granted in December 1952 . . . No, I am not sure that I would have published the latter point, were I Ike, because it was not until the Navy was sure the Republicans were about to come into power that they reversed Democratic executives and gave Joe his Flying Cross. But then I'm not Ike, so none of this is likely to be published.

Mechanical Brains

The politicians have now lost all faith in calculating machines.

First it was Univac, Remington Rand's human brain which predicted a Democratic landslide over CBS last November and got way out on a limb.

Perhaps because of this, the Democrats used an IBM machine to sort out the 1,350 dinner guests at their testimonial dinner in New Orleans last week. But about 3 p. m., before the dinner, some human thinker discovered that the machine had failed to reckon on 140 people, all of whom had paid their $100, and all of whom felt they were entitled to eat cold ham—even though the machine had counted them out.

So the Democrats say IBM isn't a bit better than Remington Rand.

Some people even suggest that it was an IBM machine that promoted Peress.

Departmental Changes

President Eisenhower is planning an important reshuffle of his Commerce Department.

Louis Rothschild, the Kansas City department-store owner who has turned out to be one of the best maritime commissioners ever appointed, is expected to be shifted to the Commerce Department as undersecretary for transportation, replacing Robert B. Murray Jr., the bureaucrat who busied himself with taking trips at the taxpayers' expense in government airplanes. One flight to Puerto Rico, with Mrs. Murray along, was to inspect "rain-making."

Replacing Rothschild will be Ben Guill, now assistant to Postmaster General Summerfield and one of the few Republicans ever elected to Congress from Texas. Guill was elected from the Amarillo District in 1949, was later defeated, and is now working in the Post Office Department.

Just what Guill, a dry-land Texan, knows about shipping remains to be seen; but Rothschild, a dry-land businessman from Missouri, has done an excellent job.

Meanwhile, Ike is planning to appoint another lame-duck congressman to be assistant secretary of agriculture replacing ex-Congressman Ross Rizley of Oklahoma. It will be either Congressman Wesley D'Ewart, defeated in the Montana Senate race by Sen. Jim Murray, or Congressman Oakley Hunter of Fresno, Calif.

Washington Pipeline

Some White House aides are so pessimistic about the chances of President Eisenhower running for re-election that they are already looking for outside jobs . . . The Justice Department has called for the Senate files on the Arlington Towers case, one of the jucier FHA windfalls. This is the hottest case turned over to the Justice Department so far.

A New Press Club

By Bob Considine

NEW YORK, Dec. 10—(INS)—At long, long last, the largest city in the country and maybe even the world has a press club. I've been in press clubs from the biggest, the National in Washington, D. C., to the liveliest, the one in Tokyo. But as of this Monday night New York will have its first real, home-owned, bona fide, mortgage free, Genuwine meeting place for old and indigent and young and indignant newsmen and news-hens of all media.

Had an interesting form letter about the Overseas Press Club's Memorial Press Center, as we call it, the other day in Cleveland. It was from the president of the organization and read:

"Dear Bob:

"As one of our members, I trust you will do your utmost to let your public, such as it is, know that on this coming Monday night NBC's producers' showcase will present 'Dateline' to key the official dedication ceremonies of the press center at 35 East 39th, N. Y. C.

"The host of stars on the TV color and black-and-white show (which runs from 8 p. m. until 9:30 EST) will include Bob Hope, Sid Caesar, Eddie Fisher, Martha Raye, Marian Anderson, Perry Como, Peggy Lee and Lord knows who (whom) else.

"Bob Sherwood has written a fine sketch about Ernie Pyle; Dick Rodgers is conducting the orchestra in a medley of his great music from "Victory At Sea." Carl Sandburg had composed and will deliver a tribute to war correspondents and foreign correspondents. There will be a take-off on Meet The Press and other established TV favorites with such "actors" as Lawrence Spivak, H. V. Kaltenborn, Lowell Thomas, Hal Boyle, Cecil Brown, Inez Robb, Elsa Maxwell, Ben Grauer, Larry Le Sueur, Bruno Shaw, Tex and Jinx McCrary, etc. John Daly, the best, will officiate. Milton Caniff, greatest friend of the U. S. Air Force since the Brothers Wright, will do one of his incomparable 'Steve Canyon' Sunday pages. Ed Murrow and Fleur Cowles are moving mountains to make it a memorable event.

"Alan Handley, NBC staff producer-director noted for his creative talents on such programs as 'The Dinah Shore Show' and 'Light's Diamond Jubilee', will come from Hollywood to New York to direct 'Dateline'. Fred Coe, tops, will produce, and Jack Rayel is executive producer.

"The Press Center will be a living memorial to, among others, Ernie Pyle, Jack Singer, Webb Miller, Royal Arch Gunnison, Melville Jacoby, Byron Darnton, Raymond Clapper, David Lardner, Stanley Gunn, Bob Bellaire, John Cashman, Dixie Tighe, H. R. Knickerbocker, Nat A. Barrows, George L. Moorad, Burton Heath, Bertram D. Hulen, Ray Richards, C. D. Rosecrans Jr., Ken Inouye, Frank Emery and Bob Capa. More than 80 fine men and women were killed in World War II, Korea and elsewhere in recent years, keeping alive the flame of a free and informed press, radio and the like.

"The Overseas Press Club of America emerged from a round-table gabfest held at the Hotel Algonquin in New York City on April 2, 1939. There were 20 correspondents present. Wythe Williams was elected president. The first treasurer went over the hill with the club's modest bank account.

"Since Mr. Williams, the club has had such presidents as Lucian S. Kirtland, Louis P. Locher, Eugene Lyons, J. Clifford Stark, Lowell Thomas, W. W. Chapmin, John Daly, Burnet Hershey and Frank Kelley. And there are few well known recorders of shot and shell and international politics who are not members. The members and a lot of kind companies, etc., have contributed enough to buy, remodel and refurbish a $250,000 clubhouse, which will have no financial worries for a long time, if ever, thanks also to the sponsors of our dedication show on NBC, the Ford people and RCA.

"It's a beautiful place, thanks to William Pahlmann, A. I. D., prominent and brilliant designer and former light colonel in the country's flying machine brigade. We now have 1,027 members to fill it, and a host of working committees, including one which has helped free imprisoned newsmen and rapped the knuckles of dictators who try to crush the institution of a free press.

"The Memorial Press Center was long over-due, but you'll note on first sight that it was well worth waiting for. Stop in. Try to talk up the Monday night TV show. It should be great. Regards—

"BOB CONSIDINE,
President."

America's Nobel Prize Record Is Going Up

It recently was announced that the 1954 Nobel Prize for chemistry will go to Dr. Linus Pauling of California for his work on protein molecules. Thus of the four Nobel Prizes awarded this year, three have been won by Americans.

Ernest Hemingway has been listed to receive the literature prize. The prize in medicine and physiology went to three Americans, Drs. John F. Enders, Thomas Weller and Frederick Robbins.

Awarded for 53 years, the Nobel Prizes combine high prestige with monetary value. The exact dollar value of each prize depends on the state of international exchange, mainly, and runs well into five figures. Nobel Prizes are given in five fields—the three already listed above, physics, and peace. But prizes in all fields are not given every year.

The United States has cause to be proud of its recent record on Nobel prizes. Not an American was represented among the first 10 prizes in chemistry, literature, medicine, and physiology. One American qualified for a physics prize during that period, and two for the peace prize. In recent years, however, the names of Americans are rather prominent in the annual Nobel awards list.

During the 10 years since the war, Americans have been Nobel Prize winners in the field of physics in 1946 and 1952. In the field of literature, Americans won in 1949 and 1954; and T. S. Eliot, an American-born English citizen, in 1948. In chemistry, Americans won in 1946, 1949, 1951 and 1954. Americans also shared in four Nobel Peace Prizes—1946, 1947, 1950, 1953. In the field of medicine and physiology, Americans have won or shared in all 10 Nobel Prizes from 1946 through 1954!

Many Latin Americans and Europeans, even before the Communists had made much headway with their propaganda about Americans as "barbarians" and "gangsters," used to speak with some condescension of America as a cultural desert. But no other country has come close to winning so many Nobel Prizes since World War II.

In the fields of physics and literature, England had three awards to America's two. But in chemistry, peace, medicine, and physiology, and the over-all total, no other nation during this period has even approached the American score.

These Days

By George E. Sokolsky

Who Is To Conform?

Senator Mike Mansfield is generally regarded as a Liberal with a big L. A liberal used to be defined as a person who believed in an increase in the liberties of the individual man. David Hume, the philosopher who so affected the thought which brought our country into existence, defined liberty as follows:

". . . By liberty, then, we can only mean a power of acting or not acting, according to the determinations of the will; this is, if we choose to remain at rest, we may; if we choose to move, we also may. Now this hypothetical liberty is universally allowed to belong to every one who is not a prisoner and in chains . . ."

When therefore Senator Mansfield would deprive a retired Army or Navy officer of the right to speak his mind or join a cause, of his own free will and at his own risk, he would deprive him of his liberty. Edmund Burke made the point that "among a people generally corrupt, liberty cannot long exist," which is why the Marxists find themselves in difficulties because they have permitted themselves to be corrupted by enslavement to a discipline and a conspiracy and reject the doctrine of free will by the acceptance of mental and moral regimentation. It is precisely this regimentation that must be fought off in the United States.

Senator Mansfield takes the position that military officers have been "taken care of" from the time they enter West Point or Annapolis until they are buried in Arlington National Cemetery. He said: "They should not lend their good names and prestige to movements which are contrary to the best interests of the United States."

He would deprive such men of their liberty and force them to conform to some dictated but temporary view because they once were employed by the Government of the United States. Such a position makes employment a liability because it reduces such a person to secondary citizenship. Can anyone imagine General Douglas MacArthur being silenced because he was for half a century employed in the United States Army?

In the matter of John Paton Davies Jr., it does not seem to be reasonable that the State Department should withhold the money due him—or for that matter of anyone else—unless he signs a contract gagging him. Is money worth that much? He has the right, as a person and a citizen, to devote his life to the defense of his integrity. We grant that right to a murderer, a rapist, a thief, a spy. Shall we refuse that right to a man because he was in the employ of the State Department?

Let us consider two hypothetical cases:

1. Suppose John Paton Davies Jr. wishes to fight his case on the thesis that he was asked to do certain things by the CIA or by the State Department and that whatever he did was only in fulfillment of his duty. Shall he be deprived of the right to try to prove such a defense? Is he not entitled to document such a case if he can? Is he forever to bear the stigma of rejection without the opportunity to clear himself?

I do not know whether Davies can clear himself, but he is entitled to the possibility.

2. Suppose Alger Hiss wishes to prove that he was not a Communist, not a spy for Soviet Russia, but that he served his government in a special manner at the request, let us say, of the President of the United States. I do not know that there is the slightest truth in such an hypothesis or that Alger Hiss wants to do anything of the sort. But suppose he does, has anyone the moral right to deprive him of the freedom to fight for his name, his place in the world, even to his dying day, only because he was employed by the Government of the United States?

If imposed conformity is wrong for a university professor, it is wrong for a general, an admiral or anybody. If imposed conformity is wrong for those who call themselves liberals or progressives, it is wrong for those who call themselves conservatives or moderates or nothing at all. If it is wrong for anybody, it is wrong for everybody.

It is more important that we have overt differences of opinion with ample opportunity for their expression than that we suffer from the suppressive effects of conformity and unity. When we have an intellectual goose-step in this country, it may eliminate all the yak-yak of contentiousness, but we shall no longer be a thinking or a free people. We shall worship those in office as the German people cringed before any man in a uniform.

Secretary Humphrey's Serious Predicament

Eisenhower Could Recall McCarthy's Record If He Cared To Make Reply

By Drew Pearson

WASHINGTON—If I Were Ike—If I were President Eisenhower, and had Senator McCarthy accused me of being nice to "those who are torturing American uniformed men," I should have come back with McCarthy's own vigorous defense of Nazi storm troopers who shot down helpless, undefended American prisoners at Malmedys. I would have quoted McCarthy's brazen charge that American officers stuck the ends of lighted matches under the fingernails of Nazi storm troopers to make them confess the Malmedy murders . . . I would have shown how he ranted and raved and finally stomped out of the hearings when fellow senators defended American uniformed men . . . "Whitewash" was McCarthy's hurled accusation . . . The Nazis, he claimed, "were subject to beatings and physical violence such as only could be devised by warped minds. They were subjected to sham trials and mock hangings . . . to create the right psychological atmosphere in which to obtain confessions." . . . That was the way McCarthy in 1949 attacked the American Army which he now accuses Eisenhower of neglecting. I would have reminded him of that—had I been Ike.

If I Were Ike—I should also have published the war record of the man who now claims to be the great defender of the armed forces. . . . I should have published the letter he wrote the Marines in the middle of the Pacific war—October 1944—asking to be mustered out. I should have published his earlier request for leave to go back to Wisconsin right in the middle of the war to run against Senator Wiley—a request which was granted—though it was against regulations for an officers on active duty to run for political office . . . And I should have published McCarthy's first letter applying for a Flying Cross at the time the Marines finally discharged him—at his request—right in the middle of the war . . . I might also have published a photo of the banner McCarthy flaunted across his Marine Corps tent in the South Pacific: "McCarthy for the Senate"—if I were Ike.

If I Were Ike—I should also have published McCarthy's request for a Purple Heart for alleged wounds in action, plus the medical report on how he got the "ten pounds of shrapnel" which he claimed were in his leg . . . I should have let the public read the report showing that he had incurred a slight injury to his foot in some horseplay while being initiated by "King Neptune" as a shellback when his Navy transport crossed the Equator. I would have shown how McCarthy was climbing down a ladder with a bucket tied to his ankle, when he slipped and broke a bone in his foot . . . For this he wanted the Purple Heart. I would have let the public read this record—had I been Ike.

If I Were Ike—I should have made public the Marine Corps correspondence with McCarthy, showing the letter which he sent the Navy asking for a Flying Cross . . . His statement that he had participated in 32 air missions, the Navy's record that he had flown in only nine missions—only as an observer. . . . McCarthy's continuing pressure on the Navy for the Flying Cross . . . How a former Chicago Tribune lawyer, then assistant secretary of the Navy, finally okayed it . . . How it was held up by superiors, after great pressure, and finally granted in December 1952 . . . No, I am not sure that I would have published the latter point, were I Ike, because it was not until the Navy was sure the Republicans were about to come into power that they reversed Democratic executives and gave Joe his Flying Cross. But then I'm not Ike, so none of this is likely to be published.

Mechanical Brains

The politicians have now lost all faith in calculating machines.

First it was Univac, Remington Rand's human brain which predicted a Democratic landslide over CBS last November and got way out on a limb.

Perhaps because of this, the Democrats used an IBM machine to sort out the 1,350 dinner guests at their testimonial dinner in New Orleans last week. But about 3 p. m., before the dinner, some human thinker discovered that the machine had failed to reckon on 140 people, all of whom had paid their $100, and all of whom felt they were entitled to eat cold ham—even though the machine had counted them out.

So the Democrats say IBM isn't a bit better than Remington Rand.

Some people even suggest that it was an IBM machine that promoted Peress.

Departmental Changes

President Eisenhower is planning an important reshuffle of his Commerce Department.

Louis Rothschild, the Kansas City department-store owner who has turned out to be one of the best maritime commissioners ever appointed, is expected to be shifted to the Commerce Department as undersecretary for transportation, replacing Robert B. Murray Jr., the bureaucrat who busied himself with taking trips at the taxpayers' expense in government airplanes. One flight to Puerto Rico, with Mrs. Murray along, was to inspect "rain-making."

Replacing Rothschild will be Ben Guill, now assistant to Postmaster General Summerfield and one of the few Republicans ever elected to Congress from Texas. Guill was elected from the Amarillo District in 1949, was later defeated, and is now working in the Post Office Department.

Just what Guill, a dry-land Texan, knows about shipping remains to be seen; but Rothschild, a dry-land businessman from Missouri, has done an excellent job.

Meanwhile, Ike is planning to appoint another lame-duck congressman to be assistant secretary of agriculture replacing ex-Congressman Ross Rizley of Oklahoma. It will be either Congressman Wesley D'Ewart, defeated in the Montana Senate race by Sen. Jim Murray, or Congressman Oakley Hunter of Fresno, Calif.

Washington Pipeline

Some White House aides are so pessimistic about the chances of President Eisenhower running for re-election that they are already looking for outside jobs . . . The Justice Department has called for the Senate files on the Arlington Towers case, one of the jucier FHA windfalls. This is the hottest case turned over to the Justice Department so far.

Problems Ahead Give Ike Chance To Unite His Party

By David Lawrence

WASHINGTON — How can harmony be achieved in the Republican party by President Eisenhower's leadership?

This is the $64 question in American politics today. It is not less important because the Democratic party faces an equally serious cleavage over the civil rights issue.

The Republican party is torn with a factionalism based on issues which are really not at all insurmountable. This factionalism is intensified by a fundamental mistaken point of view among some of the President's closest advisers who seem to think the way to political progress is to keep the Republican factions fighting each other.

In many respects President Eisenhower is a political paradox. He has proved himself to be an aggressive partisan inside the Republican party but no partisan at all in fighting the Democratic party.

Many of the supporters of the President use rather loose terms in describing the factions of the Republican party. They refer nowadays to the "right wing" and the "hard core of the right wing." Does this mean that the opposite faction hereafter can be properly described as the "left wing" or the "hard core of the left wing?" Such terms will not enhance the prestige of the Republican party or bring unity to its ranks.

Another example of the careless use of terms occurred in the last two weeks when Senator Knowland of California, majority leader, made a statement urging that a naval blockade might be used to compel the release of the 11 airmen held captive by the Red Chinese. The idea was worth exploring—or at least discussing in a land of free speech. It was advantageous to let the Red Chinese know that members of Congress here were at least thinking of these things.

Without looking up Mr. Knowland's voting record, which has been 87 per cent in favor of the Eisenhower legislative proposals—one of the best in Congress—there was published in a large eastern newspaper an editorial coining the word "Knowlandism." In a few days there were editorials in other newspapers which removed the quotation marks and characterized the Knowland point of view as an "ism," or as a "right wing" pronouncement. Yet, if anybody deserves the title of "progressive moderate," as Mr Eisenhower phrases it, Senator Knowland does. When a few days afterward the California senator lined up against the "censure" resolution, it was promptly asserted by some Eisenhower supporters in the press that "Knowlandism" and "McCarthyism" were the same things. Conversely, one look at the roll-call for censure will reveal, however, the name of Senator Watkins, whose "isolationist" point of view would hardly entitle him to be classified as a "left winger" or "internationalist" just because he fought the Wisconsin senator.

Such tactics are not going to help Mr. Easenhower restore harmony in his party and he, of course, isn't responsible for the mistakes being made by his overzealous supporters. For, if Senator Knowland, who represents the second most populous state in the union, is to be deprived of the right to express the viewpoint of his constituents on public questions unless he conforms to a pattern, then indeed an era of intolerance has arrived on the American scene—far more serious than the Wisconsin senator's tactics in handling witnesses in congressional committees.

The late Senator Taft publicly differed on foreign policy with the Eisenhower administration in May 1953, but nobody called it "Taftism" and there was no demand from the White House coterie that he resign as majority leader. If the White House is to insist on a rubber-stamp Congress and is to choose the majority leader of the Senate, then the system here will tend to acquire the "yes-man" conformity which Hitler introduced and Stalin perfected in handling a national legislature.

It is easy enough to proclaim that Senator McCarthy is down and out politically, but history shows that the same thing happened to Senator LaFollette, who was deserted by almost everybody in 1917—particularly by the Republican party in his own state, and by the legislature of Wisconsin which passed resolutions demanding his expulsion from the Senate. But he was re-elected two years later, and five years afterwards he was rolling up 5,000,000 votes on a third party ticket. John W. Davis, Democrat, otherwise would have won. As it was the winner—Calvin Coolidge—obtained the electoral votes but failed to get a majority in each of 11 states west of the Mississippi.

What is important today politically is not the language or manner or tactless behavior of Senator McCarthy, but the two issues he has raised. These are trade with Red China and with Soviet Russia and failure of the administration thus far to secure the release of Americans held prisoner by the Communist Chinese in violation of the Korean armistice. Not much unity or bi-partisan cooperation will be accomplished on the political front if the President or his advisers assume that only McCarthy has been interested in such issues. President Eisenhower, on the other hand, by taking a really effective position on these grave problems, has a chance not only to unite the Republican party but the country as well. The real key to harmony doesn't lie in accepting peace at any price or pacifism as a national policy.

Baering Down On The News

By Arthur "Bugs" Baer

We've got to figure with the national politician who's isolationist in Europe and interventionist in Asia. Also the statesman who reverses the process and plays both ends against the middle like a man tying up a long bundle with a short string.

It abrogates Newton's law of grabbity. When you're carrying water on both shoulders don't stand on your head.

When foreign policies come home to roost you've got to put the facts in the face. The first is that colonialism is deader than a taxidermist's guest list.

We started it on the one-way chute giving self-government to the Philippines. They would have inherited total freedom in 1945 if the schedule hadn't jumped the track before the train arrived.

When Japan knocked off Manila in 1941 it was notice that Asiatic co-prosperity was paying dividends out of sinking funds. If Tokyo had waited four years it would have been fighting the Philippines.

We could have said it was none of our business and washed our celluloid cuffs of it. The premature incubating of Nipponese ambition was a kick in our star-spangled teeth.

There are no frozen time limits set on Formosa. The Seventh Fleet is over there primed to the nines. Excluding the Civil War every one of our major hassels has started either at sea or over a one-boat regatta.

A New Press Club

By Bob Considine

NEW YORK, Dec. 10—(INS)—At long, long last, the largest city in the country and maybe even the world has a press club. I've been in press clubs from the biggest, the National in Washington, D. C., to the liveliest, the one in Tokyo. But as of this Monday night New York will have its first real, home-owned, bona fide, mortgage free, Genuwine meeting place for old and indigent and young and indignant newsmen and news-hens of all media.

Had an interesting form letter about the Overseas Press Club's Memorial Press Center, as we call it, the other day in Cleveland. It was from the president of the organization and read:

"Dear Bob:

"As one of our members, I trust you will do your utmost to let your public, such as it is, know that on this coming Monday night NBC's producers' showcase will present 'Dateline' to key the official dedication ceremonies of the press center at 35 East 39th, N. Y. C.

"The host of stars on the TV color and black-and-white show (which runs from 8 p. m. until 9:30 EST) will include Bob Hope, Sid Caesar, Eddie Fisher, Martha Raye, Marian Anderson, Perry Como, Peggy Lee and Lord knows who (whom) else.

"Bob Sherwood has written a fine sketch about Ernie Pyle; Dick Rodgers is conducting the orchestra in a medley of his great music from "Victory At Sea." Carl Sandburg had composed and will deliver a tribute to war correspondents and foreign correspondents. There will be a take-off on Meet The Press and other established TV favorites with such "actors" as Lawrence Spivak, H. V. Kaltenborn, Lowell Thomas, Hal Boyle, Cecil Brown, Inez Robb, Elsa Maxwell, Ben Grauer, Larry Le Sueur, Bruno Shaw, Tex and Jinx McCrary, etc. John Daly, the best, will officiate. Milton Caniff, greatest friend of the U. S. Air Force since the Brothers Wright, will do one of his incomparable 'Steve Canyon' Sunday pages. Ed Murrow and Fleur Cowles are moving mountains to make it a memorable event.

"Alan Handley, NBC staff producer-director noted for his creative talents on such programs as 'The Dinah Shore Show' and 'Light's Diamond Jubilee', will come from Hollywood to New York to direct 'Dateline'. Fred Coe, tops, will produce, and Jack Rayel is executive producer.

"The Press Center will be a living memorial to, among others, Ernie Pyle, Jack Singer, Webb Miller, Royal Arch Gunnison, Melville Jacoby, Byron Darnton, Raymond Clapper, David Lardner, Stanley Gunn, Bob Bellaire, John Cashman, Dixie Tighe, H. R. Knickerbocker, Nat A. Barrows, George L. Moorad, Burton Heath, Bertram D. Hulen, Ray Richards, C. D. Rosecrans Jr., Ken Inouye, Frank Emery and Bob Capa. More than 80 fine men and women were killed in World War II, Korea and elsewhere in recent years, keeping alive the flame of a free and informed press, radio and the like.

"The Overseas Press Club of America emerged from a round-table gabfest held at the Hotel Algonquin in New York City on April 2, 1939. There were 20 correspondents present. Wythe Williams was elected president. The first treasurer went over the hill with the club's modest bank account.

"Since Mr. Williams, the club has had such presidents as Lucian S. Kirtland, Louis P. Locher, Eugene Lyons, J. Clifford Stark, Lowell Thomas, W. W. Chapmin, John Daly, Burnet Hershey and Frank Kelley. And there are few well known recorders of shot and shell and international politics who are not members. The members and a lot of kind companies, etc., have contributed enough to buy, remodel and refurbish a $250,000 clubhouse, which will have no financial worries for a long time, if ever, thanks also to the sponsors of our dedication show on NBC, the Ford people and RCA.

"It's a beautiful place, thanks to William Pahlmann, A. I. D., prominent and brilliant designer and former light colonel in the country's flying machine brigade. We now have 1,027 members to fill it, and a host of working committees, including one which has helped free imprisoned newsmen and rapped the knuckles of dictators who try to crush the institution of a free press.

"The Memorial Press Center was long over-due, but you'll note on first sight that it was well worth waiting for. Stop in. Try to talk up the Monday night TV show. It should be great. Regards—

"BOB CONSIDINE,
President."

Too-Common Use Of Antibiotics Reduces Value

By Dr. Theodore R. Van Dellen

Sir William Osler is credited with saying, "The desire to take medicine is perhaps the greatest feature which distinguishes man from animals." No one appreciates this more fully than the family doctor, who is consulted for every major and minor ailment.

The wonder drugs have proved so tempting it is difficult to avoid getting them in one form or another. A California survey revealed that 20 per cent of all adults and one out of six children has received penicillin for a cold.

But that is not all. Of the physicians included in the survey, 25 per cent followed suit. No wonder 300 tons of penicillin must be manufactured to meet the annual demand.

Is this good or bad? It is not good and, in some instances, is dangerous. We are paying the penalty because more and more persons are becoming sensitized to the antibotics. Several deaths have been recorded.

While marked reactions are not common, considering the widespread use of these products, there is no way to predict who will be next. Let us use and not abuse our valuable and potent medications.

How can these problems be solved? Everyone can help by not insisting upon a wonder drug for trivial respiratory infections. Statistics show that most adverse after effects develop in individuals who received penicillin for a cold or other minor disorder.

Anyone with an ellergic tendency should inform his physician of this fact beforehand, particularly those who have suffered a previous attack of bronchial asthma, hay fever, hives, or eczema. Here the medico will weigh the seriousness of the illness against the potential risk of taking medicine.

This precaution is necessary because the usual allergy tests are of little value in uncovering drug sensitivites. As a result, many physicians try a small amount initially; if all goes well, larger quantities are given. In case of doubt, penicillin tablets are prescribed because there is less likelihood of reactions when the drug is administered in this way.

In a recent study in which 45,000 tablets of 500,000 units each were employed, there were only three mild reactions. A combination of one of the antihistaminics and penicillin also is said to minimize reactions.

On the other hand, when dermatitis, hives, or other difficulties follow the taking of an antibiotic, various antidotes are available. ACTH and cortisone are most valuable, offering prompt relief of all symptoms and reducing the duration of the reaction.

LOST FINGERS

R. B. writes: My husband is troubled by having his arms and hands fall asleep during the night. As a young boy, he lost two fingers in an explosion. Do you think this could be the cause?

REPLY

I doubt if the explosion had anything to do with it unless his spine or brachial plexus was injured. The cause of numbness and tingling often is difficult to determine, but pressure on a nerve accounts for the sensation in many instances. I presume you are not referring to phantom pain that occurs in missing parts.

SHORT NEWBORN

Mrs. H. writes: My daughter had a baby last week and she was only 17½ inches long. Both sides of the family are tall, going back three generations. Can anything be done for this child so that she will reach normal height?

REPLY

Allow nature to take its course and 17 years from now, when the girl attains full maturity, you may have no cause for concern.

To the limit of space, questions pertaining to the prevention of disease will be answered. Personal replies will be made when return stamped envelope is inclosed. Telephone inquiries not accepted. Dr. Van Dellen will not make diagnoses or prescribe for individual diseases.

Try And Stop Me!

By Bennett Cerf

Admiral "Bull" Halsey likes the story about the Navy wife who, seeing her husband off on a long tour of duty, was incensed to notice a sleek cocker spaniel aboard. "Hmph," she snorted, "Wives are forbidden on these Navy jaunts, but I see dogs are allowed." "It figures, Madam," an officer informed her gravely. "You see everybody aboard can pet a dog, and not a soul gets mad."

Two typical Bucks County farmers met at a tavern around haying time, and the first one asked the usual question, "How's crops?" "Waal," allowed the second, "the gas station and the cheeseburger concession is just about holdin' their own, but durned if they ain't holdin' over 'Springtime for Henry' for a second week in my barn."

The crime of bigamy, points out Cass Findlay, carries a penalty more severe, probably, than anything else in the law books: two mothers-in-law!

Army Engineers Study River At Keyser, McCoole

Group Makes Initial Study Of Flood Menace

KEYSER—A group of government engineers were in Keyser Friday for the purpose of looking over the situation in the Potomac River in this area, with a view to finding a remedy that will correct the faults in the river that endanger Keyser and McCoole from floods. The men will give some consideration to Long's Island and the island that has been formed, over a period of 20 years or more below Long's Island. These barriers have caused the main part of the stream to flow on the McCoole side of the river at this point.

The engineers have been approached on the subject of dredging the river facing Keyser and McCoole, to dredge out much of the land formed by filling from up the river.

After looking over the situation they returned to Washington, following a talk with Mayor John C. Freeland and other local persons.

The engineers are associated with the Washington District Corps of Engineers, U. S. Army.

Alvin Allison Is Promoted

CHARLESTON, W. Va., Dec. 10 (AP)—Conservation Director Carl J. Johnson said Alvin C. Allison, presently superintendent of the State Tree Nursery at Parsons, has been appointed district forester effective January 1.

Allison, 33, replaces Don C. Cuppett, who resigned to become a forester for Carbide and Carbon Chemicals Corp. in Charleston. Cuppett will look after several thousand acres of forest land owned by the company in Kanawha and Clay counties.

Allison is a former district forester for the Conservation Department. He is a graduate of Penn State and of West Virginia University.

Johnson said Allison would maintain offices in Elkins and would be in charge of forest management and fire control in the department's districts 1, 2 and 3.

Homemakers Plan Party At McCoole

KEYSER — The McCoole Homemakers Club will conduct its annual Christmas party and covered dish supper Tuesday at 5:30 p. m., in the McCoole Community Church. Members are asked to bring their own table service, and an exchange gift, not to cost more than 50 cents. The meeting is for members and their families.

Lonaconing Rotary To Man Salvation Army Kettle Today

LONACONING — Captain Daniel K. Biggs, of the Cumberland Salvation Army headquarters, spoke on "What is the Salvation Army?" at the Lonaconing Rotary Club on Thursday evening at the VFW home, Lonaconing.

Felix Foote, program chairman for the evening, introduced Capt. Biggs. Members of Rotary will man the Salvation Army Christmas Cheer kettle from 9 a. m. until 9 p. m. on Main Street.

Final plans were made for the Christmas family party Thursday, December 23, at 7 p. m. at the Alvin C. Neat Post No. 5280, Veterans of Foreign Wars. Robert Peebles is chairman.

A 100 per cent attendance was recorded at the meeting.

The schedule for manning the Salvation Army kettle from 9 a. m. until 9 p. m. today is planned by Edward McPartland, community service chairman, for Lonaconing Rotary.

From 9 a. m. until 10 a. m. Fred Bowden and Wilbur Lancaster will be at the Rotary kettle; from 10 a. m. until 11 a. m. Harry Warnick and Fred Stoudt; from 11 a. m. until 12 noon, Ed McPartland.

Noon until 1 p. m. Frederick H. Sheeley will be at the kettle for Christmas cheer; from 1 p. m. until 2 p. m., Robert D. Peebles; from 2 p. m. until 3 p. m., Lowell M. Sowers; from 3 p. m. until 4 p. m. Aden T. Miller.

From 4 p. m. until 5 p. m. Leslie J. Clark and Felix Foote will be on the job; from 5 p. m. until 6 p. m. Thomas Staup and Cecil Inskeep will man it; from 6 p. m. until 7 p. m. Thomas Connor, Dewey Burns and James McElvie.

Garlitz Barclay and Conrad Hohing are scheduled from 7 p. m. until 8 p. m.; and Herman Kamauff and John McPartland, from 8 p. m. until 9 p. m.

Girl Scouts, Brownies Will Meet Sunday

FROSTBURG — All Girl Scouts and Brownie Scouts will meet in the lecture room of First Methodist Church Sunday, 5:45 p. m., and will attend the community Christmas tree lighting ceremony in front of St. Paul's Lutheran Church at 6 p. m.

The girls are conducting a project of repainting and repairing old toys to be distributed at Christmas, under the direction of Mrs. Mrs. Lois Jackson, health nurse.

Two new leaders, Mrs. John Walker and Mrs. Bray Thompson were welcomed into the group, and have assumed the leadership of an Intermediate Troop at Beall Elementary School.

Lutheran Choir Sings Cantata Tomorrow

KEYSER — The Christmas Vesper Service at Trinity Evangelical Lutheran Church, on North Davis Street, will be given by the church choir at 4 p. m., Sunday. Included in the annual service will be a cantata, "The Babe of Bethlehem," by Harvey B. Gaul, presented in six parts. Mrs. Evelyn T. Coffman will be organist and Leonard G. Withers, Potomac State College music department head, will be director.

"The Babe of Bethlehem" was presented by the choir four years ago and was well received by a capacity audience. Since that time there have been many requests that the choir repeat the cantata.

The cantata will open with the prelude, advancing to "The Time of Annunciation," "The Shepherds in the Fields," "March of the Wise Men," "At the Lowly Manger" and closing with the final postlude.

Keyser Chamber Hears Talk By Anthony Saeli

KEYSER — Anthony Saeli, executive secretary of the Cumberland Chamber of Commerce, gave some important information to members of the Keyser-Mineral County Chamber of Commerce Thursday evening at the mid-season dinner in Grace Methodist Church. The information was in the line of assistance in carrying on the work of the local chamber.

He emphasized, during his talk, the importance of both loyalty and leadership in the direction of progressive community spirit, and pointed out that many times the community does not realize what assets it has and too often the citizens are prone to criticize rather than provide needed praise and aid.

Again he emphasized that those in industry, who might want to open in a new territory, are interested in what the attitude of citizens generally is, in the area they are looking to for a location.

Before Saeli's talk, T. Warner Lowry gave a report on work the local chamber's industrial committee is doing. David G. Nuzum reported on work of the public relations committee activities and George Petras discussed the forthcoming economics study group meetings to be held at Potomac State College for several days in January.

James H. Swadley, Jr., president of the local chamber, announced that he was exceptionally well pleased with the mid-season dinner meeting, adding that much was accomplished and that 54 members were present and took an active part. He announced also that James Metries, new manager of the local plant of the Perfection Garment Company here, was a guest at the dinner.

Midland Church Shows Outstanding Religious Display To Commemorate Close Of Marian Year

MIDLAND—As a special tribute to the Blessed Mother, on the last three days of the Marian Year, a special display of religious art work was arranged at St. Joseph's Catholic Church here.

Under the patronage of the Sodality of Our Lady, the exhibit consists of statues and pictures of the Blessed Virgin Mary under her various titles as she is known and recognized around the world.

The exhibit starts with St. Ann, the mother of Mary, teaching her as a child; followed by Mary the "Lily of Israel," then an oil painting of "The Annunciation." This picture was painted by Henry McVeigh, a deceased member of the parish.

"The Visitation," followed in the display by "The Nativity," "The Holy Family," and finally "The Mother of Christ," holding her crucified son in her arms, are included. Then is shown "The Assumption."

The statue of Our Lady of Fatima, which has been honored in each home in St. Joseph's parish finds its place among the oldest and the newest of religious statues.

Some of these include "Our Sorrowful Mother;" "Mary, Seat of Wisdom;" "Our Lady of Grace;" "I Am the Immaculate Conception;" "Our Lady of Peace;" "The Pilgrim Lady;" "Star of the Sea;" "Queen of the Rosary;" "The Mother of Sorrows;" "Mother of Perpetual Help;" "Queen of the Apostles;" "Our Lady of Lourdes;" "Our Lady of Hope;" "Mother of Good Council;" "Meadiatric of All Graces;" "The Queen of May Day Feast;" "Health of the Sick;" "Mother of LaSalette;" "The Miraculous Medal;" "Our Lady of Guadalupe," and others.

A five-foot-long Irish family Rosary with each bead one inch thick, plus a five-inch Cross, is displayed. A pair of Irish horn Rosaries and a novena rosary are shown.

Many copies of masterpieces on holy cards portraying "The Life and Queenship" of Mary are among the colorful and beautiful collection. These were given by the pastor, Father Buckley, and the school Sisters of Notre Dame.

Mrs. Wilbur Crowe, a member of the parish, spent many long hours seeking out the relics and completing the highly appropriate and significant display. She said, "This exhibit is to keep us ever mindful of Mary the Mother of Jesus, and many people have viewed it with a great deal of interest."

Work Unit Has Party

FROSTBURG — The Women's Work Group of the Church of the Brethren held their annual Christmas party Tuesday evening in the church parsonage. A program was presented and gifts exchanged.

All members of the church are asked to bring a donation of food to the church to be used in preparing a basket for a needy family.

Group Makes Initial Study Of Flood Menace

KEYSER—A group of government engineers were in Keyser Friday for the purpose of looking over the situation in the Potomac River in this area, with a view to finding a remedy that will correct the faults in the river that endanger Keyser and McCoole from floods. The men will give some consideration to Long's Island and the island that has been formed, over a period of 20 years or more below Long's Island. These barriers have caused the main part of the stream to flow on the McCoole side of the river at this point.

The engineers have been approached on the subject of dredging the river facing Keyser and McCoole, to dredge out much of the land formed by filling from up the river.

After looking over the situation they returned to Washington, following a talk with Mayor John C. Freeland and other local persons.

The engineers are associated with the Washington District Corps of Engineers, U. S. Army.

Alvin Allison Is Promoted

CHARLESTON, W. Va., Dec. 10 (AP)—Conservation Director Carl J. Johnson said Alvin C. Allison, presently superintendent of the State Tree Nursery at Parsons, has been appointed district forester effective January 1.

Allison, 33, replaces Don C. Cuppett, who resigned to become a forester for Carbide and Carbon Chemicals Corp. in Charleston. Cuppett will look after several thousand acres of forest land owned by the company in Kanawha and Clay counties.

Allison is a former district forester for the Conservation Department. He is a graduate of Penn State and of West Virginia University.

Johnson said Allison would maintain offices in Elkins and would be in charge of forest management and fire control in the department's districts 1, 2 and 3.

Lonaconing Rotary To Man Salvation Army Kettle Today

LONACONING — Captain Daniel K. Biggs, of the Cumberland Salvation Army headquarters, spoke on "What is the Salvation Army?" at the Lonaconing Rotary Club on Thursday evening at the VFW home, Lonaconing.

Felix Foote, program chairman for the evening, introduced Capt. Biggs. Members of Rotary will man the Salvation Army Christmas Cheer kettle from 9 a. m. until 9 p. m. on Main Street.

Final plans were made for the Christmas family party Thursday, December 23, at 7 p. m. at the Alvin C. Neat Post No. 5280, Veterans of Foreign Wars. Robert Peebles is chairman.

A 100 per cent attendance was recorded at the meeting.

The schedule for manning the Salvation Army kettle from 9 a. m. until 9 p. m. today is planned by Edward McPartland, community service chairman, for Lonaconing Rotary.

From 9 a. m. until 10 a. m. Fred Bowden and Wilbur Lancaster will be at the Rotary kettle; from 10 a. m. until 11 a. m. Harry Warnick and Fred Stoudt; from 11 a. m. until 12 noon, Ed McPartland.

Noon until 1 p. m. Frederick H. Sheeley will be at the kettle for Christmas cheer; from 1 p. m. until 2 p. m., Robert D. Peebles; from 2 p. m. until 3 p. m., Lowell M. Sowers; from 3 p. m. until 4 p. m. Aden T. Miller.

From 4 p. m. until 5 p. m. Leslie J. Clark and Felix Foote will be on the job; from 5 p. m. until 6 p. m. Thomas Staup and Cecil Inskeep will man it; from 6 p. m. until 7 p. m. Thomas Connor, Dewey Burns and James McElvie.

Garlitz Barclay and Conrad Hohing are scheduled from 7 p. m. until 8 p. m.; and Herman Kamauff and John McPartland, from 8 p. m. until 9 p. m.

Girl Scouts, Brownies Will Meet Sunday

FROSTBURG — All Girl Scouts and Brownie Scouts will meet in the lecture room of First Methodist Church Sunday, 5:45 p. m., and will attend the community Christmas tree lighting ceremony in front of St. Paul's Lutheran Church at 6 p. m.

The girls are conducting a project of repainting and repairing old toys to be distributed at Christmas, under the direction of Mrs. Mrs. Lois Jackson, health nurse.

Two new leaders, Mrs. John Walker and Mrs. Bray Thompson were welcomed into the group, and have assumed the leadership of an Intermediate Troop at Beall Elementary School.

Lutheran Choir Sings Cantata Tomorrow

KEYSER — The Christmas Vesper Service at Trinity Evangelical Lutheran Church, on North Davis Street, will be given by the church choir at 4 p. m., Sunday. Included in the annual service will be a cantata, "The Babe of Bethlehem," by Harvey B. Gaul, presented in six parts. Mrs. Evelyn T. Coffman will be organist and Leonard G. Withers, Potomac State College music department head, will be director.

"The Babe of Bethlehem" was presented by the choir four years ago and was well received by a capacity audience. Since that time there have been many requests that the choir repeat the cantata.

The cantata will open with the prelude, advancing to "The Time of Annunciation," "The Shepherds in the Fields," "March of the Wise Men," "At the Lowly Manger" and closing with the final postlude.

Parsons Defeats Fort Hill, Southern Wins Over Allegany

Panthers Post 47-43 Triumph Over Sentinels

Late Rally Decides; Fairbanks, McGregor Head Point Getters

A field goal by Terry Fairbanks and three foul shots by Frank Mullennex in the final minute of play gave Robert Sullivan's Parsons High Panthers a thrilling 47-43 victory over the Fort Hill Sentinels cage team before a large opening game crowd last night on the locals' boards.

The Cavanaughmen took an early 13-7 lead at the close of the first quarter but Parsons, paced by Mullennex and Fairbanks who scored 29 points between them, rallied and held a 23-19 halftime edge.

Trailing 40-35 as the fourth quarter began Fort Hill's cagers began to hit and with less than a minute to play grabbed the lead 43-42 on Dorcil Kline's pair of foul tosses. But Fairbanks' fielder quickly turned the tide in favor of the Panthers and three quick fouls by Mullennex clinched the triumph for the visitors.

Fairbanks topped the Panthers with 17 tallies on eight goals and a charity throw while Mullenex collected 12 markers with three goals and 6 for 7 at the free throw line.

Galen McGregor with 20 points and Jerry Landis with 19 accounted for most of the Fort Hill tallies as both teams scored 19 field goals. Fort Hill netted 19 of 45 attempts from the floor while Parsons garnered 19 of 48. The Panthers' edge came at the foul circle where they potted 9 of 19 tries from the 15-foot marker. Fort Hill had 5-15 free throws. The lineups:

Fox Undergoes Eye Operation In Baltimore

John Fox, assistant football coach at Potomac State College, regular forward on last season's Old Germans basketball team and basketball referee, is recovering from an operation for the correction of a detached retina which was performed at Johns Hopkins Hospital, Baltimore.

The retina is the sensitive membrane of the eye, which receives the image formed by the lens and is the immediate instrument of vision, being connected with the brain by the optic nerve.

A 1949 graduate of West Virginia University, where he played basketball and baseball, Fox signed a contract with the Cincinnati Reds and played with Columbia, S. C., and Tulsa, Okla., before coming to Potomac State.

Windemuth Brothers Score; Paw Paw Man Shoots 205-Pounder

Allegany county's deer kill for the first five days of the season soared to 231 yesterday when six checking stations reported that 28 was the bag for the day.

To equal last year's record of 279 the hunters must bring in 48 more bucks today on the final day of the season.

The biggest deer bagged in Allegany county in several years was brought in yesterday by Cecil Hott, of RD 1, Paw Paw, W. Va. The big fellow weighed 205 pounds, had eight points and was slain in the Green Ridge section. Two hundred pounders have been a rarity in Allegany county in recent years.

The Windemuth Brothers, Lewis of 425 Chestnut Street, and Arthur of 429 Walnut Street, both bagged bucks yesterday on Town Hill.

Checking stations at Clear Spring and Hancock yesterday each reported inspecting one deer killed in Allegany county. Melvin Lewis at Oldtown checked 11, Graydon Dunlap at Shipway's reported eight and Westernport Police two. Five of the six animals brought to the LaVale barracks of the State Police fell in Allegany county.

Potomac State Loses, 82-64

Glenville Pioneers Cop Conference Tilt

KEYSER, W. Va., Dec. 10 — Potomac State's Catamounts lost their first game in the West Virginia Intercollegiate Conference last night in Keyser as Glenville downed the men of Dana "Horse" Lough, 82-64.

At the end of the first half, the teams were tied at 39-39, but guard Tennant sank a foul shot to put Glenville ahead 1-40 early in the third period, and the visitors were never headed again.

The loss brought the Cats' season record to two wins against three losses.

Morgan, Potomac State forward, was the high scorer on the floor with 21 tallies, while Poole led the Glenville quintet with 19 markers. Lineups:

Wininger Leads At Miami; Snead Forced To Quit

MIAMI, Fla., Dec. 10 (AP) — Bo Wininger, a husky rudy-faced Oklahoman, putted brilliantly today and shot into the lead of the Miami Open Golf Tournament at the halfway mark.

He fired a 66 for a 134 total. Wininger dislodged Ted Kroll of New Hartford, N. Y., whose 67-68—135 appeared safe until Wininger and his hot putter went to work.

The tournament was thrown wide open this morning when the favorite, Sam Snead, White Sulphur Springs, W. Va., was forced to withdraw because of a recurrence of an old back injury. Snead was tied for second, one stroke out of first, after the opening round.

Julius Boros, of Mid Pines, N.C., first round leader with a 66, took a one over par 71 today and dropped into a tie for third at 137 with National Open champion Ed Furgol of St. Louis.

Tied for fifth at 138 were Doug Higgins, Midlands, Tex.; Chick Harbert, Northville, Mich., and Bob Gajda, Bloomfield Hills, Mich.

Durbin Leads Garrett Quint To 56-48 Win

Highlanders' Center Scores 25; Winners Hoop 22 Of 28 Fouls

OAKLAND, Dec. 10 — Charley Durbin, Southern High School center, dumped in 25 points tonight to lead Coach Leonard Ritchie's Highlanders to a 56-48 triumph over Allegany High School of Cumberland which was making its first start of the season tonight.

Durbin registered eight field goals and meshed nine of 11 free throws to spark the Oakland attack.

Southern broke into the scoring column first and Allegany never caught the inspired Highlanders. The quarter scores were 21-14, 35-20 and 45-37.

Allegany outscored Southern from the field, 20 to 17 but the Highlanders excelled at the foul line where they connected for 22 points in 28 shots. The Campers fared poorly at the 15-foot mark, hooping only 8 of 23 throws.

Jim Thomas and Jim Sisk were Allegany's chief scorers with 13 and 12 tallies. Rod Breedlove and Allen Haines garnered 10 each.

Parsons Defeats Fort Hill, Southern Wins Over Allegany

Late Rally Decides; Fairbanks, McGregor Head Point Getters

A field goal by Terry Fairbanks and three foul shots by Frank Mullennex in the final minute of play gave Robert Sullivan's Parsons High Panthers a thrilling 47-43 victory over the Fort Hill Sentinels cage team before a large opening game crowd last night on the locals' boards.

The Cavanaughmen took an early 13-7 lead at the close of the first quarter but Parsons, paced by Mullennex and Fairbanks who scored 29 points between them, rallied and held a 23-19 halftime edge.

Trailing 40-35 as the fourth quarter began Fort Hill's cagers began to hit and with less than a minute to play grabbed the lead 43-42 on Dorcil Kline's pair of foul tosses. But Fairbanks' fielder quickly turned the tide in favor of the Panthers and three quick fouls by Mullennex clinched the triumph for the visitors.

Fairbanks topped the Panthers with 17 tallies on eight goals and a charity throw while Mullenex collected 12 markers with three goals and 6 for 7 at the free throw line.

Galen McGregor with 20 points and Jerry Landis with 19 accounted for most of the Fort Hill tallies as both teams scored 19 field goals. Fort Hill netted 19 of 45 attempts from the floor while Parsons garnered 19 of 48. The Panthers' edge came at the foul circle where they potted 9 of 19 tries from the 15-foot marker. Fort Hill had 5-15 free throws. The lineups:

Tech Gives Baker Five-Year Contract

PITTSBURGH, Dec. 10 (AP)—Dr. Eddie Baker, who coached Carnegie Tech to its first undefeated football season in history this year, signed a new five-year contract today. Terms were not revealed.

His all-time record as head coach is 40 victories, 27 defeats and two ties.

Renew Contract

GREENSBORO, N. C., Dec. 10 (AP)—The Atlantic Coast Conference today approved in principle a three-year renewal of its Orange Bowl football contract, extending it through Jan. 1, 1958.

Garrett Kills Hit 405

Hunters bagged 405 deer in Garrett County during the first four days of the season, according to Game Warden Francis H. Ruge. The six-day record for Garrett is 583.

Among eyeglass wearers in the United States, about 61 per cent use plain lenses and 39 per cent bifocals or trifocals.

Fox Undergoes Eye Operation In Baltimore

John Fox, assistant football coach at Potomac State College, regular forward on last season's Old Germans basketball team and basketball referee, is recovering from an operation for the correction of a detached retiha which was performed at Johns Hopkins Hospital, Baltimore.

The retina is the sensitive membrane of the eye, which receives the image formed by the lens and is the immediate instrument of vision, being connected with the brain by the optic nerve.

A 1949 graduate of West Virginia University, where he played basketball and baseball, Fox signed a contract with the Cincinnati Reds and played with Columbia, S. C., and Tulsa, Okla., before coming to Potomac State.

Bobcats Take Fifth In Row

Frostburg Scores At Towson, 68-55

TOWSON, Md., Dec. 10—Frostburg State Teachers College scored its fifth consecutive victory tonight, taking the measure of Towson State Teachers College to the tune of 68-55.

ALL PARKS ALIKE

NEW YORK — All major league parks are practically alike to Willie Mays and Hank Thompson when it comes to hitting home runs. Both Giants hit homers in every National League park in 1954. Mays hit 22 of his 41 on enemy soil. Thompson hit half of his 26 on the road.

28 Deer Slain Friday, 5-Day Total Is 231

Windemuth Brothers Score; Paw Paw Man Shoots 205-Pounder

Allegany county's deer kill for the first five days of the season soared to 231 yesterday when six checking stations reported that 28 was the bag for the day.

To equal last year's record of 279 the hunters must bring in 48 more bucks today on the final day of the season.

The biggest deer bagged in Allegany county in several years was brought in yesterday by Cecil Hott, of RD 1, Paw Paw, W. Va. The big fellow weighed 205 pounds, had eight points and was slain in the Green Ridge section. Two hundred pounders have been a rarity in Allegany county in recent years.

The Windemuth Brothers, Lewis of 425 Chestnut Street, and Arthur of 429 Walnut Street, both bagged bucks yesterday on Town Hill.

Checking stations at Clear Spring and Hancock yesterday each reported inspecting one deer killed in Allegany county. Melvin Lewis at Oldtown checked 11, Graydon Dunlap at Shipway's reported eight and Westernport Police two. Five of the six animals brought to the LaVale barracks of the State Police fell in Allegany county.

Wininger Leads At Miami; Snead Forced To Quit

MIAMI, Fla., Dec. 10 (AP) — Bo Wininger, a husky rudy-faced Oklahoman, putted brilliantly today and shot into the lead of the Miami Open Golf Tournament at the halfway mark.

He fired a 66 for a 134 total. Wininger dislodged Ted Kroll of New Hartford, N. Y., whose 67-68—135 appeared safe until Wininger and his hot putter went to work.

The tournament was thrown wide open this morning when the favorite, Sam Snead, White Sulphur Springs, W. Va., was forced to withdraw because of a recurrence of an old back injury. Snead was tied for second, one stroke out of first, after the opening round.

Julius Boros, of Mid Pines, N.C., first round leader with a 66, took a one over par 71 today and dropped into a tie for third at 137 with National Open champion Ed Furgol of St. Louis.

Tied for fifth at 138 were Doug Higgins, Midlands, Tex.; Chick Harbert, Northville, Mich., and Bob Gajda, Bloomfield Hills, Mich.

Meyersdale Five Wallops Northern By 74-46 Score

MEYERSDALE, Pa., Dec. 10 — Meyersdale's basketball team poured it on in the third period here last night to easily down the visiting Northern High School squad from Accident, Md., 74-46.

The contest was close until the third stanza and then the host team caught fire. Meyersdale led by one point at the end of the first quarter, and by seven at the half.

A rough contest was marked by 34 personal fouls plastered on both teams.

Hornig, with 24 points, and Reich, with 18 tallies, led the Meyersdale squad. Baker and Hamilton were high for Northern, scoring 16 and 14 points, respectively. Lineups:

Hope From London

I just don't understand how Bob Hope can assemble such a glittering roster of talent and spend so much money and come up with something so mediocre as his last show on NBC-TV Tuesday night.

Hope skipped the country in November to do a command performance at the Palladjum in London. This show was filmed in London with Maurice Chevalier, Beatrice Lillie, and the Cologne 182-voice choir, a British film star named Moira Lister, and a French ballerina named Liane Dayde. With a lineup like that I didn't see how he could possibly miss but he sure did.

There was the usual opening, Hope in front of a curtain, splattering bad jokes about the English fog and the Los Angeles smog. In 10 minutes, there was one good joke: "Over here the government subsidizes the actors to go on television. In our country the actors go on television to subsidize the government." Well, maybe it just seemed good because of the company it was in. Incidentally, Hope seemed to slow his normal machinegun pace down to about half speed for the British who have trouble understanding fast-talking Americans. I don't know whether the laughter that greeted these feeble sallies was authentic English laughter or whether it was the canned stuff they turn out in Hollywood these days. Anyhow, there was quite a lot of it, all unaccountable.

Then came the Cologne Choir.

UNINTENTIONAL SIGNALS

THERE is no such thing as a play so unimportant that you can afford to be careless about it. Especially is this true of a defender opposite a keen partner, who is alert to read every possible message given by each card you play. If you willy-nilly throw your lowest of several small cards on an early trick, you may thereby cause him to do something which presents the declarer one or more tricks, perhaps his contract.

	♠ 2 ♥ 10 8 3 ♦ Q 10 8 4 2 ♣ K J 6 2
♠ K J 9 8 3 ♥ 7 6 4 2 ♦ 7 3 ♣ 9 3	N W E S	♠ Q 10 7 6 4 ♥ A K Q J 9 ♦ None ♣ Q 10 4
	♠ A 5 ♥ 5 ♦ A K J 9 6 5 ♣ A 8 7 5

(Dealer: East. Both sides vulnerable.)

East	South	West	North
1 ♠	Dbl.	2 ♠	3 ♦
3 ♥	4 ♦	4 ♥	Pass
Pass	5 ♦	Pass	Pass
5 ♥	Dbl.	Pass	6 ♦
Dbl.

East took the first trick with the heart K, West automatically playing the 2. The latter did not realize the importance of his act. Everybody else at the table, seeing the dummy's singleton, knew East would shift to another suit. But which one?

The leader decided that West's play was an obvious suit-preference signal, that the 2 indicated desire for the lower-ranking clubs instead of the higher-ranking spades, possibly because West had the club K. If a spade shift had been desired, East would have expected something higher on the heart opening, perhaps a 6 or 7.

So East next led the club 4. This gave North a cheap trick with the J, and the remaining tricks were his without effort.

If West had played the higher heart 6 or 7 on the first trick, East would have led a spade next. That would have doomed the contract, compelling loss of the setting trick in clubs.

Your Week-end Question

Of the two similar appearing plays, known as the "hold-up" and the "duck," which is fundamentally offensive and which defensive?

UNINTENTIONAL SIGNALS

THERE is no such thing as a play so unimportant that you can afford to be careless about it. Especially is this true of a defender opposite a keen partner, who is alert to read every possible message given by each card you play. If you willy-nilly throw your lowest of several small cards on an early trick, you may thereby cause him to do something which presents the declarer one or more tricks, perhaps his contract.

	♠ 2 ♥ 10 8 3 ♦ Q 10 8 4 2 ♣ K J 6 2
♠ K J 9 8 3 ♥ 7 6 4 2 ♦ 7 3 ♣ 9 3	N W E S	♠ Q 10 7 6 4 ♥ A K Q J 9 ♦ None ♣ Q 10 4
	♠ A 5 ♥ 5 ♦ A K J 9 6 5 ♣ A 8 7 5

(Dealer: East. Both sides vulnerable.)

East	South	West	North
1 ♠	Dbl.	2 ♠	3 ♦
3 ♥	4 ♦	4 ♥	Pass
Pass	5 ♦	Pass	Pass
5 ♥	Dbl.	Pass	6 ♦
Dbl.

East took the first trick with the heart K, West automatically playing the 2. The latter did not realize the importance of his act. Everybody else at the table, seeing the dummy's singleton, knew East would shift to another suit. But which one?

The leader decided that West's play was an obvious suit-preference signal, that the 2 indicated desire for the lower-ranking clubs instead of the higher-ranking spades, possibly because West had the club K. If a spade shift had been desired, East would have expected something higher on the heart opening, perhaps a 6 or 7.

So East next led the club 4. This gave North a cheap trick with the J, and the remaining tricks were his without effort.

If West had played the higher heart 6 or 7 on the first trick, East would have led a spade next. That would have doomed the contract, compelling loss of the setting trick in clubs.

Your Week-end Question

Of the two similar appearing plays, known as the "hold-up" and the "duck," which is fundamentally offensive and which defensive?

Market Hits Difficulties Following Mixed Session

NEW YORK, Dec. 10 (AP) — The Stock Market ran into difficulties late in the session today and closed mixed after holding higher most of the day.

Steels and railroads displayed a good strength throughout, and coppers enjoyed expanded demand in the afternoon.

Motors turned down before the close. There was weakness in some oils and rubbers. The chemicals were down and aircrafts remained mixed.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks lost 30 cents, its third straight decline, and closed at $149.20. Industrials were down 80 cents while railroads advanced 40 cents and utilities lost 30 cents.

Out of the 1,238 individual issues traded, 564 advanced and 445 declined with 102 new highs and 2 new lows for the year touched during the session.

Chinese Doctor Comes To U. S. For Divorce

By SAUL PETT

NEW YORK, Dec. 9 (AP)—Things cleared up perceptibly last week.

A Chinese doctor sought a divorce in Dallas, pointing out that he and his Chinese wife were married in Shanghai and separated in Hong Kong, whereupon she moved to Marseilles and then Paris but cannot be reached there now since she is living in Brussels, while he moved to San Francisco before coming to Dallas, where he is living now, and what do you like in the first at Hialeah?

In Wichita Falls, Tex., Victor Kuhl had his name changed legally to Vytautas Edvaroas Kulikauskas.

Well done: In Nevada City, Calif., Mrs. John Huse put the night's receipts from her husband's tavern in a wood stove for safekeeping without telling anyone. Next morning John was the first up. He cooked a $175 breakfast.

Long arm of the law: In Croydon, England, a traffic cop stuck his arm out in a stop signal, smacking a pedestrian right in the eye and bringing the police department a bill for new spectacles.

Collective bargaining, no names, please: A Tokyo dairy store acceded to the demands of its seven delivery boys who formed a union and insisted on more pay, food, shorter hours and a management promise to stop calling the "bakayaro"—stupid fools.

Animal kingdom: In Portogruaro, which is in Italy, a wine truck overturned and a cow got drunk, running around with lowered head looking for a fight.

Out of ammunition and patience after firing four bad shots, Daryl Shumway of Cedar City, Utah, threw a rock at a bobcat, caught it squarely between the eyes, and finished the job with a second rock.

Mt. Savage OES Elects Officers

MT. SAVAGE — Rebecca Arnold Chapter No. 57 Order of the Eastern Star met with worthy matron Mrs. Mary Best, and associate patron Thomas Jenkins presiding. Following the business meeting and election of officers plans were made for the Christmas party to be held December 21 in the Junior Order Hall.

The following officers were elected, Mrs. Leona Wilson, worthy matron, Thomas Jenkins, worthy patron; Mrs. Virginia Geary, associate matron; and Ralph Bowser, worthy patron; Miss LaVerne Uhl, treasurer; Mrs. Sue Bowser, conductress, and Mrs. Clara Walters, associate conductress.

Market Hits Difficulties Following Mixed Session

NEW YORK, Dec. 10 (AP) — The Stock Market ran into difficulties late in the session today and closed mixed after holding higher most of the day.

Steels and railroads displayed a good strength throughout, and coppers enjoyed expanded demand in the afternoon.

Motors turned down before the close. There was weakness in some oils and rubbers. The chemicals were down and aircrafts remained mixed.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks lost 30 cents, its third straight decline, and closed at $149.20. Industrials were down 80 cents while railroads advanced 40 cents and utilities lost 30 cents.

Out of the 1,238 individual issues traded, 564 advanced and 445 declined with 102 new highs and 2 new lows for the year touched during the session.

Affiliated Gas Equipment was at the head of the most active list up 1 at 13⅝ on 51,000 shares. It was followed by Wilson & Co. up ⅝ at 11⅛, Ashland Oil up ⅜ at 13½, Rexall Drug up ¼ at 8⅜, and Howe Sound up ½ at 20⅜.

Among outstanding gainers in the list were Pittsburgh Steel up 1⅜, Gimbel Bros. 1, Beech Aircraft 1½, Texas Gulf Producing 3¼, Anaconda Copper 1⅞, Magma Copper 4⅛, American Can 1½, Armour & Co. ½, Southern Railway 1½, Atlantic Coast Line 3½, Aluminum Co. of American 4, and Pan American World Airways ⅜.

Among other losers were General Motors off 1, Chrysler ⅝, Goodyear ⅝, United Aircraft 1⅛, Schenley Ihdustires ⅝, Admiral Corp ¼, American Tobacco ⅝, American Telephone 1⅛, Western Union 2¼, Allied Chemical 1, Du Pont 1¼, Westinghouse Electric ⅝, International Paper 1⅝, New York Central ½, Eastern Air Lines 1⅛, and Amerada Petroleum 4½.

Chinese Doctor Comes To U. S. For Divorce

By SAUL PETT

NEW YORK, Dec. 9 (AP)—Things cleared up perceptibly last week.

A Chinese doctor sought a divorce in Dallas, pointing out that he and his Chinese wife were married in Shanghai and separated in Hong Kong, whereupon she moved to Marseilles and then Paris but cannot be reached there now since she is living in Brussels, while he moved to San Francisco before coming to Dallas, where he is living now, and what do you like in the first at Hialeah?

In Wichita Falls, Tex., Victor Kuhl had his name changed legally to Vytautas Edvaroas Kulikauskas.

Well done: In Nevada City, Calif., Mrs. John Huse put the night's receipts from her husband's tavern in a wood stove for safekeeping without telling anyone. Next morning John was the first up. He cooked a $175 breakfast.

Long arm of the law: In Croydon, England, a traffic cop stuck his arm out in a stop signal, smacking a pedestrian right in the eye and bringing the police department a bill for new spectacles.

Collective bargaining, no names, please: A Tokyo dairy store acceded to the demands of its seven delivery boys who formed a union and insisted on more pay, food, shorter hours and a management promise to stop calling the "bakayaro"—stupid fools.

Animal kingdom: In Portogruaro, which is in Italy, a wine truck overturned and a cow got drunk, running around with lowered head looking for a fight.

Out of ammunition and patience after firing four bad shots, Daryl Shumway of Cedar City, Utah, threw a rock at a bobcat, caught it squarely between the eyes, and finished the job with a second rock.

Mt. Savage OES Elects Officers

MT. SAVAGE — Rebecca Arnold Chapter No. 57 Order of the Eastern Star met with worthy matron Mrs. Mary Best, and associate patron Thomas Jenkins presiding. Following the business meeting and election of officers plans were made for the Christmas party to be held December 21 in the Junior Order Hall.

The following officers were elected, Mrs. Leona Wilson, worthy matron, Thomas Jenkins, worthy patron; Mrs. Virginia Geary, associate matron; and Ralph Bowser, worthy patron; Miss LaVerne Uhl, treasurer; Mrs. Sue Bowser, conductress, and Mrs. Clara Walters, associate conductress.

Girl Killed By Auto On Bedford Road

Driver Posts $2,000 Bond In Accident

A six-year-old girl was killed instantly about 4:10 p. m. yesterday when she was struck by an automobile near her home on Bedford Road a short time after having alighted from a school bus.

She was Jean Marie Mitchell, oldest child of James H. and Jane Ellen (Himmler) Mitchell.

A second grader at Gephart School, the child had ridden the school bus out to the state line and returned to her home, which is on the westerly side of the highway just south of the Bedford Road Baptist Chapel.

State Police said the child walked around the rear of the bus and then crossed the highway toward the family's mailbox situated on the easterly side of the road.

State Trooper First Class J. F. Lewis, who investigated with Trooper L. C. Clark, said the child was about one foot across the center line into the northbound lane of the road when she was struck by a northbound car driven by Lewis Paul Twigg, 22, RFD 3, Bedford Road.

Witnesses said the child's body was carried 70 feet by the impact.

Dr. H. V. Deming, deputy county medical examiner, informed State Police that death was attributed to severance of the cervical cord brought on by a neck fracture. The child also sustained a ruptured spleen, abdominal hemorrhage, a compound fracture of the lower right leg, lacerations and contusions of the scalp, and abrasions of the body.

Twigg was taken to County Jail shortly after the tragedy occurred. He was removed to the office of State's Attorney Paul M. Fletcher for interrogation about 7 o'clock last night. About eight other persons were there, including the father and maternal grandfather of the little girl.

Twigg signed a statement in Fletcher's office late last night. He was scheduled for release under $2,000 bond on a charge of manslaughter by motor vehicle, pending either a preliminary hearing in Trial Magistrate's Court or action of the Grand Jury in the January term of Circuit Court starting January 3.

A milk route driver for the Queen City Dairy, Twigg was en route home from work when the accident occurred, he told authorities. Twigg lives in Pennsylvania, about one mile north of the Mason-Dixon Line.

The child's grandfather, Charles R. Himmler, 513 Furnace Street, said the family already had purchased a number of toys for the little girl's Christmas, just two weeks off.

Jean Marie would have been seven years old December 28. The girl had been baptized in St. Patrick's Catholic Church. Surviving besides her parents are one sister, Sharon Louise, and on brother, James Walter; her maternal grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Charles R. Himmler, 513 Furnace Street, and paternal grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Raymond H. Mitchell, who also live on Bedford Road.

The body is at the Hafer Funeral Home.

Interest Shown In New Army Enlistment Plan

A number of inquiries have been received this week at the local Army recruiting station about "Operation Gyroscope," according to M/Sgt. George T. Wells, local recruiter.

This project, the sergeant explained is a new plan to enlist a group of local and area men into a single unit, and keep them together with special assignment to the Third Cavalry Regiment, now stationed at Fort George G. Meade.

Applicants accepted for this special assignment will remain with the regiment, which is scheduled to go to the Zone of Interior on July 1, and will be assigned to Europe, possibly Germany, to replace an outfit there now.

Sgt. Wells said the Third Cavalry has a colorful history and an enviable record. It is over 100 years old and was organized by an act of Congress as a regiment of Mounted Rifles to garrison a line of frontier outposts stretching from Missouri to the Oregon Territory.

The regiment's history includes wars with the Indians, battle in the Civil War, action in the Spanish-American conflict, the Philippine Insurrection, the Mexican border, World War I, and World War II.

Noted regimental commanders include George S. Patton Jr., and Jonathan M. Wainwright.

Buchholtz Asks Information From Sewage Plant Bidders

Street Commissioner William H. Buchholtz said yesterday he is contacting contractors who submitted bids for the construction of the Cumberland sewage treatment plant for information needed in awarding the contract.

JEAN MARIE MITCHELL

He said that in his letters he is seeking information on the types of equipment owned by the contractors and for lists of the big projects which the firms have completed during the past few years.

They are also being asked whether or not they will consider purchasing as many materials as possible locally, in view of the fact that Cumberland has been a distress area for some time.

The firms will also be asked, he said, if they will employ local labor for the project.

Commissioner Buchholtz pointed out yesterday he feels a number of factors should be considered in awarding the pact, other than the low bid, if the best interest of the citizens are to be served.

The primary objective, he added, is to secure the finest job possible for the citizens, since there is only a $25,000 spread between the three lowest bids, and only about $12,000 between the first and the second low.

The low bidder on the project was Moyer Brothers, of Altoona, Pa., who bid $1,531,006. The second low was the $1,543,596 bid submitted by Thompson-Starrett Company, Chicago, and the third the $1,556,575 bid of McIlwee-Courbis Company, Camden, N. J.

Md. Legislators Defer Action On Toll Road Plan

Kimble To Serve On Study Group

BALTIMORE, Dec. 10 (AP)—Plans to set up a special Maryland toll road authority hit a snag in the Legislative Council today, causing the Council to schedule still another meeting in 1954.

The Council, screening and investigative agency of the General Assembly when the assembly is not in session, had hoped to wind up its business at today's meeting.

Instead, it decided to meet sometime during the Christmas holidays to take action on the toll authority proposals and new legislation affecting a Baltimore port authority.

In the meantime a subcommittee of the Council's budget and finance committee will visit toll authority officials in New York, New Jersey and Pennsylvania to report on the operation of toll facilities in those states.

Kimble On Committee

The subcommittee's report will be discussed by the Council before it decides whether to recommend that the 1955 Legislature, scheduled to convene Jan. 5, approve a special toll agency for Maryland.

State Sen. Goldstein (D-Calvert) will head the expedition, which also will include State Sen. Kimble (R-Allegany), Del. Luber (D-Balto. 5th), and Dr. Carl N. Everstine, director of the Department of Legislative Reference. Joseph D. Buscher, special assistant attorney general assigned to the State Roads Commission, also will be invited to make the trip.

One of the points to be covered in the subcommittee study is how the toll road authorities function in relation to the state roads commissions, which in Maryland handle virtually all the work contemplated for the toll agency. The question was raised at a meeting of the budget and finance committee, which first considered the toll authority proposal made by Goldstein.

Would Parallel U.S. 40

Before the Council is a bill authorizing immediate construction of a turnpike parallelling U.S. 40 from Baltimore to the Pennsylvania line in the northeast corner of Maryland. It would be the state's first toll road.

While postponing action on the ticklish toll authority-roads commission question, the Council ducked another controversial proposal which would affect the basic system of regulating how much Marylanders pay for public utilities.

A commission headed by Del. Sklar (D-Balto 4th) had proposed a flexible method of determining a public utility's investment, upon which all utility rates are based, and that the Public Service Commission laws be recodified.

The Council approved the recodification proposal but took no action on the rate-base recommendation "because of the controversial nature of this subject."

Boys Hi-Y Club To Man Kettles

The Boys Hi-Y Club of Fort Hill High School will man Salvation Army kettles on Baltimore Street today, according to Capt. Daniel K. Biggs, commander of the Salvation Ary Citadel.

He said the members of the club volunteered to help solicit funds for the Christmas aid program as a community service.

Perkins Says He Won't Resign As Airport Chairman

Mayor D'Alesandro Defends Appointee

BALTIMORE, Dec. 10 (AP)—Walter F. Perkins, chairman of Baltimore's Airport Board, said today he will not resign his post—a move called for by the State Aviation Commission.

Charles Z. Heskett, of Cumberland, chairman of the aviation commission, made it unanimous today when he joined his four colleagues in calling for Perkins to step down.

The man who named Perkins to the post defended the airport board. Said Mayor Thomas D'Alesandro:

"The Airport Board consists of outstanding, respectable citizens. I have implicit confidence in their ability and judgment."

Perkins was named to a 6-year term in 1950.

Four of the five members of the aviation commission last night called Perkins "arrogant and dictatorial" and asked for his resignation or replacement.

The commission members charged, among other things, that Perkins "does not think or act in the best interests of Baltimore and the aviation industry" and has blocked progress at Friendship International Airport.

Perkins said today he has "no intention of resigning." He said he felt the commission members were "stooping pretty low when they indulge in personal attacks on me."

At Cumberland today, Charles Z. Heskett, chairman of the commission, said he was "thoroughly in accord" with his fellow members. He said Perkins has "unquestionably been an obstructionist to the best interest of Baltimore and the state aviation industry."

The four commission members who leveled the original criticism are Charles Adler Jr., Charles W. Purcell, Charles A. Masson and Ernest L. McLendon.

Other aviation interests who joined in the criticism were Major Edwin Warfield III, commanding officer of the 104th Fighter Squadron of the Maryland National Guard; Sherley Ewing, director of Civl Defense for Maryland, and Arthur B. Price, president of the City Council.

The commission's attack on Perkins blamed him for the denial of Friendship Airport as a site for the National Aircraft Show next year. It also blamed him for denying use of the port as a National Guard jet base and for the failure of the Military Air Transport Service to make the airport a main terminal.

Perkins said the commission was charging "me personally" with decisions he said were made by the board as a whole.

Demand Drops Slightly For Surplus Foods

County Distribution Will Begin Monday

The total registration and certification for the distribution which begins Monday shows that 2,892 families, made up of 9,760 individuals, will get surplus foods this month.

In November 2,952 families, comprising 9,855 people, received the commodities. This is 60 fewer families than last month and 95 fewer individuals.

The decrease was evidenced largely in Westernport and Barton. In these two places, it is indicated recalls to the Keyser shops of the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad, and recalls and new employment at the Celanese Corporation plant here, affected the particular areas.

The distribution schedule includes Westernport at the American Legion Home, Monday; Barton Fire Hall, Tuesday; Lonaconing VFW Home, Wednesday; Midland Fire Hall, Thursday; and St. Michael's Hall, Frostburg, on Friday.

The following week, distribution will begin December 20 at the Community Center in Eckart; December 21 at the VFW Home in Mt. Savage; December 22 at Cresaptown Fire Hall, and December 23 and 24 at the County Garage, Franklin Street here.

Chapman noted that although the County Commissioners have declared December 24 a holiday for county roads personnel, some of the men have volunteered to work that day so eligibles can receive their food before Christmas. County roads employes have been used on all food distributions.

This month the surplus list includes butter, cheese and milk. Shortening was not alloted for December, but Chapman believes it may be available in January.

All distributions begin at 9 a. m.

Local Soldier Wins Army Decoration

Corporal Maurice A. Darr, 339 Frederick Street, has been presented with the Commendation Ribbon with Medal Pendant for meritorious service in Korea, it was announced at Maryland Military District Headquarters in Baltimore, yesterday.

The Cumberland veterans, who served with the Army Medical Service as a member of the Service Battery of the 38th Field Artillery Battalion of the second Infantry Division, distinguished himself with his outstanding service between July 9, 1953 and March 2, 1954.

During that period, said the citation, Corporal Darr served as battery aidman in a superior manner. He assisted the senior aidman in the instruction of first aid, personal hygiene and field sanitation. Maintaining the high standards of medical treatment, the Allegany County medical corpsman gave "excellent supervision" to the evacuation of the seriously wounded and ill.

"At a result of his competence," said the Army, "the maximum number of men were returned to duty, thereby conserving the strength of his unit. The services rendered by Corporal Darr reflect great credit upon himself and the military service."

Daniels who has been collecting Bibles for a decade, has volumes printed in Chinese, Hebrew and several other languages.

High Winds, Snow Are Reported In Nearby Area

Garrett County Gets Heavy White Coating

Points somewhat west of Cumberland reported considerable snow yesterday and last night, but in most of the immediate area the weather was just blustery with high winds.

State Police at the LaVale barracks reported some eight or nine inches of snow through most of Garrett County. Chains were recommended for highway travel west of Frostburg. Elsewhere, especially east of Cumberland, the roads were clear.

At the weather station in Constitution Park, the official high temperature yesterday was 35 and the low 29. At 7:50 p. m the reading was 33. At 6 p. m. the humidity stood at 91 per cent. There was two-tenths of an inch of melted precipitation.

West Virginia State Police at Romney reported the weather was clear there, although winds were high. U. S. Route 50 was clear east of Romney but there was snow from Allegheny Front westward.

Snow was reported in Franklin and Petersburg areas and on the mountain tops closer to Romney.

At Bedford, Pennsylvania State Police said there was a thin covering of snow over much of the area but the roads were in good condition. A few smashed fenders were reported, but there were no serious accidents.

Fire Companies To Discuss Radio

Representatives of volunteer fire companies in Allegany County will meet Sunday at 2 p. m. in the LaVale Fire Hall to discuss further the planned radio network.

David E. Kirk, president of the Allegany and Garrett Counties Firemen's Association, said that all companies which have received forms should return them so that shipment can be completed. It is being held up by the Federal Communications Commission until the necessary forms are received.

William G. Barger, director of Civil Defense for Allegany County, said that the radio for any fire company which fails to turn in its form Sunday will be held up.

Firemen Extinguish Davenport Blaze

Firemen from Central Station were called to 133 Hanover Street at 1:17 p. m. yesterday to extinguish a blaze in a davenport in the dining room.

The fire occurred in a two-story brick dwelling owned and occupied by William J. Hutcheson. Damage was confined to the davenport. Firemen attributed the fire to a burning cigaret. They were at the scene 20 minutes.

Local Man To Show Unusual Bible Collection Tomorrow

By CHARLES H. KELLY
News Staff Writer

An interesting and educational pastime of a local resident is the collection of Bibles—and during the past ten years Stanley T. Daniels has acquired volumes printed in 20 different languages, including a Bible for an African tribe.

Among his books are the familiar large family-type Bible, in which births, marriages and deaths are recorded, and a child's Bible not much larger than a postage stamp. He even possesses the Gospel of St. Luke and St. John printed in Braille.

About a decade ago, while he was a member of the Ellerslie Methodist Church Daniels, now of 130 Bedford Street, was appointed chairman of a Bible Sunday observance marked each year throughout the world in Protestant churches.

He circulated a bulletin among the church members seeking various types of Bibles which would be appropriate for a display. As a reward for his efforts, Daniels was presented a Chinese and a Hebrew Bible by the pastor, Rev. Thomas W. Kemp.

This was the beginning of the fascinating hobby for Daniels. He became so enthusiastic about his pastime that he learned fundamentals of Biblical Hebrew in a course conducted by Rabbi Aaron Lefkowitz, formerly of B'er Chayim Congregation here.

He admits he is not an expert at reading Biblical Hebrew. However, he manages to get along quite well when he picks up a Bible printed in that language.

Daniels plans to display his collection at a service being sponsored tomorrow, Universal Bible Sunday, by the Young Peoples Society of First Church of the Nazarene.

The service, according to Rev. H. E. Heckert, pastor, is planned at 6:30 p. m. Tomorrow is set aside to encourage people to take more interest in reading the Bible. During the course of the evening Daniels will explain the various Bibles in his collection.

Among his prized Bibles is one printed back in the 17th Century, and another is a small white covered book for children. "The Life of Jesus," which is actually not much bigger than a large postage stamp, and one of the smallest such books in the world.

Daniels has the Acts of the Apostles printed in Chinese, and Bibles printed in Japanese, French, German, Indian, Hebrew, Latin and Greek.

His quest for additional Bibles goes on and occasionally he receives a telephone call from residents saying they have a Bible and would like to dispose of it. He gladly picks it up for future displays.

He is looking forward to receiving some Bibles promised by his old acquaintance, Rev. Kemp, who was a chaplain in the South Pacific in World War II, and came across a number of Bibles in his tour of duty.

In order to brighten up his display, Daniels has religious articles including a rosary from Italy which was presented to him by a local priest, and a Chanukah Menorah used during the Feast of Lights in the Jewish liturgy.

When Daniels sets up his collection for public inspection, he usually brings along a microscope. The purpose of the scientific instrument is to allow interested persons to read the Lord's Prayer printed on the end of a 12-point slug about a sixth of an inch square.

Commissioners Get Citizen's Praise For New Road

R. G. Robeson, a member of the Potomac Park Evangelical United Brethren Church, appeared before the Allegany County Board of Commissioners yesterday to thank the commissioners for the "fine road" they have constructed from McMullen Highway back to the church.

Later in the meeting the two holdover commissioners, William H. Lemmert and James Orr, commended County Roads Supervisor J. Walker Chapman on the efficient maner in which he has run the department in the past four years.

Airport Body Okays Sport Car Races

The Municipal Airport Commission last night approved the application of the Cumberland Lions Club to hold its annual Sports Car Races at the airport next May 13 to 15 as a national event.

The action was taken unanimously after the reading of a letter from the Lions Club detailing plans for the national event, which has been held here on a regional basis for the past two years.

The commission recommended that the Mayor and Council grant permission for the use of the airport under the usual conditions of CAA approval and cooperation of the Kelly-Springfield Tire Company, Allegany Airlines and officials at the airport.

Three people met with the commission, headed by Arthur Weber, for preliminary discussions on the operation of the airport at the expiration of the contract of Warren G. Mullenax on February 28.

The applicants were Eugene E. Grabenstein, 541 Fairview Avenue, who appeared with his attorney, Edwin M. Horchler; Mullenax, and Thomas Barton, Pinto, who said he would be associated with Arthur Thrush, who now works out of the Keyser Airport.

All three applicants were asked to submit their propositions in writing prior to the next meeting of the commission on January 7.

B&O Passenger Trains To Sport Yule Decorations

Pasenger trains of the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad will take on a festive appearance on Monday, when holiday decorations will be placed on all through trains to mark the Christmas season.

Holly wreaths will be hung, and ropes of evergreen strung in cars on the Capitol Limited, Columbian, Shenandoah, National Limited, Diplomat and Cincinnatian, as well as the Royal Blue, Ambassador and Marylander.

Junior Badminton Clubs Meet Today

The boys and girls Badminton Clubs, sponsored by the City Recreation Department will meet this afternoon in Fort Hill School gymnasium.

Because of the number taking advantage of the Saturday afternoon recreation, the boys play from 1 to 2:30 and girls 2:30 to 4:30 p. m.

Rackets, birds and instruction are furnished by the Recreation Department and classes are free to all youths from 10 to 18 years old.

Local 26 Elects Delegates To Meeting

Leo Barkman and Raymond C. Adams have been elected delegates from Local 26, Rubber Workers Union (CIO), to a URWA conference in Cleveland January 3 to 7, according to William G. Rice, president.

They will be accompanied by Rice, who will attend as president of the local. Alternates are R. C. Bean and Edward Rosskamp.

County Board, Chamber Group Air Finances

Seek Solution For Loss Of Taxes

A detailed discussion of Allegany County's financial problems featured a two-hour meeting yesterday afternoon between a committee from the Cumberland Chamber of Commerce and the Board of County Commissioners as they attempted to find possible new sources of revenue to make up for industrial tax exemption measures.

C. William Gilchrist, chairman of the committee, submitted to the conferees a collection of figures showing the county's actual total assessable basis ,the assessable basis used for the levy, the tax rate, the levy, revenues and expenditures for the last five years.

He also reported an estimated loss of assessable basis of $8,743,630 as a result of Chapter 592, Acts of 1953, providing that 40 per cent of merchandise inventories are exempt from county taxes, and the loss of assessable basis previously on the books as a result of a retroactive feature of Chapter 18, Acts of 1953, providing tax relief for expansion of existing industry.

Assessable Basis Drops

Supervisor of Assessments Somerville Nicholson offered figures showing that the county's assessable basis has been reduced some $12,000,000 since last year.

Last year, Nicholson said, the county's actual assessable basis was $161,454,073, whereas the basis used in the county's current budget was $140,000,000. The State Tax Commission estimates that the county's actual assessable basis now stands at $149,203,522. Nicholson's own estimates place it at $149,311,197.

This lowered assessable basis means that the county will have a considerably smaller surplus to carry into the fiscal year starting next July 1 than it had this year. This year it was about $652,000.

With an actual assessable basis now only a little over $9,000,000 above the budget assessable basis, the county can expect a surplus of about $162,000, which would be a surplus drop of $490,000. Nicholson estimates it will take an increase in tax rate of about 30 cents to make up the difference if the 1954-55 budget is exactly the same as this year's $3,719,755.31.

Would End Discounts

Commissioner Charles N. Wilkinson offered a resolution which he contends would make up about 12 cents of that requirement. He would eliminate the discount which are allowed for prompt payment of taxes. During the past year discounts totaled about $130,000. That would mean about nine cents on the tax rate.

Flames Destroy Log Dwelling At Lake Koon

He said the fire broke out about 1:30 p. m. and the building burned to the ground in spite of the work of the Bedford and Baltimore Pike volunteer fire companies.

The unoccupied building was being used temporarily as a bunkhouse by crews employed by Charles Simpson, a sawyer who was cutting timber on a contract basis.

Hitchcock said five men who had been staying in the building lost all of their personal belongings in the blaze.

The men had eaten their lunch in the building, he said, and reported the stove was operating satisfactorily when they went back to work at 1 p. m.

About half an hour later, the logging crews saw smoke pouring from the roof. They were unable to halt the fire but they, city crews at the dam, and the firemen who arrived shortly afterwards, prevented the flames from spreading to the nearby saw set and timber land.

Hitchcock said the old log structure burned until 6 p. m. At one time, the home was owned by Jay Zembower, he said.

University May Ask Autonomy Law Change

BALTIMORE, Dec. 10 (AP) — The University of Maryland Board of Regents today directed their chairman to confer with State legislators about proposed changes in the so-called "autonomy" law under which the university operates.

Dr. Wilson H. Elkins, president of the university, was asked to join Judge William P. Cole Jr., chairman of the regents, in discussing the problem with appropriate committees of the General Assembly.

The lawmakers several years ago, largely at the behest of Dr. H. C. Byrd, former university president, enacted legislation under which the school has a large measure of self-government and is not subject to the same controls as other branches of the State government.

When the General Assembly approved this, however, it provided the university must make available to legislators information they asked about the school's operations.

Del. Whitworth (R-Allegany) currently is trying to get by this means a report made several months ago by an accreditation agency which cited several deficiencies in the University and in a sense put it on probation.

The accreditation report was a big talking point in the recent political campaign in which Byrd ran unsuccessfully for governor. Whitworth's attempt to get it through court action is awaiting a judge's decision.

Judge Cole said in connection with today's Board of Regents meeting that the court action makes it necessary for the university to assure the Legislature that there never has been any attempt to withhold information.

"The law should be amended and we should go back to the way we were before," Judge Cole said.

Citing the fact the university is working on some secret research projects for the military services, he said "it is unfortunate some new and special act of the Legislature might possibly embarrass the university."

If the information provision should be strengthened, he suggested, the university might conceivably be stripped of any confidential relationships. This, he said, might break the secrecy of the defense work. Faculty changes and student failures might be used for political purposes.

In other business, Dr. Elkins reported to the regents the university had taken in $235,000 more in fees than it anticipated because of increased enrollment.

The regents notified Baltimore Contractors Ind. to proceed with work on a new $380,000 swimming pool at College Park.

They delayed, however, the start of work on a new $500,000 pharmacy building at the professional schools in Baltimore.

The delay was imposed until the administration decides on details of a new five-year course contemplated at the pharmacy school. There was an objection to a plan to have pharmacy students do both their two years of academic work and their three years of special pharmacy work in Baltimore.

Students at all the other professional schools are required to take their two years of academic work at College Park, it was pointed out. Dr. Louis L. Kaplan, one of the regents, said he could not see why pharmacy students should be excepted.

Girl Killed By Auto On Bedford Road

Driver Posts $2,000 Bond In Accident

A six-year-old girl was killed instantly about 4:10 p. m. yesterday when she was struck by an automobile near her home on Bedford Road a short time after having alighted from a school bus.

She was Jean Marie Mitchell, oldest child of James H. and Jane Ellen (Himmler) Mitchell.

A second grader at Gephart School, the child had ridden the school bus out to the state line and returned to her home, which is on the westerly side of the highway just south of the Bedford Road Baptist Chapel.

State Police said the child walked around the rear of the bus and then crossed the highway toward the family's mailbox situated on the easterly side of the road.

State Trooper First Class J. F. Lewis, who investigated with Trooper L. C. Clark, said the child was about one foot across the center line into the northbound lane of the road when she was struck by a northbound car driven by Lewis Paul Twigg, 22, RFD 3, Bedford Road.

Witnesses said the child's body was carried 70 feet by the impact.

Dr. H. V. Deming, deputy county medical examiner, informed State Police that death was attributed to severance of the cervical cord brought on by a neck fracture. The child also sustained a ruptured spleen, abdominal hemorrhage, a compound fracture of the lower right leg, lacerations and contusions of the scalp, and abrasions of the body.

Twigg was taken to County Jail shortly after the tragedy occurred. He was removed to the office of State's Attorney Paul M. Fletcher for interrogation about 7 o'clock last night. About eight other persons were there, including the father and maternal grandfather of the little girl.

Twigg signed a statement in Fletcher's office late last night. He was scheduled for release under $2,000 bond on a charge of manslaughter by motor vehicle, pending either a preliminary hearing in Trial Magistrate's Court or action of the Grand Jury in the January term of Circuit Court starting January 3.

A milk route driver for the Queen City Dairy, Twigg was en route home from work when the accident occurred, he told authorities. Twigg lives in Pennsylvania, about one mile north of the Mason-Dixon Line.

The child's grandfather, Charles R. Himmler, 513 Furnace Street, said the family already had purchased a number of toys for the little girl's Christmas, just two weeks off.

Jean Marie would have been seven years old December 28. The girl had been baptized in St. Patrick's Catholic Church. Surviving besides her parents are one sister, Sharon Louise, and on brother, James Walter; her maternal grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Charles R. Himmler, 513 Furnace Street, and paternal grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Raymond H. Mitchell, who also live on Bedford Road.

The body is at the Hafer Funeral Home.

Interest Shown In New Army Enlistment Plan

A number of inquiries have been received this week at the local Army recruiting station about "Operation Gyroscope," according to M/Sgt. George T. Wells, local recruiter.

This project, the sergeant explained is a new plan to enlist a group of local and area men into a single unit, and keep them together with special assignment to the Third Cavalry Regiment, now stationed at Fort George G. Meade.

Applicants accepted for this special assignment will remain with the regiment, which is scheduled to go to the Zone of Interior on July 1, and will be assigned to Europe, possibly Germany, to replace an outfit there now.

Sgt. Wells said the Third Cavalry has a colorful history and an enviable record. It is over 100 years old and was organized by an act of Congress as a regiment of Mounted Rifles to garrison a line of frontier outposts stretching from Missouri to the Oregon Territory.

The regiment's history includes wars with the Indians, battle in the Civil War, action in the Spanish-American conflict, the Philippine Insurrection, the Mexican border, World War I, and World War II.

Noted regimental commanders include George S. Patton Jr., and Jonathan M. Wainwright.

Buchholtz Asks Information From Sewage Plant Bidders

Street Commissioner William H. Buchholtz said yesterday he is contacting contractors who submitted bids for the construction of the Cumberland sewage treatment plant for information needed in awarding the contract.

JEAN MARIE MITCHELL

He said that in his letters he is seeking information on the types of equipment owned by the contractors and for lists of the big projects which the firms have completed during the past few years.

They are also being asked whether or not they will consider purchasing as many materials as possible locally, in view of the fact that Cumberland has been a distress area for some time.

The firms will also be asked, he said, if they will employ local labor for the project.

Commissioner Buchholtz pointed out yesterday he feels a number of factors should be considered in awarding the pact, other than the low bid, if the best interest of the citizens are to be served.

The primary objective, he added, is to secure the finest job possible for the citizens, since there is only a $25,000 spread between the three lowest bids, and only about $12,000 between the first and the second low.

The low bidder on the project was Moyer Brothers, of Altoona, Pa., who bid $1,531,006. The second low was the $1,543,596 bid submitted by Thompson-Starrett Company, Chicago, and the third the $1,556,575 bid of McIlwee-Courbis Company, Camden, N. J.

Md. Legislators Defer Action On Toll Road Plan

Kimble To Serve On Study Group

BALTIMORE, Dec. 10 (AP)—Plans to set up a special Maryland toll road authority hit a snag in the Legislative Council today, causing the Council to schedule still another meeting in 1954.

The Council, screening and investigative agency of the General Assembly when the assembly is not in session, had hoped to wind up its business at today's meeting.

Instead, it decided to meet sometime during the Christmas holidays to take action on the toll authority proposals and new legislation affecting a Baltimore port authority.

In the meantime a subcommittee of the Council's budget and finance committee will visit toll authority officials in New York, New Jersey and Pennsylvania to report on the operation of toll facilities in those states.

Kimble On Committee

The subcommittee's report will be discussed by the Council before it decides whether to recommend that the 1955 Legislature, scheduled to convene Jan. 5, approve a special toll agency for Maryland.

State Sen. Goldstein (D-Calvert) will head the expedition, which also will include State Sen. Kimble (R-Allegany), Del. Luber (D-Balto. 5th), and Dr. Carl N. Everstine, director of the Department of Legislative Reference. Joseph D. Buscher, special assistant attorney general assigned to the State Roads Commission, also will be invited to make the trip.

One of the points to be covered in the subcommittee study is how the toll road authorities function in relation to the state roads commissions, which in Maryland handle virtually all the work contemplated for the toll agency. The question was raised at a meeting of the budget and finance committee, which first considered the toll authority proposal made by Goldstein.

Would Parallel U.S. 40

Before the Council is a bill authorizing immediate construction of a turnpike parallelling U.S. 40 from Baltimore to the Pennsylvania line in the northeast corner of Maryland. It would be the state's first toll road.

While postponing action on the ticklish toll authority-roads commission question, the Council ducked another controversial proposal which would affect the basic system of regulating how much Marylanders pay for public utilities.

A commission headed by Del. Sklar (D-Balto 4th) had proposed a flexible method of determining a public utility's investment, upon which all utility rates are based, and that the Public Service Commission laws be recodified.

The Council approved the recodification proposal but took no action on the rate-base recommendation "because of the controversial nature of this subject."

Boys Hi-Y Club To Man Kettles

The Boys Hi-Y Club of Fort Hill High School will man Salvation Army kettles on Baltimore Street today, according to Capt. Daniel K. Biggs, commander of the Salvation Ary Citadel.

He said the members of the club volunteered to help solicit funds for the Christmas aid program as a community service.

Perkins Says He Won't Resign As Airport Chairman

Mayor D'Alesandro Defends Appointee

BALTIMORE, Dec. 10 (AP)—Walter F. Perkins, chairman of Baltimore's Airport Board, said today he will not resign his post—a move called for by the State Aviation Commission.

Charles Z. Heskett, of Cumberland, chairman of the aviation commission, made it unanimous today when he joined his four colleagues in calling for Perkins to step down.

Other aviation interests also have joined in criticism of the Baltimore official.

The man who named Perkins to the post defended the airport board. Said Mayor Thomas D'Alesandro:

"The Airport Board consists of outstanding, respectable citizens. I have implicit confidence in their ability and judgment."

Perkins was named to a 6-year term in 1950.

Four of the five members of the aviation commission last night called Perkins "arrogant and dictatorial" and asked for his resignation or replacement.

The commission members charged, among other things, that Perkins "does not think or act in the best interests of Baltimore and the aviation industry" and has blocked progress at Friendship International Airport.

Perkins said today he has "no intention of resigning." He said he felt the commission members were "stooping pretty low when they indulge in personal attacks on me."

At Cumberland today, Charles Z. Heskett, chairman of the commission, said he was "thoroughly in accord" with his fellow members. He said Perkins has "unquestionably been an obstructionist to the best interest of Baltimore and the state aviation industry."

The four commission members who leveled the original criticism are Charles Adler Jr., Charles W. Purcell, Charles A. Masson and Ernest L. McLendon.

Other aviation interests who joined in the criticism were Major Edwin Warfield III, commanding officer of the 104th Fighter Squadron of the Maryland National Guard; Sherley Ewing, director of Civl Defense for Maryland, and Arthur B. Price, president of the City Council.

The commission's attack on Perkins blamed him for the denial of Friendship Airport as a site for the National Aircraft Show next year. It also blamed him for denying use of the port as a National Guard jet base and for the failure of the Military Air Transport Service to make the airport a main terminal.

Perkins said the commission was charging "me personally" with decisions he said were made by the board as a whole.

Demand Drops Slightly For Surplus Foods

County Distribution Will Begin Monday

Requests for surplus food commodities in December are a little below the November figure according to J. Walker Chapman, who supervises the distribution.

The total registration and certification for the distribution which begins Monday shows that 2,892 families, made up of 9,760 individuals, will get surplus foods this month.

In November 2,952 families, comprising 9,855 people, received the commodities. This is 60 fewer families than last month and 95 fewer individuals.

The decrease was evidenced largely in Westernport and Barton. In these two places, it is indicated recalls to the Keyser shops of the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad, and recalls and new employment at the Celanese Corporation plant here, affected the particular areas.

The distribution schedule includes Westernport at the American Legion Home, Monday; Barton Fire Hall, Tuesday; Lonaconing VFW Home, Wednesday; Midland Fire Hall, Thursday; and St. Michael's Hall, Frostburg, on Friday.

The following week, distribution will begin December 20 at the Community Center in Eckart; December 21 at the VFW Home in Mt. Savage; December 22 at Cresaptown Fire Hall, and December 23 and 24 at the County Garage, Franklin Street here.

Chapman noted that although the County Commissioners have declared December 24 a holiday for county roads personnel, some of the men have volunteered to work that day so eligibles can receive their food before Christmas. County roads employes have been used on all food distributions.

This month the surplus list includes butter, cheese and milk. Shortening was not alloted for December, but Chapman believes it may be available in January.

All distributions begin at 9 a. m.

Local Soldier Wins Army Decoration

Corporal Maurice A. Darr, 339 Frederick Street, has been presented with the Commendation Ribbon with Medal Pendant for meritorious service in Korea, it was announced at Maryland Military District Headquarters in Baltimore, yesterday.

The Cumberland veterans, who served with the Army Medical Service as a member of the Service Battery of the 38th Field Artillery Battalion of the second Infantry Division, distinguished himself with his outstanding service between July 9, 1953 and March 2, 195..

During that period, said the citation, Corporal Darr served as battery aidman in a superior manner. He assisted the senior aidman in the instruction of first aid, personal hygiene and field sanitation. Maintaining the high standards of medical treatment, the Allegany County medical corpsman gave "excellent supervision" to the evacuation of the seriously wounded and ill.

"At a result of his competence," said the Army, "the maximum number of men were returned to duty, thereby conserving the strength of his unit. The services rendered by Corporal Darr reflect great credit upon himself and the military service."

Snow was reported in Franklin and Petersburg areas and on the mountain tops closer to Romney.

At Bedford, Pennsylvania State Police said there was a thin covering of snow over much of the area but the roads were in good condition. A few smashed fenders were reported, but there were no serious accidents.

Fire Companies To Discuss Radio

Representatives of volunteer fire companies in Allegany County will meet Sunday at 2 p. m. in the LaVale Fire Hall to discuss further the planned radio network.

David E. Kirk, president of the Allegany and Garrett Counties Firemen's Association, said that all companies which have received forms should return them so that shipment can be completed. It is being held up by the Federal Communications Commission until the necessary forms are received.

William G. Barger, director of Civil Defense for Allegany County, said that the radio for any fire company which fails to turn in its form Sunday will be held up.

Firemen Extinguish Davenport Blaze

Firemen from Central Station were called to 133 Hanover Street at 1:17 p. m. yesterday to extinguish a blaze in a davenport in the dining room.

The fire occurred in a two-story brick dwelling owned and occupied by William J. Hutcheson. Damage was confined to the davenport. Firemen attributed the fire to a burning cigaret. They were at the scene 20 minutes.

When Daniels sets up his collection for public inspection, he usually brings along a microscope. The purpose of the scientific instrument is to allow interested persons to read the Lord's Prayer printed on the end of a 12-point slug about a sixth of an inch square.

Commissioners Get Citizen's Praise For New Road

R. G. Robeson, a member of the Potomac Park Evangelical United Brethren Church, appeared before the Allegany County Board of Commissioners yesterday to thank the commissioners for the "fine road" they have constructed from McMullen Highway back to the church.

Later in the meeting the two holdover commissioners, William H. Lemmert and James Orr, commended County Roads Supervisor J. Walker Chapman on the efficient maner in which he has run the department in the past four years.

Airport Body Okays Sport Car Races

The Municipal Airport Commission last night approved the application of the Cumberland Lions Club to hold its annual Sports Car Races at the airport next May 13 to 15 as a national event.

The action was taken unanimously after the reading of a letter from the Lions Club detailing plans for the national event, which has been held here on a regional basis for the past two years.

The commission recommended that the Mayor and Council grant permission for the use of the airport under the usual conditions of CAA approval and cooperation of the Kelly-Springfield Tire Company, Allegany Airlines and officials at the airport.

Three people met with the commission, headed by Arthur Weber, for preliminary discussions on the operation of the airport at the expiration of the contract of Warren G. Mullenax on February 28.

The applicants were Eugene E. Grabenstein, 541 Fairview Avenue, who appeared with his attorney, Edwin M. Horchler; Mullenax, and Thomas Barton, Pinto, who said he would be associated with Arthur Thrush, who now works out of the Keyser Airport.

All three applicants were asked to submit their propositions in writing prior to the next meeting of the commission on January 7.

B&O Passenger Trains To Sport Yule Decorations

Seek Solution For Loss Of Taxes

A detailed discussion of Allegany County's financial problems featured a two-hour meeting yesterday afternoon between a committee from the Cumberland Chamber of Commerce and the Board of County Commissioners as they attempted to find possible new sources of revenue to make up for industrial tax exemption measures.

C. William Gilchrist, chairman of the committee, submitted to the conferees a collection of figures showing the county's actual total assessable basis ,the assessable basis used for the levy, the tax rate, the levy, revenues and expenditures for the last five years.

He also reported an estimated loss of assessable basis of $8,743,630 as a result of Chapter 592, Acts of 1953, providing that 40 per cent of merchandise inventories are exempt from county taxes, and the loss of assessable basis previously on the books as a result of a retroactive feature of Chapter 18, Acts of 1953, providing tax relief for expansion of existing industry.

Assessable Basis Drops

Supervisor of Assessments Somerville Nicholson offered figures showing that the county's assessable basis has been reduced some $12,000,000 since last year.

Last year, Nicholson said, the county's actual assessable basis was $161,454,073, whereas the basis used in the county's current budget was $140,000,000. The State Tax Commission estimates that the county's actual assessable basis now stands at $149,203,522. Nicholson's own estimates place it at $149,311,197.

This lowered assessable basis means that the county will have a considerably smaller surplus to carry into the fiscal year starting next July 1 than it had this year. This year it was about $652,000.

With an actual assessable basis now only a little over $9,000,000 above the budget assessable basis, the county can expect a surplus of about $162,000, which would be a surplus drop of $490,000. Nicholson estimates it will take an increase in tax rate of about 30 cents to make up the difference if the 1954-55 budget is exactly the same as this year's $3,719,755.31.

Would End Discounts

Commissioner Charles N. Wilkinson offered a resolution which he contends would make up about 12 cents of that requirement. He would eliminate the discount which are allowed for prompt payment of taxes. During the past year discounts totaled about $130,000. That would mean about nine cents on the tax rate.

Flames Destroy Log Dwelling At Lake Koon

A log cabin located on the property of the Evitts Creek Water Company burned to the ground Monday as a result of a fire of undetermined origin.

George M. Hitchcock, superintendent, said the log cabin structure located on the former Uppie farm just above Lake Koon, was fully covered by insurance.

He said the fire broke out about 1:30 p. m. and the building burned to the ground in spite of the work of the Bedford and Baltimore Pike volunteer fire companies.

The unoccupied building was being used temporarily as a bunkhouse by crews employed by Charles Simpson, a sawyer who was cutting timber on a contract basis.

Hitchcock said five men who had been staying in the building lost all of their personal belongings in the blaze.

The men had eaten their lunch in the building, he said, and reported the stove was operating satisfactorily when they went back to work at 1 p. m.

About half an hour later, the logging crews saw smoke pouring from the roof. They were unable to halt the fire but they, city crews at the dam, and the firemen who arrived shortly afterwards, prevented the flames from spreading to the nearby saw set and timber land.

Hitchcock said the old log structure burned until 6 p. m. At one time, the home was owned by Jay Zembower, he said.

University May Ask Autonomy Law Change

BALTIMORE, Dec. 10 (AP) — The University of Maryland Board of Regents today directed their chairman to confer with State legislators about proposed changes in the so-called "autonomy" law under which the university operates.

Dr. Wilson H. Elkins, president of the university, was asked to join Judge William P. Cole Jr., chairman of the regents, in discussing the problem with appropriate committees of the General Assembly.

The lawmakers several years ago, largely at the behest of Dr. H. C. Byrd, former university president, enacted legislation under which the school has a large measure of self-government and is not subject to the same controls as other branches of the State government.

When the General Assembly approved this, however, it provided the university must make available to legislators information they asked about the school's operations.

Del. Whitworth (R-Allegany) currently is trying to get by this means a report made several months ago by an accreditation agency which cited several deficiencies in the University and in a sense put it on probation.

The accreditation report was a big talking point in the recent political campaign in which Byrd ran unsuccessfully for governor. Whitworth's attempt to get it through court action is awaiting a judge's decision.

Judge Cole said in connection with today's Board of Regents meeting that the court action makes it necessary for the university to assure the Legislature that there never has been any attempt to withhold information.

"The law should be amended and we should go back to the way we were before," Judge Cole said.

Citing the fact the university is working on some secret research projects for the military services, he said "it is unfortunate some new and special act of the Legislature might possibly embarrass the university."

If the information provision should be strengthened, he suggested, the university might conceivably be stripped of any confidential relationships. This, he said, might break the secrecy of the defense work. Faculty changes and student failures might be used for political purposes.

In other business, Dr. Elkins reported to the regents the university had taken in $235,000 more in fees than it anticipated because of increased enrollment.

The regents notified Baltimore Contractors Ind. to proceed with work on a new $380,000 swimming pool at College Park.

They delayed, however, the start of work on a new $500,000 pharmacy building at the professional schools in Baltimore.

The delay was imposed until the administration decides on details of a new five-year course contemplated at the pharmacy school. There was an objection to a plan to have pharmacy students do both their two years of academic work and their three years of special pharmacy work in Baltimore.

Students at all the other professional schools are required to take their two years of academic work at College Park, it was pointed out. Dr. Louis L. Kaplan, one of the regents, said he could not see why pharmacy students should be excepted.
